Substance des règles et formes de procéder du Sénat concernant les bills de divorce.

L'époux qui a l'intention de demander un bill de divorce doit faire connaître cette intention, ainsi que les noms de l'autre époux et la cause du divorce, par avis inséré durant six mois avant la présentation de sa pétition pour obtenir le bill, dans la Gazette du Canada et dans deux journaux du district où il avait sa résidence habituelle à l'époque de séparation d'avec son conjoint, s'il résidait alors dans la province de Québec, le Manitoba, la Colombie Britannique, ou les Territoires du Nord-Ouest,—ou du comté ou des comtés-unis, s'il résidait dans une autre province ; mais si ce nombre de journaux ne s'y trouve pas, l'avis sera publié dans le district, le comté ou les comtés-unis voisins. Dans les provinces de Québec et de Manitoba, les insertions seront faites dans un journal anglais et un journal français, s'il en existe des deux langues dans le district : autrement, elles se feront en anglais et en français au même journal.

Il doit être signifié, à la diligence de l'époux pétitionnaire, un mois au moins avant la présentation de la pétition, une copie de cet avis à l'autre époux en personne, si cela est possible.

Aucune pétition en divorce n'est reçue après l'expiration des trente premiers jours de la session.

Toute pétition en divorce devra être écrite lisiblement et porter la signature du pétitionnaire. Elle énoncera sommairement le fait du mariage, le lieu et l'époque de sa célébration, les noms du célébrant, les griefs qui donnent lieu à la demande de redressement et la nature du redressement demandé, et en outre contiendra assurance qu'il n'y a pas eu réconciliation, collusion ni connivence. Les allégations de la pétition seront appuyées de la déclaration du pétitionnaire faite en vertu de "l'Acte de la preuve en Canada, 1893."

Huit jours avant l'ouverture du Parlement, le pétitionnaire déposera au bureau du greffier du Sénat, une copie en langue anglaise ou française du bill de divorce qui doit être présenté, et en même temps une somme suffisante pour payer la traduction et l'impression et tirage à 600 exemplaires anglais et 200 exemplaires français de ce bill.

La pétition en obtention d'un bill de divorce n'est présentée que lorsque le pétitionnaire a versé au bureau du greffier du Sénat une somme de $200.

The 29th day of January, 1904.

PRESENT :

THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS by an Order in Council dated the 17th day of March, 1875, after reciting that by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it was enacted that, whenever it was made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act, had been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and were in force in that country, it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to direct that the ships of such foreign country should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, and thereupon it should no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships was to be deemed the tonnage of such ships, and reciting that it had been made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships then in force under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Spain, with the exception of a difference in the mode in certain steamers of estimating the allowance for engine room, and such rules were then in force in that country, having come into operation on the 2nd day of December, 1874, Her Majesty was thereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as follows :—

1. As regards sailing ships, that merchant sailing ships of the said Kingdom of Spain, the measurement whereof after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, had been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such sailing ships, testified by the date thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers and other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British sailing ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships.
2. As regards steamships, that merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Spain which were propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine room, the measurement whereof should, after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, have been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such steam ships, testified by the dates thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers or other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships. Provided, nevertheless, that if the owner or master of any such Spanish steam ship desired the deduction for engine room in his ships to be estimated under the rules for engine room measurement and deduction applicable to British ships instead of under the Spanish rule, the engine room should be measured and the deduction calculated according to the British rules.

And whereas the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, was repealed by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, but by section 745 of the latter Act it is amongst other things provided that any Order in Council made under any enactment thereby repealed shall continue in force as if it had been made under the said Act of 1894 :

84.—(1.) Whenever it appears to Her Majesty the Queen in Council that the tonnage regulations of this Act have been adopted by any foreign country, and are in force there, Her Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being remeasured in Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

(2.) Her Majesty in Council may limit the time during which the Order is to remain in operation, and make the Order subject to such conditions and qualifications (if any) as Her Majesty may deem expedient, and the operation of the Order shall be limited and modified accordingly.

(3.) If it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the tonnage of any foreign ship, as measured by the rules of the country to which she belongs, materially differs from that which would be her tonnage if measured under this Act, Her Majesty in Council may order that, notwithstanding any Order in Council for the time being in force under this section, any of the ships of that country may, for all or any of the purposes of this Act, be remeasured in accordance with this Act.

And whereas by section 30 of the Interpretation Act, 1889, it is enacted that in that Act, and in every other Act whether passed before or after the commencement of that Act, references to the Sovereign reigning at the time of the passing of the Act or to the Crown shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as references to the Sovereign for the time being, and that Act shall be binding on the Crown:

And whereas it has been made to appear to His present Majesty that the tonnage of Spanish ships as measured by the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships of Spain materially differs from that which would be the tonnage of such ships if measured under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 :

Now, therefore, His Majesty in Council doth Order that notwithstanding the hereinbefore recited Order in Council dated the 17th day of March 1875, any of the ships of Spain may for all or any of the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, be remeasured in accordance with the said Act.

ON a Report dated 5th February, 1904, from the Minister of the Interior, stating that Mr. Hewitt Bostock of Monte Creek in British Columbia has requested to be allowed to purchase the following lands in the "Forty Mile Railway Belt" in the said Province, the lands being of inferior quality and only fit for grazing purposes he has offered $2.00 per acre for them. The Homestead Inspector has examined and reported upon these lands and states that they can be considered of very little value except for grazing purposes, and as such grazing lands they cannot be considered valuable at present owing to the fact that the natural grasses have all been killed and are not in his opinion worth more per acre than offered by Mr. Bostock. The lands are as follows :—

E. ½ of Section	28	320 acres.
S. W. ¼ "	28	160 "
W. ½ "	27	320 "
W. ½ of S. E. ¼	27	80 "

Bayne, Dominion Land Surveyor, on the 14th day of June, A.D. 1894, of record in the Department of the Interior under number 7,480, a duplicate whereof is on file in the Land Titles Office for the South Alberta Land Registration District at Calgary as plan number Ry. 10 under section 134 of The Railway Act, 1888, said point being distant 43,768 feet measured easterly along said centre line from the eastern boundary of Section 26, Township 25, Range 13, west 5th Meridian, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 300 feet the said circle having its centre towards the west and having a radius of 764½ feet and being so drawn that the said centre line of the main line of The Canadian Pacific Railway shall be tangent thereto at the point of commencement; thence north 12° 45′ east astronomically a distance of 680 feet, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 1,100 feet, the said circle having a radius of 5,730 feet and having its centre towards the east and being so drawn that the preceding course shall be tangent thereto, thence north 23° 45′ east astronomically a distance of 2,640 feet, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 825 feet, said circle having a radius of 1,433 feet and having its centre towards the west and being so drawn that the preceding course shall be tangent thereto, thence north 9° 15′ west astronomically a distance of 230 feet, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 1,583·3 feet said circle having a radius of 2,865 feet and having its centre towards the east and being so drawn that the preceding course shall be tangent thereto, thence north 22° 25′ east astronomically a distance of 1,980·2 feet, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 995·8 feet said circle having a radius of 1,433 feet and having its centre towards the east and being so drawn that the preceding course shall be tangent thereto, thence in a northerly direction following the circumference of a circle a distance of 225·7 feet to a point said circle having a radius of 1,433 feet and having its centre towards the west and being so drawn that it shall have a common tangent with the last described circle. The said tract or parcel of land being bounded towards the north by the radius of the last described circle drawn through the terminal point and being bounded towards the south by the northern limit of the land taken for right of the way of the main line of said railway as above described. The land hereby described containing by admeasurement twenty-three and nine-hundreths (23·09) acres, more or less, and being shown coloured pink on a copy of the plan of said spur line hereto attached.

The Minister recommends that the company be allowed to construct and operate the said spur line upon the understanding that they are to carry on their mining operations within the said tract as outlined in pink and in accordance with the provisions of the license to mine coal within the Rocky Mountains Park of Canada, authorized by Order in Council bearing date the 12th of June, 1902, in so far as these provisions are applicable.

DÉPÊCHES, Etc.

AU PALAIS DE BUCKINGHAM,

Le 29e jour de janvier 1904.

PRESENT :

SA TRÈS EXCELLENTE MAJESTÉ LE ROI EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que par un arrêté en conseil daté le 17e jour de mars 1875, il est dit que par l'Acte modificatif de l'Acte de la marine marchande, 1862, il est statué que lorsqu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur en vertu de l'acte principal, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement d'un pays étranger et sont en vigueur dans ce pays, il sera loisible à Sa Majesté de déclarer, par un arrêté en conseil, que les bâtiments de ce pays étranger seront censés avoir le tonnage indiqué sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers nationaux, et que dès lors il ne sera plus nécessaire pour ces bâtiments d'être mesurés de nouveau dans un port ou lieu quelconque des possessions de Sa Majesté, mais que ces bâtiments seront censés être du tonnage inscrit sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers, de la même manière, au même degré et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur les certificats d'enregistrement des bâtiments britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces bâtiments.

Et qu'il a été représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur sous l'autorité de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1854, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement de Sa Majesté le roi d'Espagne, à l'exception d'une différence dans le mode adopté par certains vapeurs d'estimer l'espace pour la chambre des machines, et que ces règlements étaient alors en vigueur dans ce pays-là et sont entrés en vigueur le 2e jour de décembre 1874 ;

2. En ce qui concerne les navires à vapeur : Que les navires marchands appartenant au Royaume d'Espagne, et mûs par la vapeur ou autre force motrice exigeant une chambre des machines, et dont le mesurage, le et après le 2e jour de décembre 1874, a été déterminé et inscrit dans les registres et autres documents nationaux du bord, attestés par leurs dates, seront censés être du tonnage inscrit dans ces registres ou autres documents nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré, et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur le certificat d'enregistrement des navires britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces navires ; pourvu, toutefois, que si le propriétaire ou capitaine d'un navire à vapeur espagnol désire que la déduction pour la chambre des machines dans son navire soit évaluée suivant les règlements concernant le mesurage de la chambre des machines et la déduction applicables aux vapeurs britanniques, plutôt que d'après les règlements espagnols, la chambre des machines sera mesurée et la déduction sera calculée suivant les règlements britanniques.

Et considérant que l'Acte modificatif de la marine marchande de 1862 a été abrogé par l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894, mais que par l'article 745 de ce dernier acte il est entre autres choses statué que tout arrêté en conseil rendu en vertu d'un statut abrogé par le présent acte continuera en vigueur comme s'il avait été fait en vertu du dit acte de 1894.

(2.) Sa Majesté en conseil pourra limiter le temps durant lequel l'arrêté restera en opération, et rendra l'arrêté sujet aux conditions et qualifications (si aucun il y a) que Sa Majesté jugera expédient, et l'opération de l'arrêté sera limitée et modifiée en conséquence.

(3.) Toute et chaque fois qu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que le tonnage d'un navire étranger, tel que mesuré d'après les règlements de son pays, diffère essentiellement de ce que serait son tonnage s'il était mesuré en vertu du présent acte, Sa Majesté pourra, par arrêté en conseil, ordonner que nonobstant tout arrêté en conseil alors en vigueur en vertu du présent article tout navire de ce pays étranger pourra, pour toutes les fins du présent acte, être remesuré en conformité du présent acte.

Et considérant que par l'article 30 de l'Acte d'interprétation de 1889, il est statué que dans le dit acte et dans tout acte passé soit avant soit après le commencement du dit acte, les expressions "souverain régnant à l'époque de l'adoption de l'acte," ou "la Couronne" seront censées jusqu'à preuve du contraire signifier le Souverain alors régnant, et le dit acte sera obligatoire pour la Couronne.

Et considérant qu'il appert à Sa Majesté que le tonnage des navires espagnols, tels que mesurés d'après les règles concernant le mesurage du tonnage des navires marchands d'Espagne diffère essentiellement de ce que serait le tonnage de ces navires s'ils étaient mesurés en vertu de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894 :

40-3 A. W. FITZROY.

Circulaire.

DOWNING STREET,
8 mars 1904.

MONSIEUR,—Relativement à ma dépêche circulaire du 12 du mois dernier, au sujet des règles pour l'observance des devoirs de neutralité qui seront en vigueur tant que durera la guerre entre la Russie et le Japon, j'ai l'honneur de vous transmettre pour le renseignement de votre gouvernement et pour la publication que vous jugerez à propos, copie d'un avis donnant le texte d'un télégramme du ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio relatif à une notification émise par le gouvernement japonais le 10 du mois dernier, concernant les objets que ce gouvernement considère contrebande de guerre et l'établissement d'un tribunal des prises à Sasebo.

J'ai l'honneur d'être,
Monsieur,
Votre très humble serviteur,
ALFRED LYTTELTON.

A l'Administrateur

EXTRAIT DE LA LONDON GAZETTE, DATÉE VENDREDI LE 19 FÉVRIER 1904.

FOREIGN OFFICE,

LE Secrétaire d'État de Sa Majesté pour les affaires étrangères a reçu de Sir Claude MacDonald, ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio, le télégramme suivant en réponse à des questions à lui adressées sur les intentions du gouvernement japonais au sujet de la contrebande de guerre et de l'établissement de tribunaux des prises :—

"Notification publiée le 10 février. Contrebande de guerre divisée en deux catégories :—

"Première catégorie.—Armes militaires, munitions, explosifs, et matériel, y compris plomb, salpêtre, soufre, etc., et les instruments pour les faire, uniformes, navals et militaires, fourniments militaires, machines blindées, et matériaux pour la construction et l'équipement des navires de guerre, et tous autres objets qui, bien que n'étant pas sur cette liste, sont destinés uniquement à servir en guerre. Les articles susdit seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils traverseront ou seront destinés à l'armée, la marine ou le territoire ennemi.

"Deuxième catégorie.—Les provisions, breuvages, chevaux, harnais, fourrage, véhicules, charbon, bois de construction, monnaies, lingots d'or et d'argent, et matériaux pour la construction des télégraphes, téléphones et chemins de fer. Les articles sus-mentionnés seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils sont destinés à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi ou lorsque ces articles arrivant au territoire ennemi, il y a raison de croire qu'ils sont destinés à servir à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi. Exception faite des articles évidemment destinés à servir au navire qui les transporte.

2. Chaque vétérinaire exerçant en Canada, dès qu'il a constaté qu'un animal souffre de la gale, devra pareillement en avertir le Ministre ainsi que l'inspecteur-vétérinaire le plus voisin.

4. Quiconque a en sa possession, ou garde un animal atteint de la gale, devra immédiatement le faire soigner d'une manière satisfaisante au plus proche inspecteur-vétérinaire ou autre personne dûment autorisée.

9. Aucun animal ne sera sorti d'un lieu infecté sans la permission écrite d'un inspecteur ou autre personne dûment autorisée.

10. Chaque cour, écurie, appentis, ou autre endroit local, et chaque wagon, charrette, char ou autre véhicule, et chaque vaisseau infecté de la gale, sera parfaitement nettoyé et désinfecté à la satisfaction d'un inspecteur-vétérinaire ou autre personne dûment autorisée.

11. L'inspecteur-vétérinaire chef pourra, de temps à autre, faire abattre les animaux qui sont atteints de la gale ou qui y ont été exposés, ou autrement en disposer.

Dans les provinces de Québec et de Manitoba, les insertions seront faites dans un journal anglais et un journal français, s'il en existe des deux langues dans le district : autrement, elles se feront en anglais et en français au même journal.

Les allégations de la pétition seront appuyées de la déclaration du pétitionnaire faite en vertu de "l'Acte de la preuve en Canada, 1893."

DESPATCHES, ETC.

AT THE COURT AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

PRESENT :

THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS by an Order in Council dated the 17th day of March, 1875, after reciting that by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it was enacted that, whenever it was made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act, had been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and were in force in that country, it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to direct that the ships of such foreign country should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, and thereupon it should no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships was to be deemed the tonnage of such ships, and reciting that it had been made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships then in force under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Spain, with the exception of a difference in the mode in certain steamers of estimating the allowance for engine room, and such rules were then in force in that country, having come into operation on the 2nd day of December, 1874, Her Majesty was thereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as follows :—

1. As regards sailing ships, that merchant sailing ships of the said Kingdom of Spain, the measurement whereof after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, had been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such sailing ships, testified by the date thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers and other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British sailing ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships.
2. As regards steamships, that merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Spain which were propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine room, the measurement whereof should, after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, have been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such steam ships, testified by the dates thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers or other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships. Provided, nevertheless, that if the owner or master of any such Spanish steam ship desired the deduction for engine room in his ships to be estimated under the rules for engine room measurement and deduction applicable to British ships instead of under the Spanish rule, the engine room should be measured and the deduction calculated according to the British rules.

And whereas the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, was repealed by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, but by section 745 of the latter Act it is amongst other things provided that any Order in Council made under any enactment thereby repealed shall continue in force as if it had been made under the said Act of 1894 :

84.—(1.) Whenever it appears to Her Majesty the Queen in Council that the tonnage regulations of this Act have been adopted by any foreign country, and are in force there, Her Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being remeasured in Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

(2.) Her Majesty in Council may limit the time during which the Order is to remain in operation, and make the Order subject to such conditions and qualifications (if any) as Her Majesty may deem expedient, and the operation of the Order shall be limited and modified accordingly.

(3.) If it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the tonnage of any foreign ship, as measured by the rules of the country to which she belongs, materially differs from that which would be her tonnage if measured under this Act, Her Majesty in Council may order that, notwithstanding any Order in Council for the time being in force under this section, any of the ships of that country may, for all or any of the purposes of this Act, be remeasured in accordance with this Act.

And whereas by section 30 of the Interpretation Act, 1889, it is enacted that in that Act, and in every other Act whether passed before or after the commencement of that Act, references to the Sovereign reigning at the time of the passing of the Act or to the Crown shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as references to the Sovereign for the time being, and that Act shall be binding on the Crown:

And whereas it has been made to appear to His present Majesty that the tonnage of Spanish ships as measured by the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships of Spain materially differs from that which would be the tonnage of such ships if measured under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 :

Now, therefore, His Majesty in Council doth Order that notwithstanding the hereinbefore recited Order in Council dated the 17th day of March 1875, any of the ships of Spain may for all or any of the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, be remeasured in accordance with the said Act.

The Homestead Inspector has examined and reported upon these lands and states that they can be considered of very little value except for grazing purposes, and as such grazing lands they cannot be considered valuable at present owing to the fact that the natural grasses have all been killed and are not in his opinion worth more per acre than offered by Mr. Bostock. The lands are as follows :—

E. ½ of Section	28	320 acres.
W. ½ "	27	320 "

The lighthouse, which stands on the site of the old tower, is an octagonal wooden tower, surmounted by an octagonal iron lantern. The lighthouse is 48 feet high from its base to the ventilator on the lantern. It will be painted in alternate red and white vertical stripes, and the lantern will be painted red.

The light shown from the iron lantern is a fixed white light, elevated 50 feet above high water mark, and should be visible 12 miles from all points of approach by water. The illuminating apparatus consists temporarily of two seventh-order anchor lens lanterns.

A fixed red catoptric light is also shown from a lamp in the window below the iron lantern and in the seaward face of the tower. It is elevated 23 feet above high water mark, and should be visible 6 miles in the direction of the shoals off the east end of Pictou island. N. to M. No. 16 (28) 16-3-1904.

DÉPÊCHES, ETC.

AU PALAIS DE BUCKINGHAM,

Le 29e jour de janvier 1904.

PRESENT :

SA TRÈS EXCELLENTE MAJESTÉ LE ROI EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que par un arrêté en conseil daté le 17e jour de mars 1875, il est dit que par l'Acte modificatif de l'Acte de la marine marchande, 1862, il est statué que lorsqu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur en vertu de l'acte principal, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement d'un pays étranger et sont en vigueur dans ce pays, il sera loisible à Sa Majesté de déclarer, par un arrêté en conseil, que les bâtiments de ce pays étranger seront censés avoir le tonnage indiqué sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers nationaux, et que dès lors il ne sera plus nécessaire pour ces bâtiments d'être mesurés de nouveau dans un port ou lieu quelconque des possessions de Sa Majesté, mais que ces bâtiments seront censés être du tonnage inscrit sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers, de la même manière, au même degré et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur les certificats d'enregistrement des bâtiments britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces bâtiments.

Et qu'il a été représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur sous l'autorité de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1854, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement de Sa Majesté le roi d'Espagne, à l'exception d'une différence dans le mode adopté par certains vapeurs d'estimer l'espace pour la chambre des machines, et que ces règlements étaient alors en vigueur dans ce pays-là et sont entrés en vigueur le 2e jour de décembre 1874 ;

de décembre 1874, a été déterminé et inscrit dans les registres et autres documents nationaux du bord, attestés par leurs dates, seront censés être du tonnage inscrit dans ces registres et autres documents nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur le certificat d'enregistrement des navires à voiles britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces navires ;

2. En ce qui concerne les navires à vapeur : Que les navires marchands appartenant au Royaume d'Espagne, et mûs par la vapeur ou autre force motrice exigeant une chambre des machines, et dont le mesurage, le et après le 2e jour de décembre 1874, a été déterminé et inscrit dans les registres et autres documents nationaux du bord, attestés par leurs dates, seront censés être du tonnage inscrit dans ces registres ou autres documents nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré, et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur le certificat d'enregistrement des navires britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces navires ; pourvu, toutefois, que si le propriétaire ou capitaine d'un navire à vapeur espagnol désire que la déduction pour la chambre des machines dans son navire soit évaluée suivant les règlements concernant le mesurage de la chambre des machines et la déduction applicables aux vapeurs britanniques, plutôt que d'après les règlements espagnols, la chambre des machines sera mesurée et la déduction sera calculée suivant les règlements britanniques.

Et considérant que l'Acte modificatif de la marine marchande de 1862 a été abrogé par l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894, mais que par l'article 745 de ce dernier acte il est entre autres choses statué que tout arrêté en conseil rendu en vertu d'un statut abrogé par le présent acte continuera en vigueur comme s'il avait été fait en vertu du dit acte de 1894.

(2.) Sa Majesté en conseil pourra limiter le temps durant lequel l'arrêté restera en opération, et rendra l'arrêté sujet aux conditions et qualifications (si aucun il y a) que Sa Majesté jugera expédient, et l'opération de l'arrêté sera limitée et modifiée en conséquence.

(3.) Toute et chaque fois qu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que le tonnage d'un navire étranger, tel que mesuré d'après les règlements de son pays, diffère essentiellement de ce que serait son tonnage s'il était mesuré en vertu du présent acte, Sa Majesté pourra, par arrêté en conseil, ordonner que nonobstant tout arrêté en conseil alors en vigueur en vertu du présent article tout navire de ce pays étranger pourra, pour toutes les fins du présent acte, être remesuré en conformité du présent acte.

Et considérant que par l'article 30 de l'Acte d'interprétation de 1889, il est statué que dans le dit acte et dans tout acte passé soit avant soit après le commencement du dit acte, les expressions "souverain régnant à l'époque de l'adoption de l'acte," ou "la Couronne" seront censées jusqu'à preuve du contraire signifier le Souverain alors régnant, et le dit acte sera obligatoire pour la Couronne.

Et considérant qu'il appert à Sa Majesté que le tonnage des navires espagnols, tels que mesurés d'après les règles concernant le mesurage du tonnage des navires marchands d'Espagne diffère essentiellement de ce que serait le tonnage de ces navires s'ils étaient mesurés en vertu de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894 :

40-3 A. W. FITZROY.

Circulaire.

DOWNING STREET,
8 mars 1904.

MONSIEUR,—Relativement à ma dépêche circulaire du 12 du mois dernier, au sujet des règles pour l'observance des devoirs de neutralité qui seront en vigueur tant que durera la guerre entre la Russie et le Japon, j'ai l'honneur de vous transmettre pour le renseignement de votre gouvernement et pour la publication que vous jugerez à propos, copie d'un avis donnant le texte d'un télégramme du ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio relatif à une notification émise par le gouvernement japonais le 10 du mois dernier, concernant les objets que ce gouvernement considère contrebande de guerre et l'établissement d'un tribunal des prises à Sasebo.

J'ai l'honneur d'être,
Monsieur,
Votre très humble serviteur,
ALFRED LYTTELTON.

FOREIGN OFFICE,
19 février 1904.

LE Secrétaire d'État de Sa Majesté pour les affaires étrangères a reçu de Sir Claude MacDonald, ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio, le télégramme suivant en réponse à des questions à lui adressées sur les intentions du gouvernement japonais au sujet de la contrebande de guerre et de l'établissement de tribunaux des prises :—

"Première catégorie.—Armes militaires, munitions, explosifs, et matériel, y compris plomb, salpêtre, soufre, etc., et les instruments pour les faire, uniformes, navals et militaires, fourniments militaires, machines blindées, et matériaux pour la construction et l'équipement des navires de guerre, et tous autres objets qui, bien que n'étant pas sur cette liste, sont destinés uniquement à servir en guerre. Les articles susdit seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils traverseront ou seront destinés à l'armée, la marine ou le territoire ennemi.

"Deuxième catégorie.—Les provisions, breuvages, chevaux, harnais, fourrage, véhicules, charbon, bois de construction, monnaies, lingots d'or et d'argent, et matériaux pour la construction des télégraphes, téléphones et chemins de fer. Les articles sus-mentionnés seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils sont destinés à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi ou lorsque ces articles arrivant au territoire ennemi, il y a raison de croire qu'ils sont destinés à servir à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi. Exception faite des articles évidemment destinés à servir au navire qui les transporte.

AT THE COURT AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

PRESENT :

THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS by an Order in Council dated the 17th day of March, 1875, after reciting that by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it was enacted that, whenever it was made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act, had been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and were in force in that country, it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to direct that the ships of such foreign country should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, and thereupon it should no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships was to be deemed the tonnage of such ships, and reciting that it had been made to appear to Her late Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships then in force under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Spain, with the exception of a difference in the mode in certain steamers of estimating the allowance for engine room, and such rules were then in force in that country, having come into operation on the 2nd day of December, 1874, Her Majesty was thereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as follows :—

1. As regards sailing ships, that merchant sailing ships of the said Kingdom of Spain, the measurement whereof after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, had been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such sailing ships, testified by the date thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers and other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British sailing ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships.
2. As regards steamships, that merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Spain which were propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine room, the measurement whereof should, after the said 2nd day of December, 1874, have been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such steam ships, testified by the dates thereof, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers or other national papers in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British ships was deemed to be the tonnage of such ships. Provided, nevertheless, that if the owner or master of any such Spanish steam ship desired the deduction for engine room in his ships to be estimated under the rules for engine room measurement and deduction applicable to British ships instead of under the Spanish rule, the engine room should be measured and the deduction calculated according to the British rules.

And whereas the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, was repealed by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, but by section 745 of the latter Act it is amongst other things provided that any Order in Council made under any enactment thereby repealed shall continue in force as if it had been made under the said Act of 1894:

84.—(1.) Whenever it appears to Her Majesty the Queen in Council that the tonnage regulations of this Act have been adopted by any foreign country, and are in force there, Her Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being remeasured in Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

(2.) Her Majesty in Council may limit the time during which the Order is to remain in operation, and make the Order subject to such conditions and qualifications (if any) as Her Majesty may deem expedient, and the operation of the Order shall be limited and modified accordingly.

(3.) If it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the tonnage of any foreign ship, as measured by the rules of the country to which she belongs, materially differs from that which would be her tonnage if measured under this Act, Her Majesty in Council may order that, notwithstanding any Order in Council for the time being in force under this section, any of the ships of that country may, for all or any of the purposes of this Act, be remeasured in accordance with this Act.

And whereas by section 30 of the Interpretation Act, 1889, it is enacted that in that Act, and in every other Act whether passed before or after the commencement of that Act, references to the Sovereign reigning at the time of the passing of the Act or to the Crown shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as references to the Sovereign for the time being, and that Act shall be binding on the Crown:

And whereas it has been made to appear to His present Majesty that the tonnage of Spanish ships as measured by the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships of Spain materially differs from that which would be the tonnage of such ships if measured under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894:

Now, therefore, His Majesty in Council doth Order that notwithstanding the hereinbefore recited Order in Council dated the 17th day of March 1875, any of the ships of Spain may for all or any of the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, be remeasured in accordance with the said Act.

40–3 A. W. FITZROY.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS section 33 of the Quartz Mining Regulations, established by Order in Council of 21st March, 1898, provides that the holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to the surface rights, including the use of all timber thereon for mining and building purposes in connection with the working of such claim for the purpose of developing the minerals contained therein ;

The Timber Agent, however may permit any free miner to cut and remove from the claim timber for his own use for mining purposes, when such timber cannot otherwise be had within a reasonable distance, but no such permit shall convey the right to cut or remove timber required by the holder of the claim for his mining operations."

" In the Yukon Territory the timber on a mineral claim shall, subject to the rights existing at the time of the application therefor, be reserved until the Mining Recorder certifies that the same is required for use in connection with mining operations actually in progress on such mineral claim, when the right to use such timber, or any portion thereof, free of dues, may be given the holder of such mineral claim by the Crown Timber and Land Agent with the approval of the Commissioner of the Territory. The Commissioner, however, may authorize the Timber Agent to issue a permit to any free miner to cut and remove from such mineral claim timber required by him for his own use in mining operations when such timber cannot otherwise be obtained by such free miner within a reasonable distance of the place of his mining operations."

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

PRESENT :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

ON a Report dated 5th February, 1904, from the Minister of the Interior, stating that Mr. Hewitt Bostock of Monte Creek in British Columbia has requested to be allowed to purchase the following lands in the "Forty Mile Railway Belt" in the said Province, the lands being of inferior quality and only fit for grazing purposes he has offered $2.00 per acre for them. The Homestead Inspector has examined and reported upon these lands and states that they can be considered of very little value except for grazing purposes, and as such grazing lands they cannot be considered valuable at present owing to the fact that the natural grasses have all been killed and are not in his opinion worth more per acre than offered by Mr. Bostock. The lands are as follows :—

in Township 19, in Range 14, west of the 6th Meridian, British Columbia.

The Minister further states that it is provided in section 10 of "Regulations for the survey, administration, disposal and management of Dominion Lands within the 'Forty Mile Railway Belt'," in the said Province, that no person shall be allowed to purchase a greater area of such lands than 640 acres, except by the authority of the Governor in Council.

The Minister recommends, as Mr. Bostock has already purchased this area, that he be authorized to sell M. Bostock the lands in Township 19, before mentioned, and at the rate per acre before stated.

The Committee submit the same for approval.

JOHN J. McGEE,
Clerk of the Privy Council.

DÉPÊCHES, ETC.

AU PALAIS DE BUCKINGHAM,

Le 29e jour de janvier 1904.

PRESENT :

SA TRÈS EXCELLENTE MAJESTÉ LE ROI EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que par un arrêté en conseil daté le 17e jour de mars 1875, il est dit que par l'Acte modificatif de l'Acte de la marine marchande, 1862, il est statué que lorsqu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur en vertu de l'acte principal, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement d'un pays étranger et sont en vigueur dans ce pays, il sera loisible à Sa Majesté de déclarer, par un arrêté en conseil, que les bâtiments de ce pays étranger seront censés avoir le tonnage indiqué sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers nationaux, et que dès lors il ne sera plus nécessaire pour ces bâtiments d'être mesurés de nouveau dans un port ou lieu quelconque des possessions de Sa Majesté, mais que ces bâtiments seront censés être du tonnage inscrit sur leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers, de la même manière, au même degré et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur les certificats d'enregistrement des bâtiments britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces bâtiments.

Et qu'il a été représenté à Sa Majesté que les règlements concernant le mesurage du tonnage des bâtiments marchands alors en vigueur sous l'autorité de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1854, ont été adoptés par le gouvernement de Sa Majesté le roi d'Espagne, à l'exception d'une différence dans le mode adopté par certains vapeurs d'estimer l'espace pour la chambre des machines, et que ces règlements étaient alors en vigueur dans ce pays-là et sont entrés en vigueur le 2e jour de décembre 1874 ;

1. En ce qui concerne les navires à voiles : Que les navires marchands à voiles du Royaume d'Espagne dont le mesurage, le et après le 2e jour de décembre 1874, a été déterminé et inscrit dans les registres et autres documents nationaux du bord, attestés par leurs dates, seront censés être du tonnage inscrit dans ces registres et autres documents nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur le certificat d'enregistrement des navires à voiles britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces navires ;
2. En ce qui concerne les navires à vapeur : Que les navires marchands appartenant au Royaume d'Espagne, et mûs par la vapeur ou autre force motrice exigeant une chambre des machines, et dont le mesurage, le et après le 2e jour de décembre 1874, a été déterminé et inscrit dans les registres et autres documents nationaux du bord, attestés par leurs dates, seront censés être du tonnage inscrit dans ces registres ou autres documents nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré, et pour toutes les fins pour lesquelles le tonnage inscrit sur le certificat d'enregistrement des navires britanniques est censé être le tonnage de ces navires ; pourvu, toutefois, que si le propriétaire ou capitaine d'un navire à vapeur espagnol désire que la déduction pour la chambre des machines dans son navire soit évaluée suivant les règlements concernant le mesurage de la chambre des machines et la déduction applicables aux vapeurs britanniques, plutôt que d'après les règlements espagnols, la chambre des machines sera mesurée et la déduction sera calculée suivant les règlements britanniques.

Et considérant que l'Acte modificatif de la marine marchande de 1862 a été abrogé par l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894, mais que par l'article 745 de ce dernier acte il est entre autres choses statué que tout arrêté en conseil rendu en vertu d'un statut abrogé par le présent acte continuera en vigueur comme s'il avait été fait en vertu du dit acte de 1894.

84.—(1.) Lorsqu'il appert à Sa Majesté la Reine en conseil que les règlements de tonnage du présent acte ont été adoptés par un pays étranger, et y sont en force, Sa Majesté en conseil pourra ordonner que les navires du dit pays, seront, sans être remesurés dans les possessions de Sa Majesté, censés être du tonnage indiqué dans leurs certificats d'enregistrement ou autres papiers nationaux, de la même manière, au même degré et pour les mêmes fins que le tonnage indiqué dans le certificat d'enregistrement d'un navire britannique est censé être le tonnage de ce navire.

(2.) Sa Majesté en conseil pourra limiter le temps durant lequel l'arrêté restera en opération, et rendra l'arrêté sujet aux conditions et qualifications (si aucun il y a) que Sa Majesté jugera expédient, et l'opération de l'arrêté sera limitée et modifiée en conséquence.

(3.) Toute et chaque fois qu'il sera représenté à Sa Majesté que le tonnage d'un navire étranger, tel que mesuré d'après les règlements de son pays, diffère essentiellement de ce que serait son tonnage s'il était mesuré en vertu du présent acte, Sa Majesté pourra, par arrêté en conseil, ordonner que nonobstant tout arrêté en conseil alors en vigueur en vertu du présent article tout navire de ce pays étranger pourra, pour toutes les fins du présent acte, être remesuré en conformité du présent acte.

Et considérant que par l'article 30 de l'Acte d'interprétation de 1889, il est statué que dans le dit acte et dans tout acte passé soit avant soit après le commencement du dit acte, les expressions "souverain régnant à l'époque de l'adoption de l'acte," ou "la Couronne" seront censées jusqu'à preuve du contraire signifier le Souverain alors régnant, et le dit acte sera obligatoire pour la Couronne.

Et considérant qu'il appert à Sa Majesté que le tonnage des navires espagnols, tels que mesurés d'après les règles concernant le mesurage du tonnage des navires marchands d'Espagne differe essentiellement de ce que serait le tonnage de ces navires s'ils étaient mesurés en vertu de l'Acte de la marine marchande de 1894 :

Circulaire.

DOWNING STREET,
8 mars 1904.

MONSIEUR,—Relativement à ma dépêche circulaire du 12 du mois dernier, au sujet des règles pour l'observance des devoirs de neutralité qui seront en vigueur tant que durera la guerre entre la Russie et le Japon, j'ai l'honneur de vous transmettre pour le renseignement de votre gouvernement et pour la publication que vous jugerez à propos, copie d'un avis donnant le texte d'un télégramme du ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio relatif à une notification émise par le gouvernement japonais le 10 du mois dernier, concernant les objets que ce gouvernement considère contrebande de guerre et l'établissement d'un tribunal des prises à Sasebo.

J'ai l'honneur d'être,
Monsieur,
Votre très humble serviteur,
ALFRED LYTTELTON.

du gouvernement du Canada.

EXTRAIT DE LA LONDON GAZETTE, DATÉE VENDREDI LE 19 FÉVRIER 1904.

FOREIGN OFFICE,
19 février 1904.

LE Secrétaire d'État de Sa Majesté pour les affaires étrangères a reçu de Sir Claude MacDonald, ministre de Sa Majesté à Tokio, le télégramme suivant en réponse à des questions à lui adressées sur les intentions du gouvernement japonais au sujet de la contrebande de guerre et de l'établissement de tribunaux des prises :—

"Première catégorie.—Armes militaires, munitions, explosifs, et matériel, y compris plomb, salpêtre, soufre, etc., et les instruments pour les faire, uniformes, navals et militaires, fourniments militaires, machines blindées, et matériaux pour la construction et l'équipement des navires de guerre, et tous autres objets qui, bien que n'étant pas sur cette liste, sont destinés uniquement à servir en guerre. Les articles susdit seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils traverseront ou seront destinés à l'armée, la marine ou le territoire ennemi.

"Deuxième catégorie.—Les provisions, breuvages, chevaux, harnais, fourrage, véhicules, charbon, bois de construction, monnaies, lingots d'or et d'argent, et matériaux pour la construction des télégraphes, téléphones et chemins de fer. Les articles sus-mentionnés seront considérés contrebande de guerre lorsqu'ils sont destinés à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi ou lorsque ces articles arrivant au territoire ennemi, il y a raison de croire qu'ils sont destinés à servir à l'armée ou la marine de l'ennemi. Exception faite des articles évidemment destinés à servir au navire qui les transporte.

HOTEL DU GOUVERNEMENT À OTTAWA

Mercredi, le 23e jour de mars 1904.

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que l'article 33 des règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses, établis par arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que le détenteur d'une concession minière sur des terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface, y compris l'usage de tout le bois qui s'y trouve pour des fins minières ou de construction relativement à l'exploitation de la dite concession dans le but de développer les minéraux qu'elle contient ;

Et considérant qu'il est représenté que des emplacements de mines quartzeuses sont quelques fois jalonnés que pour le bois qui s'y trouve,—

A ces causes, il plaît au Gouverneur général en conseil d'ordonner que l'article 33 des dits règlements de mines quartzeuses soit et il est par le présent rescindé, et remplacé par le suivant :—

"Le détenteur d'une concession minière sur les terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface y compris la faculté d'abattre sans payer de droits tout le bois sur l'emplacement qui sera nécessaire pour l'exploiter, mais non pour la vente ou le trafic, sauf là où le bois a été concédé ou vendu préalablement à la date de l'inscription. L'agent des bois peut, toutefois, permettre à tout mineur libre d'abattre et d'enlever de l'emplacement du bois pour son propre usage dans son exploitation minière, s'il ne peut s'en procurer autrement dans une distance raisonnable, mais nul tel permis ne concédera le droit d'abattre ou d'enlever du bois dont le détenteur de l'emplacement a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières.

"Dans le territoire du Yukon, le bois sur un emplacement minier sera, sujet aux droits existants lors de la demande de la concession, réservé jusqu'à ce que le régistrateur des mines certifie que ce bois est requis pour servir dans des opérations minières sur cet emplacement minier, et alors le droit de se servir de ce bois, ou d'une partie de ce bois, sans payer de droits, peut être donné au détenteur de cet emplacement minier par l'agent des bois et des terres de la Couronne avec l'approbation du commissaire du territoire. Le commissaire peut, toutefois, autoriser l'agent des bois à émettre un permis à tout mineur libre pour abattre et enlever de cet emplacement minier le bois dont il a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières lorsque ce bois ne peut s'obtenir autrement dans une distance raisonnable de l'endroit de ses opérations minières.

Art. 24.—Le bétail âgé de six mois ou plus importé de pays autres que les Etats-Unis et le Mexique, ne sera libéré de la quarantaine qu'après avoir subi l'épreuve de la tuberculine par le Surintendant de la quarantaine ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé.

Art. 25.—Le bétail qui réagit à l'épreuve de la tuberculine mais ne montre pas de symptômes cliniques sera permanemment marqué dans l'oreille droite de la lettre " T " par le fonctionnaire qui fait l'épreuve, et pourra alors être relâché à l'expiration de la période prescrite de quarantaine s'il est trouvé exempt de toutes maladies infectieuses ou contagieuses.

Art. 26.—Le bétail qui montre des symptômes cliniques de tuberculose sera détruit ou il en sera disposé autrement selon l'ordre du Ministre.

Art. 38.—Tout le bétail peut être détenu, isolé, soumis à l'épreuve de la tuberculine, immergé ou autrement traité, si le Ministre en ordonne ainsi, ou à défaut de tel ordre, dans le cas où l'inspecteur a raison de croire ou de soupçonner que les animaux sont atteints d'une maladie contagieuse ou infectieuse, ou y ont été exposés.

Art. 39.—Le bétail trouvé malade sera renvoyé aux Etats-Unis, ou autrement traité selon que le directeur général vétérinaire l'ordonnera.

Moutons.

Art. 42.—Tous les moutons seront inspectés, et lorsque possible, seront accompagnés d'un certificat signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, ou par un vétérinaire du gouvernement énonçant qu'il n'existait pas de maladie contagieuse des moutons dans le district d'où ils viennent, durant la période de six mois précédant immédiatement la date de leur départ de l'endroit.

Art. 43.—Les moutons peuvent être détenus, isolés, immergés ou autrement traités, si le Ministère l'ordonne ainsi, ou, à défaut de tel ordre, dans le cas où l'inspecteur a raison de croire ou de soupçonner que les animaux sont atteints de maladie contagieuse ou infectieuse, ou y ont été exposés.

Art. 44.—Les moutons trouvés atteints de maladie seront renvoyés aux Etats-Unis, ou autrement traités selon que l'ordonnera le directeur général vétérinaire.

Art. 46.—Tous les porcs importés au Canada, sauf par abattage, doivent être accompagnés d'un certificat signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, ou par un vétérinaire du gouvernement dûment autorisé, énonçant qu'il n'avait pas existé de peste des porcs ni de choléra des porcs dans un rayon de cinq milles de la localité où ils ont été tenus durant six mois précédant immédiatement la date de l'expédition.

Art. 47.—Les porcs importés pour la boucherie doivent être consignés directement à un entrepôt de douane, un abattoir ou un établissement de paquage, ne doivent pas en être sortis, et doivent être abattus sous dix jours après leur arrivée en Canada.

Art. 48.—Les porcs trouvés atteints de maladie contagieuse seront susceptibles d'être abattus sans compensation.

Art. 49.—Les porcs vivants importés pour la boucherie, et les carcasses de porcs introduites pour être préparées et paquées, ne doivent pas venir en contact avec les animaux canadiens.

Art. 50.—Les wagons, trucks et autres véhicules employés à ce trafic ne seront pas employés au transport des animaux canadiens, mais seront immédiatement scellés et renvoyés aux Etats-Unis.

Art. 51.—Les entrepôts qui servent à ces porcs sont par le présent déclarés endroits infectés, sujets aux règlements que le Ministre jugera bon d'adopter pour empêcher l'introduction de la maladie parmi les animaux du pays.

Art. 52.—Le transport des porcs importés pour la boucherie et des carcasses importées pour être préparées et paquées, l'enlèvement des abats, fumiers et débris, et tous les procédés relatifs au dit trafic, seront soumis à l'inspection et aux règlements dans le sens du présent arrêté, sous le contrôle du Ministre.

ANIMAUX DESTINÉS AUX EXPOSITIONS.

IMPORTATION D'ANIMAUX DU MEXIQUE.

Art. 54.—Toute personne se proposant d'importer des animaux du Mexique doit, en sus de toutes les autres exigences du présent arrêté, en premier lieu obtenir du Ministre un permis énonçant le nombre et l'espèce d'animaux à importer, le district et l'Etat du Mexique d'où ils seront expédiés, et la date probable de leur arrivée à un port d'entrée canadien. La personne demandant ce permis devra fournir une preuve satisfaisante que les faits sont tels qu'énoncés.

ANIMAUX EN ENTREPÔT.

Ces animaux seront, néanmoins, soumis à l'inspection, et si la chose est nécessaire, détenus avant de pouvoir entrer sur le territoire canadien. Si ces animaux sont trouvés atteints de maladies ils seront soumis aux ordres de l'officier inspecteur sous le contrôle du directeur général vétérinaire.

Les frais du traitement, s'il y en a, seront à la charge du propriétaire ou importateur des animaux traités.

Art. 56.—Les animaux peuvent être admis en Canada d'une partie quelconque des Etats-Unis pour être transportés en entrepôt à toute autre partie des Etats-Unis, et (à l'exception des porcs) seront admis en Canada en entrepôt pour être transportés à tout port canadien pour exportation par mer à l'Europe ou ailleurs. Ces animaux seront inspectés au port canadien d'expédition.

Art. 57.—Le transit de ces animaux se fera sous l'empire des règlements que le Ministre établira de temps à autre.

EXPORTATION.

Art. 58.—Les animaux canadiens en transit à un port des Etats-Unis pour être exportés par mer à l'Europe ou ailleurs doivent être inspectés aux endroits en Canada que le Ministre désignera de temps à autre ; ils ne doivent pas être expédiés de l'endroit d'inspection avant qu'un inspecteur vétérinaire dûment autorisé ne les ait déclarés exempts de maladie infectieuse et contagieuse et autrement propres à l'exportation, et les percepteurs des douanes ne doivent pas les laisser sortir du Canada sans être accompagnés du dit certificat.

Art. 59.—Les animaux destinés à l'exportation doivent, si possible, atteindre le port d'exportation au moins douze heures avant l'embarquement, pour repos et inspection. Les animaux en retard seront exposés à être détenus, à la discrétion de l'inspecteur.

Art. 60.—Les inspecteurs peuvent en tous temps détenir les animaux aussi longtemps qu'ils le jugeront nécessaire pour leur permettre de faire une inspection parfaite et satisfaisante, et de s'assurer que toutes les dispositions des présents règlements y relatives ont été dûment observées.

Art. 61.—Les propriétaires et personnes en charge d'animaux destinés à l'exportation donneront vingt-quatre heures d'avis à l'inspecteur, à son bureau, énonçant le nom et l'espèce des animaux et la date probable de leur arrivée au port d'exportation.

Art. 62.—On ne permettra pas que des animaux soient mis à bord d'un vapeur ou autre vaisseau pour exportation d'un port canadien, avant qu'ils n'aient été inspectés par un inspecteur vétérinaire dûment autorisé au dit port, et déclarés par lui exempts de maladie contagieuse, et propres à l'exportation sous tous rapports ; cette inspection sera faite sous vingt-quatre heures avant l'embarquement.

Art. 63.—Dans l'exécution de leurs devoirs, les inspecteurs auront libre accès à tout navire, wagon ou autre véhicule, et à tout enclos, étable ou endroit où se trouvent des animaux.

Art. 64.—Toutes les inspections pour l'exportation se feront de plein jour.

Art. 65.—Durant le progrès de l'inspection à un port d'exportation, les propriétaires ou expéditeurs donneront autant que possible toute l'aide nécessaire à l'inspecteur du port, et déplaceront les animaux selon ses ordres. Si le propriétaire ou expéditeur refuse ou néglige de fournir l'aide nécessaire, l'inspecteur pourra employer des hommes aux frais du propriétaire ou expéditeur, et ces frais seront payés à l'inspecteur avant qu'une patente de santé ne soit donnée.

Art. 66.—Les inspecteurs marqueront chaque animal inspecté par eux, et aucun animal ne sera embarqué sans cette marque. Un certificat d'inspection énonçant le nom du propriétaire, le nombre, sexe et classe des animaux dans la consignation, et les déclarant exempts de maladie contagieuse, sera fourni par l'inspecteur, et doit être présenté au percepteur des douanes avant l'embarquement.

Art. 68.—Les inspecteurs peuvent rejeter des animaux pour toute cause raisonnable.

Art. 69.—Le percepteur des douanes de tout port en Canada d'où des animaux sont exportés, ne donnera pas de congé à un navire ayant à bord des animaux pour exportation, à moins qu'on ne lui exhibe un certificat signé par l'inspecteur, à l'effet que les règlements s'y rapportant ont été rigoureusement observés.

VAISSEAUX INFECTÉS.

Art. 70.—Les vaisseaux qui ont transporté des bestiaux, moutons ou autres ruminants, parmi lesquels aura été découvert l'eczéma épizootique, devront rester soixante jours sans pouvoir embarquer de bestiaux, moutons ou autres ruminants ou porcs dans un port canadien ; et de plus, jusqu'à ce que ces vaisseaux aient été parfaitement nettoyés et désinfectés sous la surveillance d'un inspecteur ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé.

LICOUS.

Art. 71.—L'importation de licous dont on se sera servi pour attacher des bestiaux, est défendue, et tous navires portant ou ayant à bord de ces licous, en contravention au présent règlement, seront passibles d'être déclarés infectés en vertu de l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903.

OFFICIERS DES DOUANES.

Art. 72.—Les percepteurs des douanes aux différents ports du Canada devront veiller à ce que les dispositions et prescriptions du présent arrêté soient exécutées, avant d'accorder aucun permis pour l'obtention duquel quelque formalité, inspection ou autre procédé est nécessaire ; ils devront veiller à ce que les prohibitions prescrites et les règlements établis par le présent arrêté tels que ci-dessus mentionnés, soient respectés, et à ce que les instructions que pourra donner le Ministre soient suivies ; et dans le cas de quelque infraction aux dispositions du présent arrêté, ils devront immédiatement faire rapport au Ministre de l'étendue et de la nature de ces infractions.

DISPOSITIONS GÉNÉRALES.

Art. 73.—Pour empêcher que des animaux malades soient transportés d'un endroit à un autre sur le territoire canadien, ou expédiés et embarqués à des ports canadiens, il est arrêté comme suit :—

Une inspection des animaux peut avoir lieu dans tout endroit et en tout temps sous l'autorité du Ministre.

Art. 74.—Pour faire cette inspection, les inspecteurs auront libre accès à tout vaisseau, wagon, enclos, étable, hangar ou local qu'ils jugeront nécessaire de visiter.

Art. 76.—Si quelque maladie infectieuse ou contagieuse des animaux est découverte à bord d'un paquebot, vaisseau ou wagon, ou dans une étable, hangar, enclos ou autre endroit l'inspecteur devra, après que l'animal ou les animaux infectés auront été déplacés, veiller à la désinfection parfaite de ce paquebot, wagon, étable, hangar, enclos ou autre endroit, sans délai, en la manière prescrite par les règlements généraux pour la désinfection des lieux.

Art. 77.—Tous les enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux utilisés par les compagnies de chemins de fer ou compagnies de paquebots, ou par des particuliers pour y loger des bestiaux seront entretenus en état de propreté, de confort et de salubrité, et seront en tout temps assujétis à inspection de la part des inspecteurs agissant sous l'autorité du Ministre, lesquels, lorsqu'ils le jugeront nécessaire, pourront ordonner que les dits enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux soient nettoyés et désinfectés d'une manière satisfaisante tel que le prescrit l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903.

Art. 78.—Au cas où un propriétaire, locataire ou occupant d'un enclos, étable, hangar ou autres locaux, ou une compagnie de chemin de fer ou compagnie de paquebots ou un particulier refuserait ou négligerait d'obéir aux ordres de l'inspecteur relativement au nettoyage ou à la désinfection, comme susdit, et dans le cas où ce propriétaire, locataire ou occupant, compagnie ou particulier négligerait d'entretenir ses enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux en état de propreté, confort et de salubrité, l'inspecteur peut condamner les dits locaux comme étant impropres au service ; sur quoi ces locaux ne pourront plus servir à loger des bestiaux tant que les ordres de l'inspecteur à leur sujet n'auront pas été exécutés d'une façon satisfaisante.

Art. 79.—Il ne sera pas permis de placer des animaux à bord des wagons tant que la litière du chargement précédent n'aura pas été enlevée, et le wagon blanchi avec un mélange de chaux vive et d'acide carbolique, dans la proportion d'une livre d'acide carbolique du commerce pour 5 gallons d'eau de chaux.

Art. 80.—Les expéditeurs peuvent refuser de placer leurs animaux dans des wagons sales, et peuvent se plaindre à l'inspecteur le plus rapproché, qui fera nettoyer et désinfecter ces wagons, tel que prescrit ci-dessus, aux frais de la compagnie de chemin de fer, ou défendre de s'en servir tant qu'ils n'auront pas été nettoyés et désinfectés.

Art. 81.—Toute personne qui enfreindra aucune disposition de l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903, ou aucune disposition du présent arrêté, encourra les peines prescrites par le dit arrêté. 42-2

HOTEL DU GOUVERNEMENT À OTTAWA.

Mercredi, le 23e jour de mars 1904.

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements concernant la concession de mines quartzeuses sur les terres fédérales, établis par l'arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que dans aucun cas les frais d'arpentage ne seront considérés comme améliorations ou travail fait sur une concession, à moins que l'arpentage soit fait sous un an de la date de l'enregistrement de la concession, auquel cas les frais d'arpentage n'excédant pas $100 seront comptés comme travail fait sur l'emplacement ; et par un arrêté en conseil daté le 21 de janvier 1901, l'article 31 des dits règlements a été modifié de façon que si l'arpentage d'un emplacement minier a été fait sous un an à compter de la date à laquelle l'emplacement a été enregistré, le coût de cet arpentage, n'excédant pas $100, sera compté comme travail fait sur l'emplacement pour cette année-là.

Il plaît au Gouverneur en conseil d'ordonner que les dits articles des susdits règlements soient et ils sont par le présent modifiés comme suit :—

Les frais de l'arpentage d'une concession minière, n'excédant pas $100, toutefois, seront acceptés au lieu de travail représentatif sur la concession pour l'année dans laquelle l'arpentage est fait, que ce soit la première année ou non, pourvu qu'avis de cet arpentage soit immédiatement inséré pendant au moins soixante jours dans un journal publié ou circulant dans le district dans lequel l'emplacement est situé, ce journal devant être approuvé par le registrateur des mines, et pourvu aussi que le propriétaire de l'emplacement, avant la première publication de cet avis, fasse afficher dans un endroit bien en vue sur l'emplacement, et dans le bureau du registrateur des mines pour le district, un avis de son intention d'annoncer l'arpentage de l'emplacement, et aussi une copie du plan de l'arpentage préparé et attesté sous serment par un arpenteur fédéral. L'arpentage sera accepté comme définissant absolument les bornes de l'emplacement arpenté, pourvu qu'il reste non protesté dans le cours de la publication. Toutefois, si dans le délai spécifié l'arpentage est protesté, le protêt sera entendu et il en sera décidé conformément aux dispositions du paragraphe 2 de l'article 43*a* des règlements miniers. La publication de l'avis d'arpentage comme susdit, sera accepté au lieu de l'avis et la publication exigés par les paragraphes (d) et (e) de l'article 43 des dits règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses. Mais si l'avis d'arpentage n'est donné qu'après que la dépense exigée par le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements aura été encourue, alors l'avis exigé par le dit article des règlements doit être donné.

REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO NAVAL PRIZES

General Regulations.

1. The provisions of these Regulations are applicable in all cases for which, in matters relating to naval prizes, special rules are not laid down by Conventions between Russia and other nations.

Observation.—Special rules are in force in regard to the seizure of the property of an enemy on shore or from the shore.

2. In exact accordance with the Declaration of Paris of the 4th (16th) April, 1856,* the following rules are to be observed in applying these Regulations :—

(1.) Letters of marque are not to be issued to private persons ;

(2.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war ;

(3.) Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not subject to confiscation under an enemy's flag ; and

(4.) A blockade, in order to be considered binding, must be effective, i.e., must be carried out by armed forces sufficient to prevent effectively access to the enemy's coast.

3. For the capture of a prize use must be made either of open force or of permissible "ruses de guerre," but recourse must never be had to breaches of faith.

4. The Imperial Government makes the application of those provisions of the present Regulations which limit the right of stopping, examining, seizing, and confiscating the vessels of a hostile or neutral Power or of its subjects, conditional on the principle of reciprocity, and reserves to itself the right to allow departures from the above-mentioned rules in dealing with a hostile or neutral Power from which the observation of those rules is not to be expected, and to bring its arrangements in regard to this matter into accord with the special circumstances of each particular case.

5. The following, viz. : (1) vessels and cargoes of the enemy or of a neutral nationality which have been seized ; and (2) Russian or neutral vessels or cargoes, and vessels or cargoes of an allied nation, which have been retaken from the enemy after capture by him ("reprises"), are considered to be prizes, if their seizure or recapture has been effected in the circumstances specified in these Regulations.

SECTION I.—STOPPAGE, EXAMINATION AND SEIZURE OF VESSELS AND CARGOES, AND THEIR CONFISCATION AS PRIZES.

Chapter I.—What Vessels and Cargoes are subject to Stoppage, Examination, Seizure, and Confiscation.

6. In time of war at sea, merchant vessels (all vessels not forming part of a war fleet being considered such) may be subjected to stoppage and examination with the object of ascertaining what is their nationality, and whether they are observing neutrality. Merchant vessels convoyed by ships of war of an allied or neutral Power are not to be subjected to examination, if the commander of the convoy gives an assurance as to the number of the vessels convoyed, their nationality and the destination of their cargoes, and also that there no contraband of war on board. The stoppage and examination of such vessels is permissible only in the following circumstances :—

(1.) If the commander of the convoy declines to give the assurance indicated above ;

(2.) If he states that any of the vessels are not sailing under his convoy ; and

(3.) If it is evident that a vessel under convoy is preparing to do something which constitutes a breach of neutrality.

7. The nationality of a vessel is to be decided in accordance with the laws of the country under the flag of which she is sailing, or to the fleet of which she claims to belong. Merchant vessels purchased from a hostile Power or its subjects by persons of a neutral nationality are to be considered enemy's vessels, unless it is proved that their purchase must be regarded, under the laws of the nation to which the purchasers belong, as having been definitely concluded before the purchasers received information of the declaration of war, or that the vessels were purchased in the manner indicated after the purchasers received that information, but that the purchase was made in perfect good faith, and not with the object of protecting enemy's property.

8. Neutrality is to be considered infringed in the circumstances described in Articles 11 and 12.

9. Vessels and cargoes which, in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, appear to be subject to confiscation as prizes are to be seized.

10. Ships of war and merchant vessels of the enemy are subject to confiscation as prizes, as well as all articles on board, except—

(1.) Such as are intended for the private use of the crew or passengers; and

(2.) Such as belong to the Government of a neutral Power or to its subjects, and do not constitute contraband of war. Nevertheless, the Imperial Government reserves the right to permit, on the basis of reciprocity, the exemption from confiscation of all, or of a particular class of hostile vessels and cargoes, excepting, however, cases where such vessels or cargoes are liable to confiscation on the grounds indicated in Articles 11 and 12 for neutral vessels.

Observation.—All property found in an enemy's ship is to be considered as enemy's property unless the contrary is proved.

11. Merchant vessels of a neutral nationality are liable to confiscation as prizes in the following cases :—

(1.) When such vessels are found conveying to the enemy or to any enemy's port—

(a.) Articles and stores required for shooting with firearms, or objects or substances used for causing explosions, whatever the amount of such things may be;

(b.) Other articles of contraband of war amounting, in bulk or weight, to more than half of the entire cargo ;

(c.) Military forces of the enemy ;—provided that in all these cases it is not proved that the masters of the vessels concerned were unaware of the declaration of war ;

(2.) When such vessels are found breaking a blockade, and it is not proved that the masters were unaware of the establishment of the blockade ;

(3.) When such vessels resists by force of arms stoppage, examination, or seizure ; and,

(4.) When they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy.

12. The cargo of merchant vessels of a neutral nationality is liable to be confiscated as a prize :—

(1.) When such cargo is contraband of war in course of transportation to the enemy or to an enemy's port, and it is not proved that the master of the vessel was unaware of the declaration of war ;

(2.) When the cargo is on board a vessel which is liable to confiscation under heads 2-4 of Article 11, and it is not proved that such cargo belongs to Russians, or to neutrals who have taken no part in the infractions entailing confiscation.

13. The articles considered to be contraband of war are enumerated in a separate Declaration for the information of the public. Those of such articles which really constitute the armament and provisions of a

"1. La course est et demeure abolie ;

"2. Le pavillon neutre couvre la marchandise, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre :

"3. La marchandise neutre, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre, n'est pas saisissable sous pavillon ennemi ;

vessel of a neutral nationality are exempted from confiscation.

14. In cases where the contraband of war is alone liable to confiscation, and not the vessel carrying it (Article 11, head 1; Article 12, head 1), the vessel herself is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over. The delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander making the seizure, either on the spot where the seizure takes place, or after the captured ship has been brought into port.

Chapter 2.—Conditions and Consequences of the Stoppage, Examination, and Seizure of Vessels and Cargoes.

15. The right to stop, examine, and seize hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes belongs to the ships of the Imperial Navy. Vessels of the mercantile navy have a right to do so only—

(1.) When they are attacked by hostile or suspected vessels; and

(2.) When they come to the assistance of Russian or allied ships exposed to attack.

Vessels and cargoes seized on these grounds by merchant vessels must be handed over by them to the custody of the authority specified in Articles 23 and 24, and they will have the right to claim, in the event of the confiscation of the vessels and cargoes as prizes, the reward fixed for their seizure.

Observation.—The limitations fixed in this Article for merchant vessels are not to extend to cases for which special rules may be laid down under Article 4 of these Regulations.

16. The stopping, examining, and seizing of hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes is permitted in all parts of the sea and other waters, with the exception of waters which are under the domination of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special international Agreements.

17. On the declaration of war, warlike operations at sea will begin at the time indicated by the Imperial Government. In the event of a truce, those operations will be limited in accordance with the terms of the truce, and on the conclusion of peace they will cease, at the moment when the ships of the fleet receive the proper intimation of the conclusion of a truce or of peace.

18. When a Commander seizes a merchant vessel or her cargo, it is his duty to draw up a Report on the grounds and circumstances of the seizure, and also to take the necessary steps for the preservation of the captured vessel or cargo. Furthermore, when the vessel herself is seized—

(1.) The Commander will detain temporarily, together with the vessel, independently of the question whether they are to be considered prisoners of war or not, the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew whose statements may, in the opinion of the Commander making the seizure, be necessary for throwing light upon the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases; and

(2.) A list will be made of the papers found in the vessel, and they will be sealed up.

19. The master of a merchant-vessel which has been seized, and also the owners of the vessel or her cargo, and the agents of the owners, if they are on the spot, have a right to be present at the proceedings specified in the first part of Article 18 and under head 2 of the same Article, to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them, and to place their seals on any objects and holds on which seals are placed.

20. On the seizure of a ship of war, the Commander of the ship making the capture will proceed in accordance with Article 351 of the Naval Regulations (edition of 1899.)

21. In exceptional cases, when the preservation of a captured vessel appears impossible on account of her bad condition or entire worthlessness, the danger of her recapture by the enemy, or the great distance or blockade of ports, or else on account of danger threatening the ship which has made the capture or the success of her operations, it is permissible for the Commander, on his own responsibility, to burn or sink the captured vessel, after he has taken off all persons on board, and as much of the cargo as possible. and arranged for the safety of the vessel's papers and any other objects which may be necessary for throwing light on the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases. The Commander will draw up a Report, in accordance with Article 353 of the Naval Regulations (edition of 1899), on the circumstances which have made it necessary for him to destroy the captured vessel.

22. Captured vessels and cargoes are to be taken by the ship making the capture to Russian ports, or, if there are none near, to ports of an allied Power or to the operating Russian fleet. In case of stress of weather, or other extreme necessity, the ship which has made the capture may, with the captured vessel, take refuge in the port of a neutral Power. In regard to the length and conditions of his stay in such a port, the Commander of the ship which has made the capture is bound to obey the regulations made on the subject by the Government of the place.

23. When the captured vessel or cargo has been brought to a Russian port or to the operating fleet, it is to be handed over to the naval authority together with the proper papers (Articles 18 and 21). The naval authority, after opening the papers which have been sealed up, will make arrangements for taking over, making an inventory of, and preserving, the property delivered to it, and also, in case of absolute necessity, for the sale by public auction of any articles among those handed over, which from their nature or condition will not keep. The Commander of the ship which made the capture or his representative, and the persons specified in Article 19, have a right to be present at these proceedings, and to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them.

24. The rights and duties of the naval authority, specified in Article 23, will, in the absence of such authority, be taken over (1) in Russian ports, by the local port, customs, or police authority; and (2) in ports of an allied nation, after agreement of the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs with the proper foreign authorities, by the local Russian naval agency, or Russian Consulate, or other authority.

25. The proper authority (Articles 23 and 24) will at once inform the nearest Prize Court of the arrival of the captured vessel or cargo in port, and, after taking the steps specified in Article 23, will place at the disposal of the Court the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew of the captured vessel who have been detained to throw light on the case, and also all papers relating to it.

26. Detailed Rules of Procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing, and also for taking away and handing over captured vessels and cargoes are laid down by instructions approved by the Admiralty Council.

Chapter 3.—Conditions and Consequences of the Confiscation of Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

27. The confiscation of captured ships of war and their cargoes is to be carried out in accordance with the orders of the competent naval authority. The confiscation of other vessels and cargoes which have been seized can only be carried out in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court.

28. Captured property is subject to confiscation only if it belongs to the class of articles which may be confiscated as prizes (Articles 10-12), and if its seizure fulfils the conditions laid down (Articles 2, 3, and 15-17). In the contrary case, the property is to be released and returned to its original owner.

29. If the property which ought to be returned to the original owner has been sold or released on payment of a deposit, the full sum obtained by the sale or paid as a deposit is to be handed over to the owner. If it appears that the property which ought to be returned has been destroyed by order of the naval Commander, or has perished by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve it, the equivalent of the value of the property which has been destroyed or which has perished is to be paid to the owner, the valuation to be based on such information as is supplied.

30. Apart from the restoration of property which ought to be returned, or the payment of the equivalent of its value (Articles 28 and 29), a specia-indemnity may be awarded to the original owner for losses caused by the seizure of the property, when it is recognized that the property was seized without sufficient reason, or that the seizure was an infringement of Agreements concluded (Articles 16 and 17). If the property is returned in a damaged condition, an indemnity may be awarded to the owner for his losses, if it is proved that the damage was caused by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve the property.

31. Property seized in waters which are under the dominion of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special International Agreements, is not to be returned to its original owner, and he is not to be indemnified for losses caused by the property being detained or damaged, unless application is made by the neutral Power concerned, or by a Power which is a signatory of the Agreements referred to, and unless such application is made within one year from the day on which the property was seized. If no application is made within the time specified, the captured property is to be confiscated for the benefit of the State, and no prize money is to be paid to the captor.

32. The amounts to be paid under Articles 29-31 as equivalents of the value of property destroyed or of losses incurred through the seizure of property or damage to it, are to be drawn from Government funds, and repayment of such expenditure is to be claimed, in the manner established by law, in cases where such claim can properly be made, from the persons through whose fault the liability was incurred.

33. Objects confiscated as prizes become the property of the nation. Such objects are to be valued, and such of them as the naval authorities do not consider it desirable to retain are to be sold by public auction. In both cases prize money is to be paid for the capture of the property in question.

Observation.—The valuation and sale of prizes is carried out in accordance with rules issued by the Director of the Ministry of Marine in consultation with the Minister of Finance.

34. In regard to Russian and foreign vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy, and the removal and delivery of such vessels and cargoes, the general rules concerning the seizure, removal, and delivery of hostile and suspected vessels are to be observed, as well as the following special Regulations :—

(1.) Property recaptured from the enemy, although it may have been already confiscated by the enemy as a prize, is to be restored, upon a decision of the Prize Court, to the original owner, with the obligation of paying the prize-money for the recapture and the expenses incurred in connection with the recapture ; and if any property of the enemy be found on board a recaptured vessel, such property is to be considered a prize, and is to be confiscated under the general rules ;

(2.) Russian Government ships and cargoes recaptured from the enemy are to be restored to the Government without the intervention of a Court, upon the order of the competent naval authority ; and

(3.) Property of a foreigner which is recaptured from the enemy is to be restored to the foreigner, and no claim for prize-money or for the expenses of recapture is to be made against him, if it be proved that the property could not lawfully be considered a prize by the enemy, but ought to have been released ; in such a case no prize-money is to be paid for the recapture.

SECTION II.—PRIZE-MONEY.

35. Prize-money is paid to those portions of the fleet (squadron, division, or ships) by which the capture or recapture of a prize has been effected, or which, at the time of the capture or recapture, were taking part in warlike operations jointly with such portions, or contributed to their success by their presence.

36. Commanders of squadrons and divisions receive a share of all prize-money awarded to portions of the fleet which are under their command. All other persons serving in the navy, including volunteers, have a right to a share of any prize-money that may be awarded to portions of the fleet, only if such persons, at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize, were present with the portion of the fleet concerned, or if, although belonging to that portion of the fleet, they were not present in consequence of wounds or mutilations suffered during the war in question, or because they were sent elsewhere for reasons connected with the operations in progress.

37. Land forces on board of ships of war are entitled to a share of prize-money only when they have taken a direct part in the capture or recapture of the prize, or have acted jointly with the naval forces in the operations at the time of such capture or recapture.

38. Apart from the persons specified in Articles 35-37, a share of the prize-money is due to persons who have exposed the prize by giving notice and information about it to the naval authorities, although such persons may not have taken part in the capture or recapture of the prize.

39. Shares of the prize-money are to be paid to the persons specified in Articles 35-37 according to the rank, designation, or duties assigned to each at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize.

40. A person giving information about a prize (Article 38) is to receive 4 per cent of the sum fixed, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46), as the amount of the prize-money.

41. The shares due to persons who have died after the conclusion of the operations for which prize-money has been awarded, and the shares due to persons killed before the conclusion of the operations in the engagement in which those operations took place, are to be divided between their widows and direct descendants, in accordance with the general law of inheritance ; if the deceased have left no direct descendants, but only widows, the full shares are to be paid to the latter ; if there are neither direct descendants nor widows, the shares are to be handed over to the Invalid Fund ; and in cases coming under the provisions of Article 19 of the Regulations regarding the Naval Pensions Fund they are to be paid into that Fund.

Chapter 2.—Amount of Prize-Money and its Distribution.

42. For the capture, by ships of the Imperial navy, of property afterwards confiscated as prize, prize-money is paid as follows, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46) : (1) for war-ships of an enemy, their equipments and cargoes, if they were captured in an engagement, three-fourths of the value of the prize : if they were captured without fighting, half the value of the prize ; (2) for merchant vessels and cargoes, if they were captured with fighting, the full value of the prize ; if without fighting, three-fourths of the value ; and (3) for enemy's property found in Russian or foreign vessels recaptured from the enemy, the full value of the prize.

43. For the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, prize-money to the full value of the prize is paid.

44. For the capture of property (1) destroyed by order of a naval commander and adjudged, after the proper proceedings, to have been liable to confiscation ; (2) released in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court, afterwards reversed ; or (3) restored by the competent authority in accordance with the terms of a truce or peace, the prize-money is to be determined in each particular case according to the circumstances by the Admiralty Council, but is not to exceed the limits specified in Articles 42 and 43.

45. For the recapture of Russian or foreign vessels and cargoes seized by the enemy, a sum equivalent to one-eighth of the value of the recaptured property is payable as prize-money ; but if the recapture was effected in exceptionally difficult and dangerous circumstances, an amount not exceeding one-fourth of the value may be paid.

46. The value of captured or recaptured property is the amount obtained by its sale, or, if it is not sold, the estimated value, after deduction from those amounts of (1) the customs dues payable on merchant vessels and cargoes in accordance with the Customs Regulations ; and (2) the expenditure on bringing in, unloading, packing, valuing, and preserving the property, and also the expenses of sale, if a sale has taken place. Out of the total obtained in this manner, 10 per cent is to be paid to the Invalid Fund.

Observation.—On the restoration to its original owners of property recaptured from the enemy, or of money deposited to obtain the release of such property, the owners (except in the case of the Government) are bound to refund the expenses specified under head 2 in this Article.

47. The prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of the Imperial navy is divided amongst the persons having a right to share in it, in accordance with special Tables. In those Tables the persons who may have a right to prize-money are divided into classes, according to the degree of their responsibility and their several ranks, designations, and duties in the service, and also according to the measure of their participation in the capture of the prize, and to each person belonging to a particular class a certain number of shares are assigned. These Tables, after revision by the Admiralty Council, are laid before His Imperial Majesty for approval.

48. In the case of the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, the owners of the capturing vessels receive from one-fourth to one half of the total prize-money, according to the damage suffered by their vessels in capturing the prize. Each owner receives a share corresponding to his share in the ownership of the vessels. The remainder of the prize-money is divided among the crews of the capturing vessels, according to the rules in force for the division of prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of war, with such modifications as may be necessary in consequence of the different conditions of service in the merchant navy.

49. The fixing of the amount of the prize-money for the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, and the actual division of the prize-money for the recapture from the enemy of Russian vessels and cargoes not the property of the Imperial Government, as well as of foreign vessels and cargoes, are part of the duties of Prize Courts. In all other cases the fixing of the amount of the prize-money and its division are intrusted to special Commissions and the Admiralty Council, acting under rules laid down by the Director of the Ministry of Marine, in consultation with the Ministers of Finance and War.

Section III.—Constitution of Prize Courts and Procedure in Prize Cases.

Chapter 1.—Constitution of Prize Courts.

50. The investigation of prize cases is intrusted (1) to Port and Admiral's Prize Courts, and (2) to the Admiralty Council as Supreme Prize Court.

51. Port Prize Courts are established by the Director of the Ministry of Marine at Russian ports, and, if necessary, and with the sanction of the foreign Government concerned, at ports of an allied Power. Admiral's Prize Courts are established under Admirals having separate commands.

52. A Port Prize Court consists of a President and five members. The President of a Port Prize Court is selected by Imperial command among the officials of the Naval Judicial Department not lower in rank than Colonels. The Prize Court further consists of two members selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among staff officers of the Marine Department, two members selected by the Minister of Justice among the officials of the Judicial Department who have practical acquaintance with mercantile law and judicial procedure, and one member selected by the Minister for Foreign Affairs among the officials of his Department. In the absence of the President of the Prize Court, his duties are performed by the senior naval member of the Court. Attached to a Port Prize Court are a Procureur, a Secretary (a pay officer), and an interpreter, as well as clerks and attendants in such numbers as may be necessary. The Procureur of a Prize Court is selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among persons who have completed a course of legal studies, or who have in their service shown that they have a good knowledge of law, and have been in legal practice. The appointment of the Secretary of the Court is in the hands of the Director of the Ministry of Marine, and the selection of the interpreter, clerks, and attendants in the hands of the President of the Prize Court. The interpreter, if he is not in the Government service, is to be sworn before entering upon his duties at the Court.

53. The President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Port Prize Court, if they receive as pay for their other posts an amount not less than that assigned to officials of naval Courts who hold similar posts, are not to receive any special remuneration for the discharge of their duties in the Prize Court; the President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Prize Court, if they receive pay on a lower scale than that indicated above, or if they receive no pay at all, will be permitted to draw, in the former case, pay sufficient to make up the amount indicated, and, in the latter case, pay equal to that drawn by members of naval Courts holding corresponding offices.

54. A Port Prize Court is considered to be properly constituted if the following are present, in addition to the President or his locum tenens, the Procureur, and the Secretary:—

(1) For the decision of the main issue in the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Article 58, not less than three members—one from the Ministry of Marine, one from the Ministry of Justice, and one from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs;

(2) For the decision of all other matters within the competence of Prize Courts, not less than two members, of whom one must be from the Ministry of Justice.

55. Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be constituted on principles analogous to those laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

56. An Admiral's Prize Court is formed by an Admiral, under the presidency of one of the senior commanders of ships of a squadron or division, of four naval Staff Officers, the duties of Procureur being assigned to an official of the judicial branch, and those of Secretary and Interpreter to other officers of the squadron or division. An Admiral's Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present the President and not less than three members, as well as the persons performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary.

57. The Supreme Prize Court is formed by the addition, by Imperial command, to the members of the Admiralty Council, of two Senators of the Fourth or Civil Cassation Department of the Directing Senate, and of an official of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The duties of Procureur in the Supreme Prize Court are discharged by a legal official of the Ministry of Marine, and the duties of Secretary by an administrative official of that Department. The Supreme Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present, in addition to the officials performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary, not less than three members of the Admiralty Council and one Senator; and when any of the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Articles 58 are being decided, there must be present, in addition, the member sent from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Chapter 2.—Procedure in Prize Cases.

58. Prize Courts are competent to decide, under the rules of procedure laid down in Articles 50-63, cases concerning:—

(1.) The confiscation or release of captured merchant vessels and cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels and cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels and cargoes;

(2.) Compensation for losses entailed by the seizure, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes;

(3.) The restoration of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the determination of the amounts to be paid by those owners for prize-money and expenses; and

(4.) The determination of the amount of prize-money to be paid for the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the division of such amount.

Observation.—The rules of procedure in Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be settled on the analogy of the rules laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

59. In cases in which any difficulty is found in regard to the procedure in prize cases, the rules laid down in these Regulations are to be considered in conjunction with the provisions of the Codes of Civil and Criminal Procedure.

PART I.—Procedure in Cases of Confiscation or Release of Captured Vessels or Cargoes, or of sums realized by the Sale of such Vessels or Cargoes, or paid in as security for Liberated Vessels or Cargoes.

60. In cases concerning the confiscation or release of captured vessels or cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels or cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels or cargoes, the following are recognized as parties: The Procureur, as representing the interests of the public treasury, and the original owners of the captured property or their agents, and, in the absence of the owners or their agents, the master of the captured vessel. In all questions affecting the recognition of the right to prize-money or the amount of the prize-money, the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, is entitled to the rights of a party.

61. The parties are allowed :—

(1.) To be present at all proceedings of the Prize Court, and to give explanations on any matters dealt with during these procedings ;

(2.) To produce evidence in support of their statements, and, with the permission of the President of the Court, to put questions to persons who are being examined ;

(3.) To present, orally or in writing, applications and declarations relating to the case ; and

(4.) To examine the original record of the proceedings, and to obtain copies of it and extracts of papers and documents.

62. The time and place of the sittings of the Prize Court are fixed by the President of the Court with due regard to what is laid down in Articles 64 and 73. Notice of the time and place of the sittings is to be given to the Procureur of the Court, and to any persons concerned in the case who have informed the Court of their addresses at the place where the Court meets.

63. The statements of persons who are to be examined in a Prize Court, and who do not know Russian, may be taken in writing. Such statements, as well as all documents in a foreign language, are to be translated into Russian.

64. On receiving notice that captured property has been brought in, the Prize Court will assemble on the earliest possible day, and will proceed to examine any persons belonging to the ship which has made the capture, and to the captured vessels, as well as any persons coming forward voluntarily (Article 60), whose evidence the Court considers it necessary to obtain. In cases where the captured property has been brought to a port outside the place where the Court sits, the Court will itself proceed to the spot to take the evidence, or will send one of its member for the purpose ; and if this cannot be done before the day fixed for the departure of the vessels, the Court will request the local naval or other authorities to take the evidence.

65. Apart from the taking of evidence (Article 64), the Court will, if necessary, on its own initiative or on the application of persons concerned in the case, itself proceed or else send one or more of its members to view the captured property, or will have it examined by experts.

66. It is open to the Prize Court to liberate captured property before the conclusion of the case, on receiving security in money equal to the value of the property. The value of the property is to be ascertained by a valuation carried out, under the supervision of a member of the Court, by sworn valuers, or, in the absence of such, by not less than two experts.

67. Captured property may be sold by public auction before the conclusion of the case, on the application of the parties and with the consent of the Court, if such property, owing to its nature or its bad condition, will not admit of being kept, and also if the value of the property does not, in the opinion of experts, justify the expense of keeping it. Furthermore, it is open to the Court to have captured property sold before the conclusion of the case, if it does not appear necessary for the decision of the case that such property should be kept any longer, and if the parties have signified their consent to the sale.

68. If captured property be brought to the port of an allied Power at which no Prize Court is established, the proceedings specified in Articles 64 and 65 are, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other, to be conducted by the local Russian naval Agent or Consul, or by a specially appointed person, in the presence of not less than two witnesses—if possible, Russian subjects—resident at the place in question. After the conclusion of these proceedings, the case relating to the captured property is to be sent to the nearest Prize Court, with all papers connected with it. At the same time it is open to the aforesaid naval Agent, Consul, or specially appointed person to take the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67 with regard to the captured property, if it appear inconvenient to wait until the steps in question can be taken by the Prize Court.

69. Upon the conclusion of the proceedings referred to in Articles 64 and 65, the Prize Court will proceed to the trial of the case, and first of all will decide without delay as to the liberation of any portions of the captured property the further detention of which may in the circumstances appear to be unnecessary.

70. If it should appear to be necessary for the elucidation of the case, the Court will arrange for the collection of further evidence in the case, and will direct the exchange of papers between the parties, and call upon them to supply complementary evidence, fixing a term for such exchange and supply of evidence. The examination of witnesses produced by the parties in consequence of such direction of the Court may be conducted either by the Court itself or, at its request, by naval authorities which have not taken part in the capture of the property forming the subject of the inquiry, or else by one of the persons specified in Article 68.

71. In cases relating to merchant vessels of a neutral nationality, or merchant vessels the nationality of which is doubtful, or to cargoes of such vessels, if, in addition to contraband of war, the cargoes in question contain other objects, the Port Prize Court will, in the absence of the original owners of the captured property, address a public summons to such owners. An Admiral's Prize Court will send such cases without delay to the nearest Port Prize Court for further action, reserving the right to take, in regard to any captured property which has not been released by the Admiral's Court under Article 69, the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67, if it appear inconvenient to wait till these steps can be taken by the Port Prize Court.

72. By the published notices, referred to in Article 71, the original owners of captured property or their agents are called upon to appear before the Port Prize Court, and present any evidence they may possess relating to the case within a period specified in the summons. The period is fixed by the Court, which takes into consideration the locality where it is established, and other circumstances ; but the period must not be less than one month, or more than four months, from the date of the last publication. The notices are printed three times, in three consecutive numbers of the "Government Messenger," and of two newspapers published in Russia in foreign languages, such newspapers to be selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine. If necessary, the text of the notice may be communicated to the editors of the newspapers by telegraph. The expenses of the notices are paid out of the sum realized by the sale of the prize, or, if the prize be not sold, out of Government funds ; in the latter case, the expenditure incurred is either deducted from the value of the prize (Article 46), or refunded by the original owner (Article 46, Observation), or else borne by the public treasury (Article 82).

73. The sitting at which a decision is to be arrived at on the main issue, in a case in connection with which a summons to the original owners of captured property has been published, must not be fixed for a date previous to the appearance of the owners or their agents before the Court, or the expiration of the period fixed in the notice for their appearance.

74. The trial in a Prize Court begins with a report by one of the members of the Court explaining the circumstances of the case. After the reporting member has explained the principal points, the Court hears the statements of the Procureur and of such of the persons concerned in the case as are in Court. Having determined, according to inward conviction, the significance and relative force of the evidence in the case, the Court gives its decision on the main issue, or separate decisions on different questions arising from the case. A decision as to whether captured property is to be released or confiscated is given by the Court, even if the property in question has been destroyed by order of a naval commander. If the property has been captured in the waters of a neutral Power, or in waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, the Court makes any decision at which it may arrive for the confiscation of the property, conditional on no application for its restoration being made within a year from the day of capture (Article 31).

75. Decisions of a Prize Court are arrived at by a majority of votes. If the votes are equal, the President has a casting vote.

76. The decision of the Court upon a case is announced by the President at the sitting at which it is formed. When announcing a decision the President fixes a day on which the parties may appear for the reading of the written decision of the Court, and he also explains to the parties the steps which are necessary for making an appeal against the decision, and the time allowed for the purpose. The decision and judgment of the Court must be drawn up within a fortnight from the day on which the finding is announced, and must contain a statement of the considerations on which it is based. Decision and judgments of a Court are considered to be published on the day fixed for their reading.

77. The parties, including the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, have the right to lodge an appeal. The appeal, accompanied by as many copies as there are parties in the case, has to be lodged with the Court which has given the decision, within a month from the publication of the decision (Article 76). If the term allowed for appealing has been permitted to expire for reasons of special weight, it rests with the Court which is to decide the appeal to determine whether the term of the appeal may be prolonged. Petitions for the prolongation of the right of appeal are to be lodged within a fortnight from the date of the publication of the decision of the Court declaring that the term for appeal has expired. Special appeals against the decision of the Court refusing to prolong the term for appeal may be sent in within a fortnight from the date of the publication of such decision.

78. On receiving the appeal, the Prize Court communicates copies of it to the Procureur and to the other persons concerned in the case whose interests are affected by the appeal, if those persons have given notice of their addresses in the locality where the Court is established; if they have not done so, the copies of the appeal intended for them remain in the Court. The original appeals are forwarded with the records of the proceedings in the case, to the Supreme Prize Court, to which are also forwarded the special appeals, referred to in Article 77, against the refusal of the Prize Court to prolong the term for appeal. Any declarations of persons concerned in the case in regard to appeals communicated to them are to be sent by those persons direct to the Supreme Prize Court before the date fixed for the hearing of the case by it.

79. If an appeal be not lodged within the term allowed, any decision to the effect that captured property is to be confiscated is to be carried out as soon as the aforesaid term has expired. In the event of an appeal being lodged, the execution of such decision is to be deferred until the appeal has been decided.

80. A decision to the effect that captured property is to be released is to be carried out immediately upon the publication of such decision, if it is in accordance with the conclusions of the Procureur, and has the concurrence of the commander of the ship which made the capture or of his agent. If these conditions are not fulfilled, such decision is not to be acted upon until the term allowed for lodging an appeal has expired. If such appeal is lodged, the captured property is to be valued in the manner described in Article 66. The Court can, at its discretion, allow the release of the aforesaid property before the decision of the appeal, either on the deposit, as security, of a sum of money equal to the value of the property as estimated by a valuation, or without such deposit. If disputes should arise in regard to the ownership of property released, the restoration of the property to its original owner is to be deferred until such disputes have been settled in the manner laid down by law, or until one of the parties claiming the property has paid a deposit in money equal to the value of the same.

81. Any expenses of keeping captured property after the moment when the person or department in whose custody it is has received notice of a decision that such property is to be released without payment of a deposit, must be borne by its original owners.

82. Captured property which it has been decided to release, and which is not claimed within six months from the date on which the decision to release it became legally binding, may be sold by public auction. If within ten years from the date on which the decision became law no one comes forward with proofs of his right to property the release of which has been decided upon, such property, or the sum realized by its sale, falls to the public treasury, which will bear all expenses of keeping such property or money.

83. The Rules laid down for Prize Courts in Articles 62 and 73-76 are applicable to the procedure in the investigation of appeals against the decisions of Prize Courts by the Supreme Prize Court, and also to the mode of publication of decisions of that Court.

84. The Supreme Prize Court investigates only those parts of decisions of a Prize Court against which appeals are made by persons concerned in the case. The annulment of decisions to the effect that captured property is to be released and restored to its original owner without any demand for a deposit, in spite of the circumstance that an appeal has been lodged (Article 80), entails the award in the manner laid down in Articles 44 and 49, of prize-money corresponding to the value of such portion of the property released as is found, by the decision of the Supreme Prize Court, to be liable to confiscation as prize.

85. There is no appeal from decisions of the Supreme Prize Court; after they have been given, copies are to be communicated to the competent naval authorities for execution.

86. Petitions, declarations, appeals, and other documents in cases in Prize Courts and in the Supreme Prize Court, as well as the records of those Courts, are exempt from payment of stamp or other dues. Persons, other than the Procureur, obtaining copies of papers are charged 40 kopecks per sheet. No remuneration is fixed for the conduct of cases in Prize Courts or in the Supreme Prize Court.

PART II.—Procedure in Cases relating to Compensation for Losses in consequence of the Detention, Destruction, Loss, or Injury of Merchant Vessels and Goods, to the return of Merchant Vessels and Cargoes recaptured from the Enemy to their original owners, and, to the fixing of the Prize-money and Costs payable by those owners, and also to the determination of the amount of Prize-money for the Capture of Enemy's Ships and Cargoes by Merchant Vessels and the distribution of such money.

87. Cases concerning—

(2.) The return of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the fixing of the prize-money and expenses payable by such owners; and

(3.) The determination of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with in accordance with the rules laid down in Articles 60–86, with the exceptions and additions specified below (Articles 88–93).

88. Cases concerning compensation for losses arising from the capture, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes are dealt with by Port Prize Courts, and can only be initiated on the petition of the persons who have suffered losses, or their agents. The persons who have suffered losses, or their agents, and the Procureur as the representative of the interests of the Government, have the rights of parties in such cases.

89. The cases referred to in Article 88 are dealt with simultaneously with cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, and the decisions arrived at are based on the evidence presented or indicated by the parties. The decisions on the cases concerning losses are given simultaneously with those on the cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, or else separately. Decisions in cases concerning losses may be appealed against within one month, and such appeal is a bar to the execution of the decision appealed against.

90. Cases concerning the return of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the fixing of the amount of prize-money and expenses payable by those owners, are dealt with by Port Prize Courts. These cases are dealt with by Admiral's Prize Courts, only if the orignal owners of the recaptured property, or their agents, are present; if they are not present, the Admiral's Courts hand over the cases to Port Prize Courts to be dealt with.

91. In the cases referred to in Article 90, the rights of parties are enjoyed by the original owners of the recaptured property or their agents, and the commander of the ship which has made the recapture or his agent, and by the Procureur. In dealing with these cases, the Port Prize Courts, if necessary, address a summons to the absent owners by the publication of a Notice, and on the appearance of the owners or their agents, or on the expiration of the term allowed for their appearance, the Courts pronounce their decision on the main issue. Appeal may be lodged within a month against the decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

92. The return of recaptured property to its original owners is permissible—(1) before the decision has been given and has become legally binding—only on condition that the owners deposit as security a sum equal to any amount that they may be called upon to pay for prize-money and expenses (Articles 45, 46, Observation, and 66); and (2) after the decision has become legally binding—on condition that the owners pay the prize-money and expenses for which they have been found liable. Apart from the cases contemplated in Articles 67 (first part) and 82, the sale of recaptured property is also permissible if the original owner presents an application for its sale. When property which ought to be returned falls to the Government (Article 82) the latter pays all expenses and also the prize-money.

93. Cases concerning the fixing of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with by Port Prize Courts. These cases are initiated on the petition of the members of the crew of the vessel which made the capture, and those persons and the Procureur have the rights of parties. Appeal may be lodged within a month against decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

(Signed) MICHAEL,
President of the Imperial Council.

INSTRUCTIONS.—On Procedure in Stopping, Examining, and Seizing, and also in Removing and Delivering Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

§ 1. Ships of the Imperial navy, acting under the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," are to be guided, as regards the actual procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing merchant vessels, and also in removing and delivering captured vessels and cargoes, by the following rules, in addition to any declarations and other orders issued by the Government on the occasion of war.

Observation.—Inter alia, it will be necessary to define the neutral territorial sea, and the other waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, and where, under Article 16 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," it is not permissible to stop, examine, and seize ships and cargoes.

STOPPING.—Procedure in Stopping.

§ 2. A ship desiring to stop another should make for her, hoist her flag, and fire a blank gun-shot in her direction. At the same time a signal may be made according to the International Code.

In order to stop a vessel at night, it is necessary, when firing the blank shot, to have the lights on the masts and distinguishing lights exposed.

Resistance to Stopping.

§ 3. If, in spite of a shot being fired, the vessel does not stop, a ball must be sent past the bows of the retreating vessel. If she still resists stoppage, it is permissible to fire at her and pursue her in order to force her to stop.

When commencing to fire at the vessel, it is desirable to fire the first shot over her hull between the masts. But such leniency is not obligatory, especially if a steamer which is being stopped has an advantage in speed by which she may hope to escape from her pursuer.

Any vessel which has made a clear attempt to escape from a cruiser, in consequence of which the latter has been obliged to pursue her and to use force to stop her, is liable to be seized; it is, however, open to the Commander of the cruiser, if he consider it desirable, after stopping the vessel, to subject her to an examination as a preliminary, and make his further action depend on the result of the examination.

EXAMINATION.—Preliminary Proceedings.

§ 4. For the examination a sufficiently experienced officer and several men of the crew are to be selected; an assistant storekeeper, &c., may usefully be included. Two officers having some acquaintance with foreign languages should be included if there are any such on board.

§ 5. It is desirable that some reliefs of officers and men should be selected before-hand for the examination. Officers and men sent to make the examination should be armed with revolvers. It is useful to agree beforehand upon some simple signals (with an oar, a handkerchief, a little flag, &c.).

When the pursuit begins, the officers selected for the examination should get their men ready, and take the latitude and longitude of the Imperial ship.

§ 6. The Imperial cruiser should get as close as possible to the vessel she is stopping, taking all proper precautions in doing so.

Observation.—It is necessary to bear in mind the unfortunate consequence of a collision. The vessel may prove to belong to the enemy. One must expect hostile acts, and a desire to injure the cruiser by a collision.

§ 7. After the boat with the officers and men has put off, the Imperial cruiser should remain in such a position during the examination that those on board can keep the boat in sight all the time, and witness the proceedings on the vessel which is being examined. The guns should be loaded, and the master-gunners at their posts.

The Officers on Board.

§ 8. When the party reach the stopped vessel, note should be taken in the boat of her name and port. An officer accompanied by two men should then go on deck. If two officers are sent for the examination, the officers and one man should go on deck.

Observation.—The rest of the men should only go on deck when the examination of the papers is concluded and the examination of the whole vessel commences. The number of men to be sent on board depends on the size of the vessel and the officers' view (e. g., there may be four, six, or more men).

§ 9. The junior officer must remain on the upper deck all the time, and must not go below. It is his duty to watch all that happens on the deck of the vessel which is being examined, and also to keep his eye on the boat and the signals of his own ship. The seamen who has also gone on board should assist him. The examination of the papers and vessel should be carried out by the senior officer. If only one officer is sent to make the examination, the duties of the junior officer should be undertaken by the senior of the two seaman who have gone on deck with the officer.

§ 10. The behaviour of the officers and men towards the master, crew, and passengers should be polite and in every way consistent with the dignity of the naval profession.

If the vessel which has been stopped offers resistance to the examination she is liable to be seized.

Examination of Papers.

§ 11. The examination begins with a request of the master—

(a.) To state the name and nationality of his vessel.

(b.) To state what port she is bound for, and where she comes from.

(c.) To produce his log-book and all papers concerning the vessel and cargo.

Annexed is a list of the principal ships' papers found in merchant vessels of certain nationalities (Appendix I).

§ 12. When proceeding to examine the papers, the officer should pay special attention to the log-book, and should endeavour to make himself acquainted with all the circumstances of the voyage, the place on the map where the master considers himself to be, and the last entries in the log-book.

§ 13. In examining the papers relating to the nationality of the vessel, the officer should note the port of registry, the number of the register, the names and nationality of the owners, the place where, and the time when, the vessel was built, and also whether it was bought from subjects of the enemy after the declaration of war, with the object of protecting enemy's property.

14. When examining the papers relating to the cargo, the officer should determine the nature and amount of goods, the place from which they have been brought and their destination, and the names and nationality of the consigners and consignees. At the same time, it is important to ascertain whether there are among the goods any articles of contraband of war,* and who are the owners of the cargo, subjects of the enemy or of a neutral Power.

§ 15. In examining the papers concerning the composition of the crew and the passengers, the officer should ascertain the nationality and calling of these persons, and should endeavour to determine whether there are among the passengers any persons belonging to the enemy's forces, and which of the crew could be detained under Article 18 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes."

§ 16. After concluding the examination of the vessel's papers, the officer should request the master to produce any mails that may be on board, and should search them for correspondence of the enemy and for any packages addressed to the enemy's ports.

§ 17. The officer should take notes concerning all papers shown to him, and should write down all that he considers most necessary. When examining the papers, he may at his discretion address questions to the master, mate, and other members of the crew.

Consequences of the Examination of Papers.

§ 18. The officer should close the examination and detain the vessel in the following cases:—

(a.) If the vessel proves to belong to the enemy.

(b.) If there are no ship's papers, particularly such as make it possible to determine the nationality of the vessel and to verify the circumstances of her voyage; or if the ship's papers are thrown overboard, or destroyed in any other way.

(c.) If there are among the papers any which make the officer suspect that the vessel belongs to the enemy.

(d.) If the officer comes to the conclusion that the papers are not genuine.

(e.) If it appears from the papers that the vessel has been bought by the subject of a neutral State from subjects of the enemy, and there is reason to suppose that a fictitious sale has taken place with the object of protecting enemy's property.

§ 19. If the officer is convinced that the papers are in perfect order, that the vessel is really a neutral one, that there cannot be amongst the goods on board any articles of contraband of war intended for the enemy, and generally that there is no ground whatever for detaining the vessel, he should leave her without delay, observing the rules laid down below in §§ 28, 29, and 30 (Conclusion of the Examination).

§ 20. If the officer has doubts about the truth of the information obtained from the examination of the papers, especially if the vessel is bound for an enemy's port, or if he has reason to suppose, from the general indications of the movements, direction, and position of the vessel stopped, that the eventual destination of the vessel or of her cargo is an enemy's port, he should proceed to the examination or search of the whole vessel, in order to ascertain whether there are any objects of contraband of war in her cargo.

Examination of Vessel (Search).

§ 21. The examination of the whole vessel (or search) should be carried out by the officer with the assistance of several of his men, who will leave the boat when summoned by him.

§ 22. The number of sailors coming on board may be four, six, eight, or more, according to the size of the vessel to be searched and the views of the officer. If it appears that there are not enough men in the boat, more may be summoned from the ship by signal. The men selected for a search should be intelligent, active, and experienced.

§ 23. The examination of the holds presents considerable difficulties, and may give rise to complaints on the part of neutrals who suffer undeservedly. The officer should, therefore, first consider which portion of the cargo appears most suspicious from the want of precision of the papers, and should first turn his attention to that portion. The behaviour of the officer and men should be polite, but they must not hesitate to do their duty in every particular.

§ 24. During the examination of the holds the officer is bound to insist on the presence of the master at all his proceedings: the officer next in rank to the master need only be present if absolutely necessary.

§ 25. The master while present at the search is bound, on the demand of the officer who conducts the search, himself to unlock all locks and holds which the officer may wish to examine, to point out any objects which require special care in handling, and to show the proper way of opening any particular packages (chests, barrels) which may be selected for a more detailed examination. If the master should refuse to open a hold when requested to do so by the examining officer the vessel is liable to be detained.

§ 26. During the examination or search, the officer may, in order to make the work easier, put questions to the crew and passengers, in order to obtain necessary explanations in regard to the vessel and cargo. It is also advisable to pay attention to certain external signs—for instance, to the marks which are found on the funnels of the steamers of various companies, and which may be painted over.

§ 27. The officer should desist from further examination of the vessel as soon as he has convinced himself that there is no contraband of war in the cargo, and that there is nothing suspicious in the vessel. Every article which has been moved should be put back in its place as quickly and carefully as possible, in accordance with the directions of the master.

Conclusion of Examination.

§ 28. Having concluded the examination, the officer will enter in the log-book, in the Russian language, the time and place of the examination (latitude and longitude), the name of his ship, the name of her commander, and the result of the examination. The entry may be made in accordance with the annexed form (Appendix 3).

§ 29. Before leaving the vessel, the officer will request the master to give a written certificate (if possible, in his native language) to the effect that he has no complaint to make, or, if he has any complaint, to put it in writing.

* In regard to articles of contraband of war, see Appendix II.

§ 30. When leaving the vessel, the officer should inform the master that the must not continue her voyage until he has returned to the Imperial ship and reported to the commander. The officer will draw up a detailed report in writing on his proceedings.

§ 31. If the vessel is liable to seizure, the officer should give a signal to that effect, and return to his ship, taking with him the papers and the master and other persons whose statements may be required.

DETENTION.

Commission.

§ 33. A Commission is to be formed on the Imperial ship of three officers (one of them the officer who conducted the examination), which is to draw up a detailed Protocol on all the proceedings and discoveries at the examination and present it to the commander for confirmation.

Drawing up of Protocol.

§ 34. The Protocol is to be written in Russian. In it should be described in detail the nationality, class, and name of the vessel ; the names of the master and owners ; the number of the crew and their nationality ; all the circumstances connected with the stoppage of the vessel ; all papers produced by the master, and the contents of such papers ; all circumstances connected with the examination of the papers and the vessel ; all information in regard to the cargo, and everything found in the vessel ; all statements of the master, supercargo, boatswain, and other persons questioned.

Protest of Master.

§ 35. The contents of the Protocol are to be translated to the master orally, and he is to be requested to sign the Protocol. He is not, however, obliged to sign it. A note should be made on the Protocol that it has been read and translated to the master.

Any protest of the master (in writing) should be annexed to the Protocol and any discrepancies explained in the Protocol itself.

Observation.—As the drawing up of the Protocol and the examination of the master and other persons of the crew may take a considerable time, the cruiser is authorized to compel the merchant vessel to take a particular course, while the cruiser, following her, proceeds with the matter on the way.

Decision of Commander.

§ 36. When the Protocol has been drawn up and signed by the members of the Commission, it is to be submitted to the commander, who should append his decision to the Protocol. In deciding whether the vessel or cargo should be detained he should be guided by the following considerations.

§ 37. The following vessels are liable to detention :—

1. All enemy's ships of war and merchant vessels (see Articles 9 and 10 of the Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes).

Observation.—If, in accordance with special international Agreements concluded by the Imperial Government, certain of the enemy's ships are to be considered not liable to capture, such ships are, nevertheless, liable to detention if their proceedings are such as are described under head 2 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), of this paragraph (see the second portion of Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes").

2. Neutral merchant vessels :—

(a.) If they are conveying to the enemy any quantity whatever of articles required for shooting with fire-arms, objects or substances used for causing explosions, or military forces of the enemy (see head 1 of Article 11 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes") ;

(b.) If they are conveying to the enemy other objects of contraband of war to an amount exceeding in bulk or weight half of the entire cargo (see head 1, (b), of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

Observation.—If the amount of such contraband of war is less than half of the entire cargo, the vessel is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over ; the delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander, either on the spot where the vessel has been detained or after she has been brought into port (see Article 14 of the aforesaid Regulations.

(c.) If they are found breaking an effective blockade of which notice has been given (see Article 2 and head 2 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(d.) If they have offered armed resistance to stoppage or examination (see head 3 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(e.) If they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy (see head 4 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

3. All suspicious vessels, even if they are flying a neutral flag. (See Article 16 of the aforesaid Regulations). The following and other similar proceedings are grounds for considering a merchant vessel suspicious :—

(a.) If the vessel does not stop her engine or heave to on the summons of the cruiser, and the latter is consequently obliged to pursue her and use force to stop her (see § 3 of these Instructions) ;

(b.) If the vessel has no papers, or has false or suspicious papers (see § 18 of these Instructions, heads (b), (c), (d) ;

(c.) If there is reason to believe that the vessel has been fictitiously sold to the subject of a neutral power after the declaration of war (see § 18 of these Instructions) ;

(d.) If the vessel after being stopped resisted examination, or if the master refused to open a hold on the demand of the examining officer (see §§ 10 and 25 of these Instructions).

Cargoes.

§ 38. The following cargoes may be detained :—

1. Enemy's cargoes conveyed in enemy's vessels (see Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes") ;

2. Enemy's and neutral cargoes in neutral vessels which have infringed neutrality, i.e. (see Article 12 of aforesaid Regulations) :

(a.) In neutral vessels which have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy ;

(b.) Which have offered armed resistance to stoppage, examinatian, or detention ; and

(c.) Which have been found breaking a blockade.

3. All cargoes which constitute contraband of war, with the exception of arms and provisions forming part of the equipment of a neutral vessel herself (see Article 12, head 1, and Article 13 of the aforesaid Regulations).

When vessels or cargoes are detained, the rule is observed that articles intended for the personal use of the crew or passengers are not to be detained (see Article 10, head 1, of the aforesaid Regulations).

With the exception of the above-mentioned cases, the following rules are to be observed :—

(1.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's cargo, with the exception of contraband of war (see Article 2, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

(2.) Neutral goods, except contraband of war, are not subject to detention under an enemy's flag (see Article 2, head 3, and Article 10, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

CONVEYANCE.—Procedure of Conveyance.

§ 39. Captured vessels and cargoes may be conveyed, at the discretion of the commander of the Imperial cruiser, either to a port or to the operating fleet. They may either be taken by the cruiser herself, or may be sent to port independently in charge of a Russian officer and crew ; the commanding officers are to be guided by the rules laid down in Articles 351-353 of the Naval Code, edition of 1899. If a captured vessel is sent alone, the original ship's papers and documents relating to her capture should remain in the hands of the commander of the cruiser, and copies should be supplied to the officer placed in charge.

Destruction of Captured Vessels.

§ 40. In the following and other similar exceptional cases, the commander of the Imperial cruiser has the right to burn or sink the captured vessel, after taking off the persons on board, and, if possible, the whole or part of the cargo, and also all papers and articles which may be necessary for the elucidation of the case in the Prize Court :—

(1.) When it is impossible to preserve the captured vessel on account of her bad condition.

(2.) When there is danger of the vessel being recaptured by the enemy.

(3.) When the captured vessel is of very little value, and her conveyance would take too much time and entail too great a consumption of coal.

(4.) When conveyance appears difficult in consequence of the distance or blockade of the ports to which the vessel should be brought.

(5.) When the conveyance may prevent the success of operations of war in which the Imperial cruiser is engaged, or expose her to danger.

The commander should draw up a report, to be signed by himself and all his officers, explaining the circumstances which have induced him to destroy the captured vessel. He should transmit the report to his superior officer by the first opportunity.

Observation.—Although Article 21 of the Regulations of 1895, in regard to Naval Prizes, allows the burning or sinking of a captured vessel by the commander, " on his own responsibility," the latter incurs no responsibility whatever if the captured vessel is really liable to confiscation as a prize, and the exceptional circumstances in which the Imperial ship is placed imperatively demand the destruction of the captured vessel.

Replacing Own Ship by Ship Captured.

§ 41. If it appears that a ship which has been captured, and which ought to be destroyed under the preceding Article, is in construction and sea-going qualities better than the Imperial ship, the commander has the right to replace his own ship by the prize, and to burn or sink his own ship.

Entry of Neutral Ports.

§ 42. An Imperial ship, while conveying captured vessels, may enter the port of a neutral Power which has not forbiden in its declaration of neutrality (or in some other official declaration) the visit of its ports by ships of war of the belligerents with their prizes.

Furthermore, an Imperial cruiser may take refuge in the port of a neutral Power with captured vessels under stress of weather or other urgent necessity (e. g., the breaking down of the engines, insufficiency of provisions, pursuit by a stronger force of the enemy) ; in that case the commander is bound, as regards the duration and other conditions of his stay in the neutral port, to comply with the regulations made by the Government of the locality.

DELIVERY

At Russian Ports or to the Operating Fleet.

§ 43. As soon as a captured vessel or cargo has been brought into a Russian port it is to be handed over to the local naval authority (or in the absence of such to the port, customs, or police authority), with all the papers and with all persons on board who have been detained for the elucidation of the case.

If the captured vessels and cargoes are brought to the operating fleet, they are to be handed over to the officer in command of the squadron.

The proper naval or other authority should open the sealed papers and make arrangements to receive the property handed over, to have an inventory made of it, and to preserve it, and also take steps for the sale by public auction of such articles as from their nature or condition cannot be kept.

The following persons are entitled to be present during these proceedings : firstly, the commander, or one of the officers of the Imperial ship which has effected the capture ; and, secondly, the master of the captured vessel, and also the owners of the vessel and cargo, or their agents, if the owners or agents are on the spot.

All the persons present have the right to make suggestions and observations in regard to the proceedings of the local authority which takes over the vessel or cargo.

At Foreign Ports.

§ 44. If the captured vessel or cargo is brought to the port of an allied Power, delivery is to be made to the local Russian naval agency, or to the Russian Consulate, or to some other authority to which, under agreement between the Russian Government and the foreign Power concerned, the duty of receiving prizes is assigned.

Notification to Authorities.

§ 45. The commander of an Imperial ship is bound to inform the Director of the Ministry of Marine without delay at the first opportunity, by telegraph, of the capture of vessels and cargoes and also of their conveyance to a port and their delivery.

APPENDIX II TO § 14 OF THE INSTRUCTIONS APPROVED BY THE ADMIRALTY COUNCIL, SEPTEMBER 20, 1900 (MINUTES NO. 4487, ARTICLE 38076).

In accordance with Article 13 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," notice is given in a special declaration, for general information, of the articles considered to be contraband of war. The following have been stated in declarations to be such articles :—

(a.) All kinds of arms, small-arms, and guns, both put together and in parts ;

(b.) Articles and stores required for shooting with fire-arms, such as projectiles for guns, fuses for projectiles, bullets, caps, cartridges, cartridge cases, powder, nitre, sulphur ;

(c.) Objects or substances used for causing explosions, such as torpedoes and mines, dynamite, pyroxyline, and other explosive compounds ;

(d.) Articles belonging to artillery, engineer, and army train, such as gun-carriages, mountings, cartridge and ammunition chests or packs, field smithies, field kitchens, instrument carts, pontoons, bridge trestles, train harness, &c.;

(e.) Articles of army equipment and clothing, such as wallets, cartridge boxes, haversacks, bandoliers, cuirasses, intrenching tools, drums, cooking-kettles, saddles, horses' harness, finished articles of uniform, tents, &c.;

(f.) Sea-going vessels bound for an enemy's port, even under a neutral merchant flag, if from the construction of their hulls, their internal arrangements, and other evidences, it is clear they are constructed for warlike purposes, and are going to the enemy's port for sale or delivery to the enemy ;

(g.) In general, all other articles directly intended for war on land or sea, if they are being conveyed on behalf of, or are destined for, the enemy.

By the expression "destined for the enemy" is understood conveying to his fleet, to one of his ports, or even to a neutral port, if the latter is shown by clear and indisputable evidence to be simply an intermediate station on the way to the enemy, the latter being really the ultimate destination.

The following acts are considered to be on the same footing as contraband of war, with the same consequences for a neutral vessel or cargo :—

1. The transport of enemy's troops, military detachments, and individual soldiers ; and
2. The conveyance of enemy's despatches, i.e., business correspondence between enemy's chiefs and their agents who are on a ship or on territory belonging to or occupied by the enemy.

ORDERS IN COUNCIL.

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Friday, the 15th day of April, 1904.

PRESENT :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

THE Governor General in Council is pleased, in pursuance of the provisions of section 16 of The Fisheries Act, chapter 95, of the Revised Statutes of Canada, to order that section 4 of the Lobster Fishery Regulations established by the Order in Council of the 7th day of December, 1899, which reads as follows :—

"No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have "in his possession, lobsters between the first day of "August in each year, and the last day of April then "next following, both days inclusive, on and along "that part of the coast of Cape Breton Island, in the "Province of Nova Scotia, or the waters thereof, from "Red Point, between Martin Point and Point Michaux, "in the Island of Cape Breton, and extending to and "around Cape North, as far as and including Cape St. "Lawrence; also the coasts and waters of all the "islands known as the Magdalen Islands, including "Bird Rocks and Bryon Island ; also the North Shore "of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, from the Bay of Blanc "Sablon in the Province of Quebec, westward to the "head of tide, embracing the coasts and waters of all "the islands adjacent to the said shore, and including "the Island of Anticosti," shall be and the same is hereby amended so as to permit of lobster fishing on the coasts and waters of all the islands known as the Magdalen Islands, including Bird Rocks and Bryon Island, to begin on the 20th April and end on the 25th June in each year.

Clerk of the Privy Council.

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Wednesday, the 23rd day of March, 1904.

PRESENT :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS under the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands, the property of the Dominion Government in Manitoba, the North-west Territories and British Columbia, established by Order in Council, dated 19th May, 1902, provision is made for the sale of lands containing anthracite coal at an upset price of $20.00 an acre, and for coal other than anthracite at an upset price of $19.00 an acre, subject to the payment of royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on the output of the mine ;

And whereas it is represented that settlers in the vicinity of coal mines have in the past been able to secure their supply of coal for fuel purposes at the rate of from $1.00 to $1.50 per ton, delivered at the pit's mouth ; but that recently, where only a limited number of mines are being operated in any locality, there has been a tendency on the part of the mine owner to object to this class of trade, as loading the coal directly into cars is probably more convenient for him then disposing of it to the settler ;

And whereas there appears to be no reason why the settlers should be required to pay an additional price for having the coal carried by rail to the nearest station if they can have the hauling done themselves,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order and doth hereby order that the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands above referred to be amended by providing that all sales of such lands shall in the future be made subject to the provision that actual settlers shall be entitled to buy, at the pit's mouth, whatever coal they may require for their own use, but not for barter or sale, at a price not to exceed $1.75 per ton, and that the patent which may be issued for coal lands shall be made subject to such provision.

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Wednesday, the 23rd day of March, 1904.

PRESENT :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

Whereas by sub-clause (a) of section 43 of the Regulations for the disposal of quartz mining claims on Dominion Lands, established by the Order in Council of the 21st of March, 1898, it is provided that in no case shall the cost of the survey of a mineral claim be considered as improvements or work done on the claim unless the survey is made within one year from the date of recording the claim, in which case the cost of the survey, not exceeding $100.00, shall be accounted as work done on the claim ; and by an Order in Council dated the 21st of January, 1901, section 31 of the said Regulations was amended so as to provide that if the survey of the claim has been made within one year from the date upon which the claim was recorded, the cost of such survey, not exceeding $100.00, may be accounted as work done on the claim for that year.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to order that the said sections of the above cited Regulations shall be and the same are hereby amended as follows :—

The cost of the survey of a mineral claim, not exceeding $100 however, shall be accepted in lieu of representation work on the claim for the year in which the survey is made, whether it is the first year or not, provided that notice of such survey is immediately inserted, for a period of not less than sixty days, in a newspaper published in or circulating in the District in which the claim is situated, such paper to be approved by the Mining Recorder ; and provided further that the owner of the claim prior to the first appearance of this advertisement shall cause to be posted in a conspicuous spot on the claim, and in the office of the Mining Recorder for the District, a notice of his intention to advertise the survey of the claim, and also a copy of the plan of the survey prepared and certified correct, under oath by a Dominion Land Surveyor. The survey shall be accepted as defining absolutely the boundaries of the claim surveyed, provided it remains unprotested during the period of publication. If, however, within the time specified the survey is protested, the protest shall be heard and decided upon in accordance with the provisions of subclause 2 of section 43*a* of the Mining Regulations. The publication of the notice of survey as above provided shall be accepted in lieu of the notice and publication required by sub-clauses (d) and (e) of section 43 of the said Quartz Mining Regulations. If notice of survey, however, is not given until the expenditure required by sub-clause (a) of section 43 of the Regulations has been incurred, then the notice required by that section of the Regulations must be given.

42-4 Clerk of the Privy Council.

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Wednesday, the 23rd day of March, 1904.

PRESENT :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

Whereas section 33 of the Quartz Mining Regulations, established by Order in Council of 21st March, 1898, provides that the holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to the surface rights, including the use of all timber thereon for mining and building purposes in connection with the working of such claim for the purpose of developing the minerals contained therein ;

And whereas it is represented that quartz mining locations are sometimes staked out for the sake of the timber thereon,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order that section 33 of the said Quartz Mining Regulations shall be and the same is hereby rescinded and the following substituted in lieu thereof :—

" The holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to all surface rights, including the right to cut free of dues such of the timber on the location as may be necessary for the working of the same, but not for sale or traffic, except where such timber has been granted or disposed of prior to the date of entry. The Timber Agent, however may permit any free miner to cut and remove from the claim timber for his own use for mining purposes, when such timber cannot otherwise be had within a reasonable distance, but no such permit shall convey the right to cut or remove timber required by the holder of the claim for his mining operations."

"In the Yukon Territory the timber on a mineral claim shall, subject to the rights existing at the time of the application therefor, be reserved until the Mining Recorder certifies that the same is required for use in connection with mining operations actually in progress on such mineral claim, when the right to use such timber, or any portion thereof, free of dues, may be given the holder of such mineral claim by the Crown Timber and Land Agent with the approval of the Commissioner of the Territory. The Commissioner, however, may authorize the Timber Agent to issue a permit to any free miner to cut and remove from such mineral claim timber required by him for his own use in mining operations when such timber cannot otherwise be obtained by such free miner within a reasonable distance of the place of his mining operations."

(44) GUT OF CANSO—INFORMATION RESPECTING TIDES.

The following information respecting the tides in the Gut of Canso has been compiled by Dr. W. B. Dawson, F.R.S.C., Engineer in charge of the Tidal and Current Survey. It is based upon the tidal information which has been obtained by this Survey, in the waters into which the Gut opens at the two ends. It should be inserted in the St. Lawrence Pilot, vol. ii, sixth edition, 1895, in place of the first paragraph on the tides of the Gut of Canso on page 235 of that publication.

Tides.—It is high water, full and change, at the north and south entrances of the Gut of Canso, at 9h. 15m. and 8h. respectively. Ordinary springs rise 4 feet, neaps 2 feet ; but at times the tides may rise 6 or 7 feet, or only 2 feet. There is the same apparent irregularity also in the tidal streams ; the flood stream sets to the northward and the ebb to the southward ; but the duration of these streams varies from one to four hours after it is high or low water by the shore.

These apparent irregularities are due to the difference in the character of the tide itself, at the two ends of the Gut of Canso. The investigations of the Tidal and Current Survey of Canada have shown that the tide in the region of Northumberland strait, which shows a marked diurnal inequality, is chiefly governed by the declination of the moon. The declination-month overruns the period of the moon's phases, so that the large diurnal inequality characterizes sometimes the spring tides and sometimes the neaps. While these changes recur periodically at the northern end of the Gut, the tide at the Atlantic end maintains the usual variation in height from springs to neaps with great regularity. As the current through the Gut depends on the difference in the height of the tide at the two ends, it necessarily shows great complexity under these conditions.

Before this explanation was found by the investigation of the tides themselves, mariners supposed that the currents were chiefly governed by the wind. The winds no doubt have a disturbing effect, more especially as the range of the tide is not great; but it is more than probable that the behaviour of the tidal streams in this Gut could be brought into relation to astronomical changes, if the moon's declination were kept in view as the leading factor, with greater influence on the result than the change from springs to neaps. PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT qu'il est à propos et nécessaire que les règlements actuels concernant la quarantaine des bestiaux soient modifiés, vu l'abrogation du chapître 69 des Statuts Revisés du Canada, et du chapitre 13 des statuts de 1896,—

A ces causes, il plaît au Gouverneur général en conseil, en vertu des dispositions du chapitre 11 de 3 Edouard VII, intitulé "Acte concernant les maladies infectieuses ou contagieuses chez les bestiaux", de décréter que l'arrêté en conseil daté le 25 de janvier 1897, établissant des règlements concernant la quarantaine et la santé des bestiaux soient et ils sont par le présent rescindés, et les règlements ci-joints leur sont substitués.

JOHN J. McGEE,

Art. 9.—Tous animaux arrivant d'Europe en Canada, par la voie d'un port quelconque sur le littoral canadien, seront soumis, à leur port d'arrivée, à l'inspection des officiers qui seront de temps à autre nommés à cette fin.

Art. 10.—Toutes les inspections d'animaux importés doivent être faites le jour.

Art. 11.—Les inspecteurs auront libre accès à tout quai, vaisseau, wagon, ou à tout endroit où des animaux peuvent se trouver, et, avec l'autorisation du Ministre, traiteront ces animaux, véhicules et autres articles comme le prescrit l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903.

Art. 12.—Les inspecteurs visiteront les vaisseaux ou wagons amenant des animaux dans les dits ports, et s'ils constatent que ces animaux sont exempts de maladie, ils surveilleront leur débarquement, les feront placer selon les exigences du cas, et verront à ce que ceux sujets à la quarantaine soient transportés à la station de quarantaine convenable. Les inspecteurs surveilleront aussi le débarquement et déchargement de tout fourrage, litière, couvertures, auges et autres articles qui auront servi aux dits animaux.

Art. 13.—Les inspecteurs peuvent, s'ils le jugent nécessaire, ordonner le nettoyage et la désinfection de tout vaisseau, local, véhicule, bâtiment ou article, et faire prendre les mesures de précaution qu'ils jugeront à propos, en attendant que le Ministre décide ce qui sera fait plus tard de ce vaisseau, local, véhicule, bâtiment ou article.

Chevaux.

Art. 19.—Les chevaux importés de pays autres que les Etats-Unis en destination de Montréal, doivent être inspectés au port de Québec, durant la navigation d'été si le Ministre l'ordonne ainsi ; à défaut d'instructions spéciales du Ministre ils peuvent être inspectés au port de Montréal. Les chevaux débarqués à aucun des autres ports nommés seront inspectés a ces ports.

Art. 20.—Les chevaux importés de pays autres que les Etats-Unis, doivent être accompagnés d'un certificat d'un vétérinaire compétent et des autorités de la localité d'où ils viennent, que pendant une période de six mois avant leur embarquement il n'avait pas existé dans la dite localité de maladie de la morve, maladie du coït, ou autre maladie infectieuse ou contagieuse.

Art. 21.—Les importateurs de chevaux seront obligés de déclarer sous serment que le certificat produit s'applique au cheval ou aux chevaux qu'il est censé décrire, et à nul autre, et que la localité nommée est véritablement celle d'où vient le dit cheval ou les dits chevaux. Toute tentative d'éluder ou de fausser la vérité sera réputée une violation des règlements, et de plus rendra le cheval ou les chevaux passibles de saisie, et de détention en attendant la décision du Ministre quant à ce qui en sera fait.

RÈGLEMENTS QUARANTENAIRES.

Art. 22.—Les stations de quarantaine seront sous les soins et assujéties aux ordres de fonctionnaires nommés à cette fin, et désignés Surintendants, lesquels auront la surveillance générale et le contrôle des serviteurs ou autres personnes, et de tout ce qui se rattache à la quarantaine.

Art. 23.—Le Surintendant de la dite station règlera le traitement et les soins que devront recevoir les bestiaux soumis à la quarantaine, et il aura également sous sa direction et sa surveillance les divers articles qui serviront aux soins et à la nourriture de ces bestiaux.

Art. 24.—Le bétail âgé de six mois ou plus importé de pays autres que les Etats-Unis et le Mexique, ne sera libéré de la quarantaine qu'après avoir subi l'épreuve de la tuberculine par le Surintendant de la quarantaine ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé.

Art. 25.—Le bétail qui réagit à l'épreuve de la tuberculine mais ne montre pas de symptômes cliniques sera permanemment marqué dans l'oreille droite de la lettre " T " par le fonctionnaire qui fait l'épreuve, et pourra alors être relâché à l'expiration de la période prescrite de quarantaine s'il est trouvé exempt de toutes maladies infectieuses ou contagieuses.

Art. 26.—Le bétail qui montre des symptômes cliniques de tuberculose sera détruit ou il en sera disposé autrement selon l'ordre du Ministre.

Art. 27.—Le Ministre ou le directeur général vétérinaire peut autoriser la destruction de tous les animaux soumis à la quarantaine, et de tout ou partie des articles qui auront été employés aux soins des dits animaux, et cette destruction aura lieu sous la surveillance du Surintendant et de la manière qu'il prescrira.

Art. 28.—Les frais encourus pour la nourriture et les soins à donner aux animaux en quarantaine, sauf ceux encourus pour l'usage des terrains et des abris, seront à la charge du propriétaire ou de l'importateur, et ces frais seront payés avant que les animaux ne puissent quitter la quarantaine ; et à défaut de les payer sous quatorze jours après l'expiration de la période de quarantaine, le Surintendant peut, en donnant quatorze jours d'avis par écrit, délivré ou envoyé par la poste au propriétaire ou importateur, faire vendre les dits animaux pour défrayer les dits frais, ainsi que les dépens incidents à la vente des dits animaux, et la balance, s'il y en a, sera remise au propriétaire.

Art. 29.—On ne permettra jamais qu'un animal en quarantaine vienne en contact avec un animal canadien avant qu'il n'ait été dûment libéré de la quarantaine.

Art. 30.—Un animal en quarantaine ne sera pas sorti de la station de quarantaine avant d'en avoir été dûment libéré par le Surintendant ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé.

Art. 31.—Toute personne qui sort, ou tente de sortir un animal de la station de quarantaine, sans l'autorisation du Surintendant ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé, encourra une amende de $200 pour chaque infraction.

Art. 32.—Tous les animaux importés des Etats-Unis en Canada doivent être accompagnés d'une déclaration statutaire ou affidavit par le propriétaire ou importateur énonçant distinctement les fins pour lesquelles les animaux sont importés, savoir :—Si c'est pour la reproduction, pour le lait, pour le travail, pour le pâturage, pour l'engraissage ou pour la boucherie, ou s'ils forment partie des effets de colons, ou s'ils sont entrés pour rester temporairement, tel que le prescrivent les présents règlements.

Chevaux, mules et ânes.

Art. 34.—A moins d'ordre contraire du Ministre, les chevaux, mules et ânes peuvent être admis à tout port de douane.

Art. 36.—Les chevaux, mules et ânes trouvés atteints de maladies peuvent être renvoyés aux Etats-Unis, ou autrement traités comme le décidera le directeur général vétérinaire.

Art. 37.—Tout bétail sera inspecté, et lorsque possible, doit être accompagné d'un certificat signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, ou par un vétérinaire du gouvernment, énonçant qu'il n'existait pas de maladie contagieuse (sauf la tuberculose et l'actinomycose) dans le district d'où il vient durant la période de six mois précédant immédiatement la date de leur départ de l'endroit.

Art. 38.—Tout le bétail peut être détenu, isolé, soumis à l'épreuve de la tuberculine, immergé ou autrement traité, si le Ministre en ordonne ainsi, ou à défaut de tel ordre, dans le cas où l'inspecteur a raison de croire ou de soupçonner que les animaux sont atteints d'une maladie contagieuse ou infectieuse, ou y ont été exposés.

Art. 39.—Le bétail trouvé malade sera renvoyé aux Etats-Unis, ou autrement traité selon que le directeur général vétérinaire l'ordonnera.

Art. 40.—Le bétail pour fins de reproduction, et pour le lait, âgé de six mois ou plus, s'il est accompagné d'un certificat d'épreuve de la tuberculine signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, doit être détenu en quarantaine durant une semaine ou plus longtemps si c'est nécessaire, et soumis à l'épreuve de la tuberculine ; le bétail qui réagit à cette épreuve doit être renvoyé aux Etats-Unis ou abattu sans compensation.

Art. 41.—Les importateurs peuvent être tenus de fournir une déclaration statutaire à l'effet que le certificat produit s'applique au bétail qu'il est censé décrire, et à nul autre.

Moutons.

Art. 42.—Tous les moutons seront inspectés, et lorsque possible, seront accompagnés d'un certificat signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, ou par un vétérinaire du gouvernement énonçant qu'il n'existait pas de maladie contagieuse des moutons dans le district d'où ils viennent, durant la période de six mois précédant immédiatement la date de leur départ de l'endroit.

Art. 43.—Les moutons peuvent être détenus, isolés, immergés ou autrement traités, si le Ministère l'ordonne ainsi, ou, à défaut de tel ordre, dans le cas où l'inspecteur a raison de croire ou de soupçonner que les animaux sont atteints de maladie contagieuse ou infectieuse, ou y ont été exposés.

Art. 44.—Les moutons trouvés atteints de maladie seront renvoyés aux Etats-Unis, ou autrement traités selon que l'ordonnera le directeur général vétérinaire.

Les susdits règlements, articles 42 à 44 s'appliquent aussi aux chèvres.

Porcs.

Art. 45.—Tous les porcs seront inspectés, et à compter du 1er de mai 1904, une quarantaine de quinze jours sera imposée à tous les porcs, sauf ceux importés pour abattage immédiat.

Art. 46.—Tous les porcs importés au Canada, sauf par abattage, doivent être accompagnés d'un certificat signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, ou par un vétérinaire du gouvernement dûment autorisé, énonçant qu'il n'avait pas existé de peste des porcs ni de choléra des porcs dans un rayon de cinq milles de la localité où ils ont été tenus durant six mois précédant immédiatement la date de l'expédition.

Art. 47.—Les porcs importés pour la boucherie doivent être consignés directement à un entrepôt de douane, un abattoir ou un établissement de paquage, ne doivent pas en être sortis, et doivent être abattus sous dix jours après leur arrivée en Canada.

Art. 48.—Les porcs trouvés atteints de maladie contagieuse seront susceptibles d'être abattus sans compensation.

Art. 49.—Les porcs vivants importés pour la boucherie, et les carcasses de porcs introduites pour être préparées et paquées, ne doivent pas venir en contact avec les animaux canadiens.

Art. 50.—Les wagons, trucks et autres véhicules employés à ce trafic ne seront pas employés au transport des animaux canadiens, mais seront immédiatement scellés et renvoyés aux Etats-Unis.

Art. 51.—Les entrepôts qui servent à ces porcs sont par le présent déclarés endroits infectés, sujets aux règlements que le Ministre jugera bon d'adopter pour empêcher l'introduction de la maladie parmi les animaux du pays.

Art. 52.—Le transport des porcs importés pour la boucherie et des carcasses importées pour être préparées et paquées, l'enlèvement des abats, fumiers et débris, et tous les procédés relatifs au dit trafic, seront soumis à l'inspection et aux règlements dans le sens du présent arrêté, sous le contrôle du Ministre.

ANIMAUX DESTINÉS AUX EXPOSITIONS.

Art. 53.—Les animaux autres que les porcs peuvent être admis pour des fins d'expositions seulement, moyennant inspection au port d'entrée, sujets aux règlements douaniers ordinaires.

IMPORTATION D'ANIMAUX DU MEXIQUE.

Art. 54.—Toute personne se proposant d'importer des animaux du Mexique doit, en sus de toutes les autres exigences du présent arrêté, en premier lieu obtenir du Ministre un permis énonçant le nombre et l'espèce d'animaux à importer, le district et l'Etat du Mexique d'où ils seront expédiés, et la date probable de leur arrivée à un port d'entrée canadien. La personne demandant ce permis devra fournir une preuve satisfaisante que les faits sont tels qu'énoncés.

ANIMAUX EN ENTREPÔT.

Art. 55.—Les animaux traversant le territoire des Etats-Unis en entrepôt pour importation en Canada doivent être accompagnés d'un certificat de santé signé par un vétérinaire du United States Bureau of Animal Industry, et par un affidavit du propriétaire ou importateur à l'effet que le dit certificat réfère aux animaux en question. Ces animaux seront, néanmoins, soumis à l'inspection, et si la chose est nécessaire, détenus avant de pouvoir entrer sur le territoire canadien. Si ces animaux sont trouvés atteints de maladies ils seront soumis aux ordres de l'officier inspecteur sous le contrôle du directeur général vétérinaire.

Art. 56.—Les animaux peuvent être admis en Canada d'une partie quelconque des Etats-Unis pour être transportés en entrepôt à toute autre partie des Etats-Unis, et (à l'exception des porcs) seront admis en Canada en entrepôt pour être transportés à tout port canadien pour exportation par mer à l'Europe ou ailleurs. Ces animaux seront inspectés au port canadien d'expédition.

Art. 57.—Le transit de ces animaux se fera sous l'empire des règlements que le Ministre établira de temps à autre.

EXPORTATION.

Art. 58.—Les animaux canadiens en transit à un port des Etats-Unis pour être exportés par mer à l'Europe ou ailleurs doivent être inspectés aux endroits en Canada que le Ministre désignera de temps à autre; ils ne doivent pas être expédiés de l'endroit d'inspection avant qu'un inspecteur vétérinaire dûment autorisé ne les ait déclarés exempts de maladie infectieuse et contagieuse et autrement propres à l'exportation, et les percepteurs des douanes ne doivent pas les laisser sortir du Canada sans être accompagnés du dit certificat.

Art. 59.—Les animaux destinés à l'exportation doivent, si possible, atteindre le port d'exportation au moins douze heures avant l'embarquement, pour repos et inspection. Les animaux en retard seront exposés à être détenus, à la discrétion de l'inspecteur.

Art. 60.—Les inspecteurs peuvent en tous temps détenir les animaux aussi longtemps qu'ils le jugeront nécessaire pour leur permettre de faire une inspection parfaite et satisfaisante, et de s'assurer que toutes les dispositions des présents règlements y relatives ont été dûment observées.

Art. 61.—Les propriétaires et personnes en charge d'animaux destinés à l'exportation donneront vingt-quatre heures d'avis à l'inspecteur, à son bureau, énonçant le nom et l'espèce des animaux et la date probable de leur arrivée au port d'exportation.

Art. 62.—On ne permettra pas que des animaux soient mis à bord d'un vapeur ou autre vaisseau pour exportation d'un port canadien, avant qu'ils n'aient été inspectés par un inspecteur vétérinaire dûment autorisé au dit port, et déclarés par lui exempts de maladie contagieuse, et propres à l'exportation sous tous rapports; cette inspection sera faite sous vingt-quatre heures avant l'embarquement.

Art. 63.—Dans l'exécution de leurs devoirs, les inspecteurs auront libre accès à tout navire, wagon ou autre véhicule, et à tout enclos, étable ou endroit où se trouvent des animaux.

Art. 64.—Toutes les inspections pour l'exportation se feront de plein jour.

Art. 65.—Durant le progrès de l'inspection à un port d'exportation, les propriétaires ou expéditeurs donneront autant que possible toute l'aide nécessaire à l'inspecteur du port, et déplaceront les animaux selon ses ordres. Si le propriétaire ou expéditeur refuse ou néglige de fournir l'aide nécessaire, l'inspecteur pourra employer des hommes aux frais du propriétaire ou expéditeur, et ces frais seront payés à l'inspecteur avant qu'une patente de santé ne soit donnée.

Art. 66.—Les inspecteurs marqueront chaque animal inspecté par eux, et aucun animal ne sera embarqué sans cette marque. Un certificat d'inspection énonçant le nom du propriétaire, le nombre, sexe et classe des animaux dans la consignation, et les déclarant exempts de maladie contagieuse, sera fourni par l'inspecteur, et doit être présenté au percepteur des douanes avant l'embarquement.

Art. 68.—Les inspecteurs peuvent rejeter des animaux pour toute cause raisonnable.

Art. 69.—Le percepteur des douanes de tout port en Canada d'où des animaux sont exportés, ne donnera pas de congé à un navire ayant à bord des animaux pour exportation, à moins qu'on ne lui exhibe un certificat signé par l'inspecteur, à l'effet que les règlements s'y rapportant ont été rigoureusement observés.

VAISSEAUX INFECTÉS.

Art. 70.—Les vaisseaux qui ont transporté des bestiaux, moutons ou autres ruminants, parmi lesquels aura été découvert l'eczéma épizootique, devront rester soixante jours sans pouvoir embarquer de bestiaux, moutons ou autres ruminants ou porcs dans un port canadien; et de plus, jusqu'à ce que ces vaisseaux aient été parfaitement nettoyés et désinfectés sous la surveillance d'un inspecteur ou autre fonctionnaire dûment autorisé.

LICOUS.

Art. 71.—L'importation de licous dont on se sera servi pour attacher des bestiaux, est défendue, et tous navires portant ou ayant à bord de ces licous, en contravention au présent règlement, seront passibles d'être déclarés infectés en vertu de l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903.

OFFICIERS DES DOUANES.

Art. 72.—Les percepteurs des douanes aux différents ports du Canada devront veiller à ce que les dispositions et prescriptions du présent arrêté soient exécutées, avant d'accorder aucun permis pour l'obtention duquel quelque formalité, inspection ou autre procédé est nécessaire; ils devront veiller à ce que les prohibitions prescrites et les règlements établis par le présent arrêté tels que ci-dessus mentionnés, soient respectés, et à ce que les instructions que pourra donner le Ministre soient suivies; et dans le cas de quelque infraction aux dispositions du présent arrêté, ils devront immédiatement faire rapport au Ministre de l'étendue et de la nature de ces infractions.

DISPOSITIONS GÉNÉRALES.

Art. 73.—Pour empêcher que des animaux malades soient transportés d'un endroit à un autre sur le territoire canadien, ou expédiés et embarqués à des ports canadiens, il est arrêté comme suit:—

Une inspection des animaux peut avoir lieu dans tout endroit et en tout temps sous l'autorité du Ministre.

Art. 74.—Pour faire cette inspection, les inspecteurs auront libre accès à tout vaisseau, wagon, enclos, étable, hangar ou local qu'ils jugeront nécessaire de visiter.

Art. 76.—Si quelque maladie infectieuse ou contagieuse des animaux est découverte à bord d'un paquebot, vaisseau ou wagon, ou dans une étable, hangar, enclos ou autre endroit l'inspecteur devra, après que l'animal ou les animaux infectés auront été déplacés, veiller à la désinfection parfaite de ce paquebot, wagon, étable, hangar, enclos ou autre endroit, sans délai, en la manière prescrite par les règlements généraux pour la désinfection des lieux.

Art. 77.—Tous les enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux utilisés par les compagnies de chemins de fer ou compagnies de paquebots, ou par des particuliers pour y loger des bestiaux seront entretenus en état de propreté, de confort et de salubrité, et seront en tout temps assujétis à inspection de la part des inspecteurs agissant sous l'autorité du Ministre, lesquels, lorsqu'ils le jugeront nécessaire, pourront ordonner que les dits enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux soient nettoyés et désinfectés d'une manière satisfaisante tel que le prescrit l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903.

Art. 78.—Au cas où un propriétaire, locataire ou occupant d'un enclos, étable, hangar ou autres locaux, ou une compagnie de chemin de fer ou compagnie de paquebots ou un particulier refuserait ou négligerait d'obéir aux ordres de l'inspecteur relativement au nettoyage ou à la désinfection, comme susdit, et dans le cas où ce propriétaire, locataire ou occupant, compagnie ou particulier négligerait d'entretenir ses enclos, étables, hangars ou autres locaux en état de propreté, confort et de salubrité, l'inspecteur peut condamner les dits locaux comme étant impropres au service; sur quoi ces locaux ne pourront plus servir à loger des bestiaux tant que les ordres de l'inspecteur à leur sujet n'auront pas été exécutés d'une façon satisfaisante.

Art. 79.—Il ne sera pas permis de placer des animaux à bord des wagons tant que la litière du chargement précédent n'aura pas été enlevée, et le wagon blanchi avec un mélange de chaux vive et d'acide carbolique, dans la proportion d'une livre d'acide carbolique du commerce pour 5 gallons d'eau de chaux.

Art. 80.—Les expéditeurs peuvent refuser de placer leurs animaux dans des wagons sales, et peuvent se plaindre à l'inspecteur le plus rapproché, qui fera nettoyer et désinfecter ces wagons, tel que prescrit ci-dessus, aux frais de la compagnie de chemin de fer, ou défendre de s'en servir tant qu'ils n'auront pas été nettoyés et désinfectés.

Art. 81.—Toute personne qui enfreindra aucune disposition de l'Acte concernant les épizooties, 1903, ou aucune disposition du présent arrêté, encourra les peines prescrites par le dit arrêté. 42-2

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que l'article 33 des règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses, établis par arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que le détenteur d'une concession minière sur des terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface, y compris l'usage de tout le bois qui s'y trouve pour des fins minières ou de construction relativement à l'exploitation de la dite concession dans le but de développer les minéraux qu'elle contient ;

Et considérant qu'il est représenté que des emplacements de mines quartzeuses sont quelques fois jalonnés que pour le bois qui s'y trouve,—

A ces causes, il plaît au Gouverneur général en conseil d'ordonner que l'article 33 des dits règlements de mines quartzeuses soit et il est par le présent rescindé, et remplacé par le suivant :—

"Le détenteur d'une concession minière sur les terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface y compris la faculté d'abattre sans payer de droits tout le bois sur l'emplacement qui sera nécessaire pour l'exploiter, mais non pour la vente ou le trafic, sauf là où le bois a été concédé ou vendu préalablement à la date de l'inscription. L'agent des bois peut, toutefois, permettre à tout mineur libre d'abattre et d'enlever de l'emplacement du bois pour son propre usage dans son exploitation minière, s'il ne peut s'en procurer autrement dans une distance raisonnable, mais nul tel permis ne concédera le droit d'abattre ou d'enlever du bois dont le détenteur de l'emplacement a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières.

"Dans le territoire du Yukon, le bois sur un emplacement minier sera, sujet aux droits existants lors de la demande de la concession, réservé jusqu'à ce que le régistrateur des mines certifie que ce bois est requis pour servir dans des opérations minières sur cet emplacement minier, et alors le droit de se servir de ce bois, ou d'une partie de ce bois, sans payer de droits, peut être donné au détenteur de cet emplacement minier par l'agent des bois et des terres de la Couronne avec l'approbation du commissaire du territoire. Le commissaire peut, toutefois, autoriser l'agent des bois à émettre un permis à tout mineur libre pour abattre et enlever de cet emplacement minier le bois dont il a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières lorsque ce bois ne peut s'obtenir autrement dans une distance raisonnable de l'endroit de ses opérations minières.

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements concernant la concession de mines quartzeuses sur les terres fédérales, établis par l'arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que dans aucun cas les frais d'arpentage ne seront considérés comme améliorations ou travail fait sur une concession, à moins que l'arpentage soit fait sous un an de la date de l'enregistrement de la concession, auquel cas les frais d'arpentage n'excédant pas $100 seront comptés comme travail fait sur l'emplacement ; et par un arrêté en conseil daté le 21 de janvier 1901, l'article 31 des dits règlements a été modifié de façon que si l'arpentage d'un emplacement minier a été fait sous un an à compter de la date à laquelle l'emplacement a été enregistré, le coût de cet arpentage, n'excédant pas $100, sera compté comme travail fait sur l'emplacement pour cette année-là.

Il plaît au Gouverneur en conseil d'ordonner que les dits articles des susdits règlements soient et ils sont par le présent modifiés comme suit :—

Les frais de l'arpentage d'une concession minière, n'excédant pas $100, toutefois, seront acceptés au lieu de travail représentatif sur la concession pour l'année dans laquelle l'arpentage est fait, que ce soit la première année ou non, pourvu qu'avis de cet arpentage soit immédiatement inséré pendant au moins soixante jours dans un journal publié ou circulant dans le district dans lequel l'emplacement est situé, ce journal devant être approuvé par le registrateur des mines, et pourvu aussi que le propriétaire de l'emplacement, avant la première publication de cet avis, fasse afficher dans un endroit bien en vue sur l'emplacement, et dans le bureau du registrateur des mines pour le district, un avis de son intention d'annoncer l'arpentage de l'emplacement, et aussi une copie du plan de l'arpentage préparé et attesté sous serment par un arpenteur fédéral. L'arpentage sera accepté comme définissant absolument les bornes de l'emplacement arpenté, pourvu qu'il reste non protesté dans le cours de la publication. Toutefois, si dans le délai spécifié l'arpentage est protesté, le protêt sera entendu et il en sera décidé conformément aux dispositions du paragraphe 2 de l'article 43*a* des règlements miniers. La publication de l'avis d'arpentage comme susdit, sera accepté au lieu de l'avis et la publication exigés par les paragraphes (d) et (e) de l'article 43 des dits règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses. Mais si l'avis d'arpentage n'est donné qu'après que la dépense exigée par le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements aura été encourue, alors l'avis exigé par le dit article des règlements doit être donné.

L'époux qui a l'intention de demander un bill de divorce doit faire connaître cette intention, ainsi que les noms de l'autre époux et la cause du divorce, par avis inséré durant six mois avant la présentation de sa pétition pour obtenir le bill, dans la Gazette du Canada et dans deux journaux du district où il avait sa résidence habituelle à l'époque de séparation d'avec son conjoint, s'il résidait alors dans la province de Québec, le Manitoba, la Colombie Britannique, ou les Territoires du Nord-Ouest,—ou du comté ou des comtés-unis, s'il résidait dans une autre province ; mais si ce nombre de journaux ne s'y trouve pas, l'avis sera publié dans le district, le comté ou les comtés-unis voisins. Dans les provinces de Québec et de Manitoba, les insertions seront faites dans un journal anglais et un journal français, s'il en existe des deux langues dans le district : autrement, elles se feront en anglais et en français au même journal.

Les allégations de la pétition seront appuyées de la déclaration du pétitionnaire faite en vertu de "l'Acte de la preuve en Canada, 1893."

Huit jours avant l'ouverture du Parlement, le pétitionnaire déposera au bureau du greffier du Sénat, une copie en langue anglaise ou française du bill de divorce qui doit être présenté, et en même temps une somme suffisante pour payer la traduction et l'impression et tirage à 600 exemplaires anglais et 200 exemplaires français de ce bill.

La pétition, au moment de sa présentation, doit être accompagnée de la preuve de la publication d'avis, d'une déclaration qu'il a été signifié une copie de l'avis, et d'une copie du bill qui doit être présenté.

To all to whom these presents shall come, or whom the same may in anywise concern,—GREETING :

A PROCLAMATION.

E. L. NEWCOMBE,
Deputy of the Minister of
Justice, Canada.

WHEREAS in view of the facts that the Culbute Canal locks on the Ottawa River were much decayed and that in order to make them permanently effective considerable cost would have been entailed, while, on the other hand, the traffic was of inconsiderable extent, the railway facilities having greatly lessened the anticipated usefulness of the works, it was decided in the year 1889 to abandon the idea of maintaining the waters of the river at an artificial height, and an Order in Council was passed on the twenty-fourth day of October in that year to the effect that the river should be allowed to resume its natural level ;

And whereas it is deemed expedient that public notice should be given of the abandonment of the said works and the dams, that is to say ; The Culbute Locks and Dams, being two combined locks constructed and situated on the North Channel of the River at L'Islet, on the north side of the Allumette Island with the submerged dam between L'Islet and the north shore of Allumette Island said works being located in the Township of Chichester, Range II ;

The Chapeau Bridge consisting of a highway bridge built across the Culbute Channel at the Chapeau Rapids between Chapeau Village, Allumette Island, and the said Township of Chichester ;

The works between Calumet Falls and the Culbute Canal consisting of two submerged dams, one at the Grand Calumet Channel and the other at the Flat Rapid on the Rocher Fendu channel, between the south shore of Calumet Island and a small Island in the south channel of the Ottawa River ;

And other works associated therewith.

Now Know Ye that We, by and with the advice of our Privy Council for Canada, do, by this Our proclamation, proclaim and declare that the said Culbute Canal and the locks, dams and other works associated therewith have been and the same are hereby abandoned as public works of Canada.

Of all which Our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern, are hereby required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS, Our Right Trusty and Right Well-beloved Cousin and Councillor the Right Honourable Sir GILBERT JOHN ELLIOT, Earl of Minto and Viscount Melgund of Melgund, County of Forfar, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Baron Minto of Minto, County of Roxburgh, in the Peerage of Great Britain, Baronet of Nova Scotia, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, etc., etc., Governor General of Canada.

At Our Government House, in Our City of OTTAWA, this TWELTH day of MARCH, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four, and in the fourth year of Our Reign.

By Command,

JOSEPH POPE,
Under-Secretary of State.

(On the original of the following Regulations the words "Proceed accordingly" appear in His Imperial Majesty's hand. Tsarskoye Selo, March 27, 1895.)

REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO NAVAL PRIZES

General Regulations.

1. The provisions of these Regulations are applicable in all cases for which, in matters relating to naval prizes, special rules are not laid down by Conventions between Russia and other nations.

Observation.—Special rules are in force in regard to the seizure of the property of an enemy on shore or from the shore.

2. In exact accordance with the Declaration of Paris of the 4th (16th) April, 1856,* the following rules are to be observed in applying these Regulations :—

(1.) Letters of marque are not to be issued to private persons ;

(2.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war ;

(3.) Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not subject to confiscation under an enemy's flag ; and

(4.) A blockade, in order to be considered binding, must be effective, i.e., must be carried out by armed forces sufficient to prevent effectively access to the enemy's coast.

3. For the capture of a prize use must be made either of open force or of permissible "ruses de guerre," but recourse must never be had to breaches of faith.

4. The Imperial Government makes the application of those provisions of the present Regulations which limit the right of stopping, examining, seizing, and confiscating the vessels of a hostile or neutral Power or of its subjects, conditional on the principle of reciprocity, and reserves to itself the right to allow departures from the above-mentioned rules in dealing with a hostile or neutral Power from which the observation of those rules is not to be expected, and to bring its arrangements in regard to this matter into accord with the special circumstances of each particular case.

5. The following, viz. : (1) vessels and cargoes of the enemy or of a neutral nationality which have been seized ; and (2) Russian or neutral vessels or cargoes, and vessels or cargoes of an allied nation, which have been retaken from the enemy after capture by him ("reprises"), are considered to be prizes, if their seizure or recapture has been effected in the circumstances specified in these Regulations.

SECTION I.—STOPPAGE, EXAMINATION AND SEIZURE OF VESSELS AND CARGOES, AND THEIR CONFISCATION AS PRIZES.

Chapter I.—What Vessels and Cargoes are subject to Stoppage, Examination, Seizure, and Confiscation.

6. In time of war at sea, merchant vessels (all vessels not forming part of a war fleet being considered such) may be subjected to stoppage and examination with the object of ascertaining what is their nationality, and whether they are observing neutrality. Merchant vessels convoyed by ships of war of an allied or neutral Power are not to be subjected to examination, if the commander of the convoy gives an assurance as to the number of the vessels convoyed, their neutrality and

* The actual text of the Declaration of Paris as signed in French is as follows :—

"1. La course est et demeure abolie ;

"2. Le pavillon neutre couvre la marchandise, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre :

"3. La marchandise neutre, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre, n'est pas saisissable sous pavillon ennemi ;

"4. Les blocus, pour être obligatoires, doivent être effectifs, c'est-à-dire, maintenus par une force suffisante pour interdire réellement l'accès du littoral de l'ennemi."

the destination of their cargoes, and also that there is no contraband of war on board. The stoppage and examination of such vessels is permissible only in the following circumstances :—

(1.) If the commander of the convoy declines to give the assurance indicated above ;

(2.) If he states that any of the vessels are not sailing under his convoy ; and

(3.) If it is evident that a vessel under convoy is preparing to do something which constitutes a breach of neutrality.

7. The nationality of a vessel is to be decided in accordance with the laws of the country under the flag of which she is sailing, or to the fleet of which she claims to belong. Merchant vessels purchased from a hostile Power or its subjects by persons of a neutral nationality are to be considered enemy's vessels, unless it is proved that their purchase must be regarded, under the laws of the nation to which the purchasers belong, as having been definitely concluded before the purchasers received information of the declaration of war, or that the vessels were purchased in the manner indicated after the purchasers received that information, but that the purchase was made in perfect good faith, and not with the object of protecting enemy's property.

8. Neutrality is to be considered infringed in the circumstances described in Articles 11 and 12.

9. Vessels and cargoes which, in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, appear to be subject to confiscation as prizes are to be seized.

10. Ships of war and merchant vessels of the enemy are subject to confiscation as prizes, as well as all articles on board, except—

(1.) Such as are intended for the private use of the crew or passengers; and

(2.) Such as belong to the Government of a neutral Power or to its subjects, and do not constitute contraband of war. Nevertheless, the Imperial Government reserves the right to permit, on the basis of reciprocity, the exemption from confiscation of all, or of a particular class of hostile vessels and cargoes, excepting, however, cases where such vessels or cargoes are liable to confiscation on the grounds indicated in Articles 11 and 12 for neutral vessels.

Observation.—All property found in an enemy's ship is to be considered as enemy's property unless the contrary is proved.

11. Merchant vessels of a neutral nationality are liable to confiscation as prizes in the following cases :—

(1.) When such vessels are found conveying to the enemy or to any enemy's port—

(a.) Articles and stores required for shooting with firearms, or objects or substances used for causing explosions, whatever the amount of such things may be;

(b.) Other articles of contraband of war amounting, in bulk or weight, to more than half of the entire cargo ;

(c.) Military forces of the enemy ;—provided that in all these cases it is not proved that the masters of the vessels concerned were unaware of the declaration of war ;

(2.) When such vessels are found breaking a blockade, and it is not proved that the masters were unaware of the establishment of the blockade ;

(3.) When such vessels resists by force of arms stoppage, examination, or seizure ; and,

(4.) When they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy.

12. The cargo of merchant vessels of a neutral nationality is liable to be confiscated as a prize :—

(1.) When such cargo is contraband of war in course of transportation to the enemy or to an enemy's port, and it is not proved that the master of the vessel was unaware of the declaration of war ;

(2.) When the cargo is on board a vessel which is liable to confiscation under heads 2-4 of Article 11, and it is not proved that such cargo belongs to Russians, or to neutrals who have taken no part in the infractions entailing confiscation.

13. The articles considered to be contraband of war are enumerated in a separate Declaration for the information of the public. Those of such articles which really constitute the armament and provisions of a vessel of a neutral nationality are exempted from confiscation.

14. In cases where the contraband of war is alone liable to confiscation, and not the vessel carrying it (Article 11, head 1 ; Article 12, head 1), the vessel herself is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over. The delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander making the seizure, either on the spot where the seizure takes place, or after the captured ship has been brought into port.

Chapter 2.—Conditions and Consequences of the Stoppage, Examination, and Seizure of Vessels and Cargoes.

15. The right to stop, examine, and seize hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes belongs to the ships of the Imperial Navy. Vessels of the mercantile navy have a right to do so only—

(1.) When they are attacked by hostile or suspected vessels ; and

(2.) When they come to the assistance of Russian or allied ships exposed to attack.

Vessels and cargoes seized on these grounds by merchant vessels must be handed over by them to the custody of the authority specified in Articles 23 and 24, and they will have the right to claim, in the event of the confiscation of the vessels and cargoes as prizes, the reward fixed for their seizure.

Observation.—The limitations fixed in this Article for merchant vessels are not to extend to cases for which special rules may be laid down under Article 4 of these Regulations.

16. The stopping, examining, and seizing of hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes is permitted in all parts of the sea and other waters, with the exception of waters which are under the domination of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special international Agreements.

17. On the declaration of war, warlike operations at sea will begin at the time indicated by the Imperial Government. In the event of a truce, those operations will be limited in accordance with the terms of the truce, and on the conclusion of peace they will cease, at the moment when the ships of the fleet receive the proper intimation of the conclusion of a truce or of peace.

18. When a Commander seizes a merchant vessel or her cargo, it is his duty to draw up a Report on the grounds and circumstances of the seizure, and also to take the necessary steps for the preservation of the captured vessel or cargo. Furthermore, when the vessel herself is seized—

(1.) The Commander will detain temporarily, together with the vessel, independently of the question whether they are to be considered prisoners of war or not, the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew whose statements may, in the opinion of the Commander making the seizure, be necessary for throwing light upon the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases ; and

(2.) A list will be made of the papers found in the vessel, and they will be sealed up.

19. The master of a merchant-vessel which has been seized, and also the owners of the vessel or her cargo, and the agents of the owners, if they are on the spot, have a right to be present at the proceedings specified in the first part of Article 18 and under head 2 of the same Article, to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them, and to place their seals on any objects and holds on which seals are placed.

20. On the seizure of a ship of war, the Commander of the ship making the capture will proceed in accordance with Article 351 of the Naval Regulations (edition of 1899.)

21. In exceptional cases, when the preservation of a captured vessel appears impossible on account of her bad condition or entire worthlessness, the danger of her recapture by the enemy, or the great distance or blockade of ports, or else on account of danger threatening the ship which has made the capture or the success of her operations, it is permissible for the Commander, on his own responsibility, to burn or sink the captured vessel, after he has taken off all persons on board, and as much of the cargo as possible, and arranged for the safety of the vessel's papers and any other objects which may be necessary for throwing light on the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases. The Commander will draw up a Report, in accordance with Article 353 of the Naval Regulations (edition of 1899), on the circumstances which have made it necessary for him to destroy the captured vessel.

22. Captured vessels and cargoes are to be taken by the ship making the capture to Russian ports, or, if there are none near, to ports of an allied Power or to the operating Russian fleet. In case of stress of weather, or other extreme necessity, the ship which has made the capture may, with the captured vessel, take refuge in the port of a neutral Power. In regard to the length and conditions of his stay in such a port, the Commander of the ship which has made the capture is bound to obey the regulations made on the subject by the Government of the place.

23. When the captured vessel or cargo has been brought to a Russian port or to the operating fleet, it is to be handed over to the naval authority together with the proper papers (Articles 18 and 21). The naval authority, after opening the papers which have been sealed up, will make arrangements for taking over, making an inventory of, and preserving, the property delivered to it, and also, in case of absolute necessity, for the sale by public auction of any articles among those handed over, which from their nature or condition will not keep. The Commander of the ship which made the capture or his representative, and the persons specified in Article 19, have a right to be present at these proceedings, and to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them.

24. The rights and duties of the naval authority, specified in Article 23, will, in the absence of such authority, be taken over (1) in Russian ports, by the local port, customs, or police authority; and (2) in ports of an allied nation, after agreement of the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs with the proper foreign authorities, by the local Russian naval agency, or Russian Consulate, or other authority.

25. The proper authority (Articles 23 and 24) will at once inform the nearest Prize Court of the arrival of the captured vessel or cargo in port, and, after taking the steps specified in Article 23, will place at the disposal of the Court the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew of the captured vessel who have been detained to throw light on the case, and also all papers relating to it.

26. Detailed Rules of Procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing, and also for taking away and handing over captured vessels and cargoes are laid down by instructions approved by the Admiralty Council.

Chapter 3.—Conditions and Consequences of the Confiscation of Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

27. The confiscation of captured ships of war and their cargoes is to be carried out in accordance with the orders of the competent naval authority. The confiscation of other vessels and cargoes which have been seized can only be carried out in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court.

28. Captured property is subject to confiscation only if it belongs to the class of articles which may be confiscated as prizes (Articles 10-12), and if its seizure fulfils the conditions laid down (Articles 2, 3, and 15-17). In the contrary case, the property is to be released and returned to its original owner.

29. If the property which ought to be returned to the original owner has been sold or released on payment of a deposit, the full sum obtained by the sale or paid as a deposit is to be handed over to the owner. If it appears that the property which ought to be returned has been destroyed by order of the naval Commander, or has perished by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve it, the equivalent of the value of the property which has been destroyed or which has perished is to be paid to the owner, the valuation to be based on such information as is supplied.

30. Apart from the restoration of property which ought to be returned, or the payment of the equivalent of its value (Articles 28 and 29), a special indemnity may be awarded to the original owner for losses caused by the seizure of the property, when it is recognized that the property was seized without sufficient reason, or that the seizure was an infringement of Agreements concluded (Articles 16 and 17). If the property is returned in a damaged condition, an indemnity may be awarded to the owner for his losses, if it is proved that the damage was caused by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve the property.

31. Property seized in waters which are under the dominion of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special international Agreements, is not to be returned to its original owner, and he is not to be indemnified for losses caused by the property being detained or damaged, unless application is made by the neutral Power concerned, or by a Power which is a signatory of the Agreements referred to, and unless such application is made within one year from the day on which the property was seized. If no application is made within the time specified, the captured property is to be confiscated for the benefit of the State, and no prize money is to be paid to the captor.

32. The amounts to be paid under Articles 29-31 as equivalents of the value of property destroyed or of losses incurred through the seizure of property or damage to it, are to be drawn from Government funds, and repayment of such expenditure is to be claimed, in the manner established by law, in cases where such claim can properly be made, from the persons through whose fault the liability was incurred.

33. Objects confiscated as prizes become the property of the nation. Such objects are to be valued, and such of them as the naval authorities do not consider it desirable to retain are to be sold by public auction. In both cases prize money is to be paid for the capture of the property in question.

Observation.—The valuation and sale of prizes is carried out in accordance with rules issued by the Director of the Ministry of Marine in consultation with the Minister of Finance.

34. In regard to Russian and foreign vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy, and the removal and delivery of such vessels and cargoes, the general rules concerning the seizure, removal, and delivery of hostile and suspected vessels are to be observed, as well as the following special Regulations:—

(1.) Property recaptured from the enemy, although it may have been already confiscated by the enemy as a prize, is to be restored, upon a decision of the Prize Court, to the original owner, with the obligation of paying the prize-money for the recapture and the expenses incurred in connection with the recapture; and if any property of the enemy be found on board a recaptured vessel, such property is to be considered a prize, and is to be confiscated under the general rules;

(2.) Russian Government ships and cargoes recaptured from the enemy are to be restored to the Government without the intervention of a Court, upon the order of the competent naval authority; and

(3.) Property of a foreigner which is recaptured from the enemy is to be restored to the foreigner, and no claim for prize-money or for the expenses of recapture is to be made against him, if it be proved that the property could not lawfully be considered a prize by the enemy, but ought to have been released; in such a case no prize-money is to be paid for the recapture.

SECTION II.—PRIZE-MONEY.

35. Prize-money is paid to those portions of the fleet (squadron, division, or ships) by which the capture or recapture of a prize has been effected, or which, at the time of the capture or recapture, were taking part in warlike operations jointly with such portions, or contributed to their success by their presence.

36. Commanders of squadrons and divisions receive a share of all prize-money awarded to portions of the fleet which are under their command. All other persons serving in the navy, including volunteers, have a right to a share of any prize-money that may be awarded to portions of the fleet, only if such persons, at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize, were present with the portion of the fleet concerned, or if, although belonging to that portion of the fleet, they were not present in consequence of wounds or mutilations suffered during the war in question, or because they were sent elsewhere for reasons connected with the operations in progress.

37. Land forces on board of ships of war are entitled to a share of prize-money only when they have taken a direct part in the capture or recapture of the prize, or have acted jointly with the naval forces in the operations at the time of such capture or recapture.

38. Apart from the persons specified in Articles 35-37, a share of the prize-money is due to persons who have exposed the prize by giving notice and information about it to the naval authorities, although such persons may not have taken part in the capture or recapture of the prize.

39. Shares of the prize-money are to be paid to the persons specified in Articles 35-37 according to the rank, designation, or duties assigned to each at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize.

40. A person giving information about a prize (Article 38) is to receive 4 per cent of the sum fixed, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46), as the amount of the prize-money.

41. The shares due to persons who have died after the conclusion of the operations for which prize-money has been awarded, and the shares due to persons killed before the conclusion of the operations in the engagement in which those operations took place, are to be divided between their widows and direct descendants, in accordance with the general law of inheritance ; if the deceased have left no direct descendants, but only widows, the full shares are to be paid to the latter ; if there are neither direct descendants nor widows, the shares are to be handed over to the Invalid Fund ; and in cases coming under the provisions of Article 19 of the Regulations regarding the Naval Pensions Fund they are to be paid into that Fund.

Chapter 2.—Amount of Prize-Money and its Distribution.

42. For the capture, by ships of the Imperial navy, of property afterwards confiscated as prize, prize-money is paid as follows, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46) : (1) for war-ships of an enemy, their equipments and cargoes, if they were captured in an engagement, three-fourths of the value of the prize : if they were captured without fighting, half the value of the prize ; (2) for merchant vessels and cargoes, if they were captured with fighting, the full value of the prize ; if without fighting, three-fourths of the value ; and (3) for enemy's property found in Russian or foreign vessels recaptured from the enemy, the full value of the prize.

43. For the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, prize-money to the full value of the prize is paid.

44. For the capture of property (1) destroyed by order of a naval commander and adjudged, after the proper proceedings, to have been liable to confiscation ; (2) released in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court, afterwards reversed ; or (3) restored by the competent authority in accordance with the terms of a truce or peace, the prize money is to be determined in each particular case according to the circumstances by the Admiralty Council, but is not to exceed the limits specified in Articles 42 and 43.

45. For the recapture of Russian or foreign vessels and cargoes seized by the enemy, a sum equivalent to one-eighth of the value of the recaptured property is payable as prize-money ; but if the recapture was effected in exceptionally difficult and dangerous circumstances, an amount not exceeding one-fourth of the value may be paid.

46. The value of captured or recaptured property is the amount obtained by its sale, or, if it is not sold, the estimated value, after deduction from those amounts of (1) the customs dues payable on merchant vessels and cargoes in accordance with the Customs Regulations ; and (2) the expenditure on bringing in, unloading, packing, valuing, and preserving the property, and also the expenses of sale, if a sale has taken place. Out of the total obtained in this manner, 10 per cent is to be paid to the Invalid Fund.

Observation.—On the restoration to its original owners of property recaptured from the enemy, or of money deposited to obtain the release of such property, the owners (except in the case of the Government) are bound to refund the expenses specified under head 2 in this Article.

47. The prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of the Imperial navy is divided amongst the persons having a right to share in it, in accordance with special Tables. In those Tables the persons who may have a right to prize-money are divided into classes, according to the degree of their responsibility and their several ranks, designations, and duties in the service, and also according to the measure of their participation in the capture of the prize, and to each person belonging to a particular class a certain number of shares are assigned. These Tables, after revision by the Admiralty Council, are laid before His Imperial Majesty for approval.

48. In the case of the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, the owners of the capturing vessels receive from one-fourth to one half of the total prize-money, according to the damage suffered by their vessels in capturing the prize. Each owner receives a share corresponding to his share in the ownership of the vessels. The remainder of the prize-money is divided among the crews of the capturing vessels, according to the rules in force for the division of prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of war, with such modifications as may be necessary in consequence of the different conditions of service in the merchant navy.

49. The fixing of the amount of the prize-money for the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, and the actual division of the prize-money for the recapture from the enemy of Russian vessels and cargoes not the property of the Imperial Government, as well as of foreign vessels and cargoes, are part of the duties of Prize Courts. In all other cases the fixing of the amount of the prize-money and its division are intrusted to special Commissions and the Admiralty Council, acting under rules laid down by the Director of the Ministry of Marine, in consultation with the Ministers of Finance and War.

SECTION III.—CONSTITUTION OF PRIZE COURTS AND PROCEDURE IN PRIZE CASES.

Chapter 1.—Constitution of Prize Courts.

50. The investigation of prize cases is intrusted (1) to Port and Admiral's Prize Courts, and (2) to the Admiralty Council as Supreme Prize Court.

51. Port Prize Courts are established by the Director of the Ministry of Marine at Russian ports, and, if necessary, and with the sanction of the foreign Government concerned, at ports of an allied Power. Admiral's Prize Courts are established under Admirals having separate commands.

52. A Port Prize Court consists of a President and five members. The President of a Port Prize Court is selected by Imperial command among the officials of the Naval Judicial Department not lower in rank than Colonels. The Prize Court further consists of two members selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among staff officers of the Marine Department, two members selected by the Minister of Justice among the officials of the Judicial Department who have practical acquaintance with mercantile law and judicial procedure, and one member selected by the Minister for Foreign Affairs among the officials of his Department. In the absence of the President of the Prize Court, his duties are performed by the senior naval member of the Court. Attached to a Port Prize Court are a Procureur, a Secretary (a pay officer), and an interpreter, as well as clerks and attendants in such numbers as may be necessary. The Procureur of a Prize Court is selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among persons who have completed a course of legal studies, or who have in their service shown that they have a good knowledge of law, and have been in legal practice. The appointment of the Secretary of the Court is in the hands of the Director of the Ministry of Marine, and the selection of the interpreter, clerks, and attendants in the hands of the President of the Prize Court. The interpreter, if he is not in the Government service, is to be sworn before entering upon his duties at the Court.

53. The President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Port Prize Court, if they receive as pay for their other posts an amount not less than that assigned to officials of naval Courts who hold similar posts, are not to receive any special remuneration for the discharge of their duties in the Prize Court; the President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Prize Court, if they receive pay on a lower scale than that indicated above, or if they receive no pay at all, will be permitted to draw, in the former case, pay sufficient to make up the amount indicated, and, in the latter case, pay equal to that drawn by members of naval Courts holding corresponding offices.

54. A Port Prize Court is considered to be properly constituted if the following are present, in addition to the President or his locum tenens, the Procureur, and the Secretary:—

(1) For the decision of the main issue in the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Article 58, not less than three members—one from the Ministry of Marine, one from the Ministry of Justice, and one from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs;

(2) For the decision of all other matters within the competence of Prize Courts, not less than two members, of whom one must be from the Ministry of Justice.

55. Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be constituted on principles analogous to those laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

56. An Admiral's Prize Court is formed by an Admiral, under the presidency of one of the senior commanders of ships of a squadron or division, of four naval Staff Officers, the duties of Procureur being assigned to an official of the judicial branch, and those of Secretary and Interpreter to other officers of the squadron or division. An Admiral's Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present the President and not less than three members, as well as the persons performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary.

57. The Supreme Prize Court is formed by the addition, by Imperial command, to the members of the Admiralty Council, of two Senators of the Fourth or Civil Cassation Department of the Directing Senate, and of an official of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The duties of Procureur in the Supreme Prize Court are discharged by a legal official of the Ministry of Marine, and the duties of Secretary by an administrative official of that Department. The Supreme Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present, in addition to the officials performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary, not less than three members of the Admiralty Council and one Senator; and when any of the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Articles 58 are being decided, there must be present, in addition, the member sent from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Chapter 2.—Procedure in Prize Cases.

58. Prize Courts are competent to decide, under the rules of procedure laid down in Articles 50-63, cases concerning:—

(1.) The confiscation or release of captured merchant vessels and cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels and cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels and cargoes;

(2.) Compensation for losses entailed by the seizure, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes;

(3.) The restoration of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the determination of the amounts to be paid by those owners for prize-money and expenses; and

(4.) The determination of the amount of prize-money to be paid for the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the division of such amount.

Observation.—The rules of procedure in Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be settled on the analogy of the rules laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

59. In cases in which any difficulty is found in regard to the procedure in prize cases, the rules laid down in these Regulations are to be considered in conjunction with the provisions of the Codes of Civil and Criminal Procedure.

PART I.—Procedure in Cases of Confiscation or Release of Captured Vessels or Cargoes, or of sums realized by the Sale of such Vessels or Cargoes, or paid in as security for Liberated Vessels or Cargoes.

60. In cases concerning the confiscation or release of captured vessels or cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels or cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels or cargoes, the following are recognized as parties: The Procureur, as representing the interests of the public treasury, and the original owners of the captured property or their agents, and, in the absence of the owners or their agents, the master of the captured vessel. In all questions affecting the recognition of the right to prize-money or the amount of the prize-money, the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, is entitled to the rights of a party.

61. The parties are allowed:—

(1.) To be present at all proceedings of the Prize Court, and to give explanations on any matters dealt with during these procedings;

(2.) To produce evidence in support of their statements, and, with the permission of the President of the Court, to put questions to persons who are being examined;

(3.) To present, orally or in writing, applications and declarations relating to the case; and

(4.) To examine the original record of the proceedings, and to obtain copies of it and extracts of papers and documents.

62. The time and place of the sittings of the Prize Court are fixed by the President of the Court with due regard to what is laid down in Articles 64 and 73. Notice of the time and place of the sittings is to be given to the Procureur of the Court, and to any persons concerned in the case who have informed the Court of their addresses at the place where the Court meets.

63. The statements of persons who are to be examined in a Prize Court, and who do not know Russian, may be taken in writing. Such statements, as well as all documents in a foreign language, are to be translated into Russian.

64. On receiving notice that captured property has been brought in, the Prize Court will assemble on the earliest possible day, and will proceed to examine any persons belonging to the ship which has made the capture, and to the captured vessels, as well as any persons coming forward voluntarily (Article 60), whose evidence the Court considers it necessary to obtain. In cases where the captured property has been brought to a port outside the place where the Court sits, the Court will itself proceed to the spot to take the evidence, or will send one of its member for the purpose; and if this cannot be done before the day fixed for the departure of the vessels, the Court will request the local naval or other authorities to take the evidence.

65. Apart from the taking of evidence (Article 64), the Court will, if necessary, on its own initiative or on the application of persons concerned in the case, itself proceed or else send one or more of its members to view the captured property, or will have it examined by experts.

66. It is open to the Prize Court to liberate captured property before the conclusion of the case, on receiving security in money equal to the value of the property. The value of the property is to be ascertained by a valuation carried out, under the supervision of a member of the Court, by sworn valuers, or, in the absence of such, by not less than two experts.

67. Captured property may be sold by public auction before the conclusion of the case, on the application of the parties and with the consent of the Court, if such property, owing to its nature or its bad condition, will not admit of being kept, and also if the value of the property does not, in the opinion of experts, justify the expense of keeping it. Furthermore, it is open to the Court to have captured property sold before the conclusion of the case, if it does not appear necessary for the decision of the case that such property should be kept any longer, and if the parties have signified their consent to the sale.

68. If captured property be brought to the port of an allied Power at which no Prize Court is established, the proceedings specified in Articles 64 and 65 are, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other, to be conducted by the local Russian naval Agent or Consul, or by a specially appointed person, in the presence of not less than two witnesses—if possible, Russian subjects—resident at the place in question. After the conclusion of these proceedings, the case relating to the captured property is to be sent to the nearest Prize Court, with all papers connected with it. At the same time it is open to the aforesaid naval Agent, Consul, or specially appointed person to take the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67 with regard to the captured property, if it appear inconvenient to wait until the steps in question can be taken by the Prize Court.

69. Upon the conclusion of the proceedings referred to in Articles 64 and 65, the Prize Court will proceed to the trial of the case, and first of all will decide without delay as to the liberation of any portions of the captured property the further detention of which may in the circumstances appear to be unnecessary.

70. If it should appear to be necessary for the elucidation of the case, the Court will arrange for the collection of further evidence in the case, and will direct the exchange of papers between the parties, and call upon them to supply complementary evidence, fixing a term for such exchange and supply of evidence. The examination of witnesses produced by the parties in consequence of such direction of the Court may be conducted either by the Court itself or, at its request, by naval authorities which have not taken part in the capture of the property forming the subject of the inquiry, or else by one of the persons specified in Article 68.

71. In cases relating to merchant vessels of a neutral nationality, or merchant vessels the nationality of which is doubtful, or to cargoes of such vessels, if, in addition to contraband of war, the cargoes in question contain other objects, the Port Prize Court will, in the absence of the original owners of the captured property, address a public summons to such owners. An Admiral's Prize Court will send such cases without delay to the nearest Port Prize Court for further action, reserving the right to take, in regard to any captured property which has not been released by the Admiral's Court under Article 69, the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67, if it appear inconvenient to wait till these steps can be taken by the Port Prize Court.

72. By the published notices, referred to in Article 71, the original owners of captured property or their agents are called upon to appear before the Port Prize Court, and present any evidence they may possess relating to the case within a period specified in the summons. The period is fixed by the Court, which takes into consideration the locality where it is established, and other circumstances ; but the period must not be less than one month, or more than four months, from the date of the last publication. The notices are printed three times, in three consecutive numbers of the "Government Messenger," and of two newspapers published in Russia in foreign languages, such newspapers to be selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine. If necessary, the text of the notice may be communicated to the editors of the newspapers by telegraph. The expenses of the notices are paid out of the sum realized by the sale of the prize, or, if the prize be not sold, out of Government funds ; in the latter case, the expenditure incurred is either deducted from the value of the prize (Article 46), or refunded by the original owner (Article 46, Observation), or else borne by the public treasury (Article 82).

73. The sitting at which a decision is to be arrived at on the main issue, in a case in connection with which a summons to the original owners of captured property has been published, must not be fixed for a date previous to the appearance of the owners or their agents before the Court, or the expiration of the period fixed in the notice for their appearance.

74. The trial in a Prize Court begins with a report by one of the members of the Court explaining the circumstances of the case. After the reporting member has explained the principal points, the Court hears the statements of the Procureur and of such of the persons concerned in the case as are in Court. Having determined, according to inward conviction, the significance and relative force of the evidence in the case, the Court gives its decision on the main issue, or separate decisions on different questions arising from the case. A decision as to whether captured property is to be released or confiscated is given by the Court, even if the property in question has been destroyed by order of a naval commander. If the property has been captured in the waters of a neutral Power, or in waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, the Court makes any decision at which it may arrive for the confiscation of the property, conditional on no application for its restoration being made within a year from the day of capture (Article 31).

75. Decisions of a Prize Court are arrived at by a majority of votes. If the votes are equal, the President has a casting vote.

76. The decision of the Court upon a case is announced by the President at the sitting at which it is formed. When announcing a decision the President fixes a day on which the parties may appear for the reading of the written decision of the Court, and he also explains to the parties the steps which are necessary for making an appeal against the decision, and the time allowed for the purpose. The decision and judgment of the Court must be drawn up within a fortnight from the day on which the finding is announced, and must contain a statement of the considerations on which it is based. Decision and judgments of a Court are considered to be published on the day fixed for their reading.

77. The parties, including the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, have the right to lodge an appeal. The appeal, accompanied by as many copies as there are parties in the case, has to be lodged with the Court which has given the decision, within a month from the publication of the decision (Article 76). If the term allowed for appealing has been permitted to expire for reasons of special weight, it rests with the Court which is to decide the appeal to determine whether the term of the appeal may be prolonged. Petitions for the prolongation of the right of appeal are to be lodged within a fortnight from the date of the publication of the decision of the Court declaring that the term for appeal has expired. Special appeals against the decision of the Court refusing to prolong the term for appeal may be sent in within a fortnight from the date of the publication of such decision.

78. On receiving the appeal, the Prize Court communicates copies of it to the Procureur and to the other persons concerned in the case whose interests are affected by the appeal, if those persons have given notice of their addresses in the locality where the Court is established; if they have not done so, the copies of the appeal intended for them remain in the Court. The original appeals are forwarded with the records of the proceedings in the case, to the Supreme Prize Court, to which are also forwarded the special appeals, referred to in Article 77, against the refusal of the Prize Court to prolong the term for appeal. Any declarations of persons concerned in the case in regard to appeals communicated to them are to be sent by those persons direct to the Supreme Prize Court before the date fixed for the hearing of the case by it.

79. If an appeal be not lodged within the term allowed, any decision to the effect that captured property is to be confiscated is to be carried out as soon as the aforesaid term has expired. In the event of an appeal being lodged, the execution of such decision is to be deferred until the appeal has been decided.

80. A decision to the effect that captured property is to be released is to be carried out immediately upon the publication of such decision, if it is in accordance with the conclusions of the Procureur, and has the concurrence of the commander of the ship which made the capture or of his agent. If these conditions are not fulfilled, such decision is not to be acted upon until the term allowed for lodging an appeal has expired. If such appeal is lodged, the captured property is to be valued in the manner described in Article 66. The Court can, at its discretion, allow the release of the aforesaid property before the decision of the appeal, either on the deposit, as security, of a sum of money equal to the value of the property as estimated by a valuation, or without such deposit. If disputes should arise in regard to the ownership of property released, the restoration of the property to its original owner is to be deferred until such disputes have been settled in the manner laid down by law, or until one of the parties claiming the property has paid a deposit in money equal to the value of the same.

81. Any expenses of keeping captured property after the moment when the person or department in whose custody it is has received notice of a decision that such property is to be released without payment of a deposit, must be borne by its original owners.

82. Captured property which it has been decided to release, and which is not claimed within six months from the date on which the decision to release it became legally binding, may be sold by public auction. If within ten years from the date on which the decision became law no one comes forward with proofs of his right to property the release of which has been decided upon, such property, or the sum realized by its sale, falls to the public treasury, which will bear all expenses of keeping such property or money.

83. The Rules laid down for Prize Courts in Articles 62 and 73–76 are applicable to the procedure in the investigation of appeals against the decisions of Prize Courts by the Supreme Prize Court, and also to the mode of publication of decisions of that Court.

84. The Supreme Prize Court investigates only those parts of decisions of a Prize Court against which appeals are made by persons concerned in the case. The annulment of decisions to the effect that captured property is to be released and restored to its original owner without any demand for a deposit, in spite of the circumstance that an appeal has been lodged (Article 80), entails the award in the manner laid down in Articles 44 and 49, of prize-money corresponding to the value of such portion of the property released as is found, by the decision of the Supreme Prize Court, to be liable to confiscation as prize.

85. There is no appeal from decisions of the Supreme Prize Court; after they have been given, copies are to be communicated to the competent naval authorities for execution.

86. Petitions, declarations, appeals, and other documents in cases in Prize Courts and in the Supreme Prize Court, as well as the records of those Courts, are exempt from payment of stamp or other dues. Persons, other than the Procureur, obtaining copies of papers are charged 40 kopecks per sheet. No remuneration is fixed for the conduct of cases in Prize Courts or in the Supreme Prize Court.

PART II.—Procedure in Cases relating to Compensation for Losses in consequence of the Detention, Destruction, Loss, or Injury of Merchant Vessels and Goods, to the return of Merchant Vessels and Cargoes recaptured from the Enemy to their original owners, and, to the fixing of the Prize-money and Costs payable by those owners, and also to the determination of the amount of Prize-money for the Capture of Enemy's Ships and Cargoes by Merchant Vessels and the distribution of such money.

87. Cases concerning—

(2.) The return of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the fixing of the prize-money and expenses payable by such owners; and

(3.) The determination of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with in accordance with the rules laid down in Articles 60–86, with the exceptions and additions specified below (Articles 88–93).

88. Cases concerning compensation for losses arising from the capture, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes are dealt with by Port Prize Courts, and can only be initiated on the petition of the persons who have suffered losses, or their agents. The persons who have suffered losses, or their agents, and the Procureur as the representative of the interests of the Government, have the rights of parties in such cases.

89. The cases referred to in Article 88 are dealt with simultaneously with cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, and the decisions arrived at are based on the evidence presented or indicated by the parties. The decisions on the cases concerning losses are given simultaneously with those on the cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, or else separately. Decisions in cases concerning losses may be appealed against within one month, and such appeal is a bar to the execution of the decision appealed against.

91. In the cases referred to in Article 90, the rights of parties are enjoyed by the original owners of the recaptured property or their agents, and the commander of the ship which has made the recapture or his agent, and by the Procureur. In dealing with these cases, the Port Prize Courts, if necessary, address a summons to the absent owners by the publication of a Notice, and on the appearance of the owners or their agents, or on the expiration of the term allowed for their appearance, the Courts pronounce their decision on the main issue. Appeal may be lodged within a month against the decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

92. The return of recaptured property to its original owners is permissible—(1) before the decision has been given and has become legally binding—only on condition that the owners deposit as security a sum equal to any amount that they may be called upon to pay for prize-money and expenses (Articles 45, 46, Observation, and 66); and (2) after the decision has become legally binding—on condition that the owners pay the prize-money and expenses for which they have been found liable. Apart from the cases contemplated in Articles 67 (first part) and 82, the sale of recaptured property is also permissible if the original owner presents an application for its sale. When property which ought to be returned falls to the Government (Article 82) the latter pays all expenses and also the prize-money.

93. Cases concerning the fixing of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with by Port Prize Courts. These cases are initiated on the petition of the members of the crew of the vessel which made the capture, and those persons and the Procureur have the rights of parties. Appeal may be lodged within a month against decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

(Signed) MICHAEL,
President of the Imperial Council.

INSTRUCTIONS.—On Procedure in 'Stopping, Examining, and Seizing, and also in Removing and Delivering Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

§ 1. Ships of the Imperial navy, acting under the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," are to be guided, as regards the actual procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing merchant vessels, and also in removing and delivering captured vessels and cargoes, by the following rules, in addition to any declarations and other orders issued by the Government on the occasion of war.

Observation.—Inter alia, it will be necessary to define the neutral territorial sea, and the other waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, and where, under Article 16 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," it is not permissible to stop, examine, and seize ships and cargoes.

STOPPING.—Procedure in Stopping.

§ 2. A ship desiring to stop another should make for her, hoist her flag, and fire a blank gun-shot in her direction. At the same time a signal may be made according to the International Code.

In order to stop a vessel at night, it is necessary, when firing the blank shot, to have the lights on the masts and distinguishing lights exposed.

Resistance to Stopping.

§ 3. If, in spite of a shot being fired, the vessel does not stop, a ball must be sent past the bows of the retreating vessel. If she still resists stoppage, it is permissible to fire at her and pursue her in order to force her to stop.

When commencing to fire at the vessel, it is desirable to fire the first shot over her hull between the masts. But such leniency is not obligatory, especially if a steamer which is being stopped has an advantage in speed by which she may hope to escape from her pursuer.

Any vessel which has made a clear attempt to escape from a cruiser, in consequence of which the latter has been obliged to pursue her and to use force to stop her, is liable to be seized; it is, however, open to the Commander of the cruiser, if he consider it desirable, after stopping the vessel, to subject her to an examination as a preliminary, and make his further action depend on the result of the examination.

EXAMINATION.—Preliminary Proceedings.

§ 4. For the examination a sufficiently experienced officer and several men of the crew are to be selected; an assistant storekeeper, &c., may usefully be included. Two officers having some acquaintance with foreign languages should be included if there are any such on board.

§ 5. It is desirable that some reliefs of officers and men should be selected before-hand for the examination. Officers and men sent to make the examination should be armed with revolvers. It is useful to agree beforehand upon some simple signals (with an oar, a handkerchief, a little flag, &c.).

When the pursuit begins, the officers selected for the examination should get their men ready, and take the latitude and longitude of the Imperial ship.

§ 6. The Imperial cruiser should get as close as possible to the vessel she is stopping, taking all proper precautions in doing so.

Observation.—It is necessary to bear in mind the unfortunate consequence of a collision. The vessel may prove to belong to the enemy. One must expect hostile acts, and a desire to injure the cruiser by a collision.

§ 7. After the boat with the officers and men has put off, the Imperial cruiser should remain in such a position during the examination that those on board can keep the boat in sight all the time, and witness the proceedings on the vessel which is being examined. The guns should be loaded, and the master-gunners at their posts.

The Officers on Board.

§ 8. When the party reach the stopped vessel, note should be taken in the boat of her name and port. An officer accompanied by two men should then go on deck. If two officers are sent for the examination, the officers and one man should go on deck.

Observation.—The rest of the men should only go on deck when the examination of the papers is concluded and the examination of the whole vessel commences. The number of men to be sent on board depends on the size of the vessel and the officers' view (e. g., there may be four, six, or more men).

§ 9. The junior officer must remain on the upper deck all the time, and must not go below. It is his duty to watch all that happens on the deck of the vessel which is being examined, and also to keep his eye on the boat and the signals of his own ship. The seamen who has also gone on board should assist him. The examination of the papers and vessel should be carried out by the senior officer. If only one officer is sent to make the examination, the duties of the junior officer should be undertaken by the senior of the two seaman who have gone on deck with the officer.

§ 10. The behaviour of the officers and men towards the master, crew, and passengers should be polite and in every way consistent with the dignity of the naval profession.

If the vessel which has been stopped offers resistance to the examination she is liable to be seized.

Examination of Papers.

(a.) To state the name and nationality of his vessel.

(b.) To state what port she is bound for, and where she comes from.

(c.) To produce his log-book and all papers concerning the vessel and cargo.

Annexed is a list of the principal ships' papers found in merchant vessels of certain nationalities (Appendix I).

§ 12. When proceeding to examine the papers, the officer should pay special attention to the log-book, and should endeavour to make himself acquainted with all the circumstances of the voyage, the place on the map where the master considers himself to be, and the last entries in the log-book.

§ 13. In examining the papers relating to the nationality of the vessel, the officer should note the port of registry, the number of the register, the names and nationality of the owners, the place where, and the time when, the vessel was built, and also whether it was bought from subjects of the enemy after the declaration of war, with the object of protecting enemy's property.

14. When examining the papers relating to the cargo, the officer should determine the nature and amount of goods, the place from which they have been brought and their destination, and the names and nationality of the consigners and consignees. At the same time, it is important to ascertain whether there are among the goods any articles of contraband of war,[*] and who are the owners of the cargo, subjects of the enemy or of a neutral Power.

§ 15. In examining the papers concerning the composition of the crew and the passengers, the officer should ascertain the nationality and calling of these persons, and should endeavour to determine whether there are among the passengers any persons belonging to the enemy's forces, and which of the crew could be detained under Article 18 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes."

§ 16. After concluding the examination of the vessel's papers, the officer should request the master to produce any mails that may be on board, and should search them for correspondence of the enemy and for any packages addressed to the enemy's ports.

§ 17. The officer should take notes concerning all papers shown to him, and should write down all that he considers most necessary. When examining the papers, he may at his discretion address questions to the master, mate, and other members of the crew.

Consequences of the Examination of Papers.

(a.) If the vessel proves to belong to the enemy.

(b.) If there are no ship's papers, particularly such as make it possible to determine the nationality of the vessel and to verify the circumstances of her voyage; or if the ship's papers are thrown overboard, or destroyed in any other way.

(c.) If there are among the papers any which make the officer suspect that the vessel belongs to the enemy.

(d.) If the officer comes to the conclusion that the papers are not genuine.

[*] In regard to articles of contraband of war, see Appendix II.

(e.) If it appears from the papers that the vessel has been bought by the subject of a neutral State from subjects of the enemy, and there is reason to suppose that a fictitious sale has taken place with the object of protecting enemy's property.

§ 19. If the officer is convinced that the papers are in perfect order, that the vessel is really a neutral one, that there cannot be amongst the goods on board any articles of contraband of war intended for the enemy, and generally that there is no ground whatever for detaining the vessel, he should leave her without delay, observing the rules laid down below in §§ 28, 29, and 30 (Conclusion of the Examination).

§ 20. If the officer has doubts about the truth of the information obtained from the examination of the papers, especially if the vessel is bound for an enemy's port, or if he has reason to suppose, from the general indications of the movements, direction, and position of the vessel stopped, that the eventual destination of the vessel or of her cargo is an enemy's port, he should proceed to the examination or search of the whole vessel, in order to ascertain whether there are any objects of contraband of war in her cargo.

Examination of Vessel (Search).

§ 21. The examination of the whole vessel (or search) should be carried out by the officer with the assistance of several of his men, who will leave the boat when summoned by him.

§ 22. The number of sailors coming on board may be four, six, eight, or more, according to the size of the vessel to be searched and the views of the officer. If it appears that there are not enough men in the boat, more may be summoned from the ship by signal. The men selected for a search should be intelligent, active, and experienced.

§ 23. The examination of the holds presents considerable difficulties, and may give rise to complaints on the part of neutrals who suffer undeservedly. The officer should, therefore, first consider which portion of the cargo appears most suspicious from the want of precision of the papers, and should first turn his attention to that portion. The behaviour of the officer and men should be polite, but they must not hesitate to do their duty in every particular.

§ 24. During the examination of the holds the officer is bound to insist on the presence of the master at all his proceedings: the officer next in rank to the master need only be present if absolutely necessary.

§ 25. The master while present at the search is bound, on the demand of the officer who conducts the search, himself to unlock all locks and holds which the officer may wish to examine, to point out any objects which require special care in handling, and to show the proper way of opening any particular packages (chests, barrels) which may be selected for a more detailed examination. If the master should refuse to open a hold when requested to do so by the examining officer the vessel is liable to be detained.

§ 26. During the examination or search, the officer may, in order to make the work easier, put questions to the crew and passengers, in order to obtain necessary explanations in regard to the vessel and cargo. It is also advisable to pay attention to certain external signs—for instance, to the marks which are found on the funnels of the steamers of various companies, and which may be painted over.

§ 27. The officer should desist from further examination of the vessel as soon as he has convinced himself that there is no contraband of war in the cargo, and that there is nothing suspicious in the vessel. Every article which has been moved should be put back in its place as quickly and carefully as possible, in accordance with the directions of the master.

Conclusion of Examination.

§ 28. Having concluded the examination, the officer will enter in the log-book, in the Russian language, the time and place of the examination (latitude and longitude), the name of his ship, the name of her commander, and the result of the examination. The entry may be made in accordance with the annexed form (Appendix 3).

§ 29. Before leaving the vessel, the officer will request the master to give a written certificate (if possible, in his native language) to the effect that he has no complaint to make, or, if he has any complaint, to put it in writing.

§ 30. When leaving the vessel, the officer should inform the master that she must not continue her voyage until he has returned to the Imperial ship and reported to the commander. The officer will draw up a detailed report in writing on his proceedings.

§ 31. If the vessel is liable to seizure, the officer should give a signal to that effect, and return to his ship, taking with him the papers and the master and other persons whose statements may be required.

DETENTION.

Commission.

§ 33. A Commission is to be formed on the Imperial ship of three officers (one of them the officer who conducted the examination), which is to draw up a detailed Protocol on all the proceedings and discoveries at the examination and present it to the commander for confirmation.

Drawing up of Protocol.

§ 34. The Protocol is to be written in Russian. In it should be described in detail the nationality, class, and name of the vessel; the names of the master and owners; the number of the crew and their nationality; all the circumstances connected with the stoppage of the vessel; all papers produced by the master, and the contents of such papers; all circumstances connected with the examination of the papers and the vessel; all information in regard to the cargo, and everything found in the vessel; all statements of the master, supercargo, boatswain, and other persons questioned.

Protest of Master.

§ 35. The contents of the Protocol are to be translated to the master orally, and he is to be requested to sign the Protocol. He is not, however, obliged to sign it. A note should be made on the Protocol that it has been read and translated to the master.

Any protest of the master (in writing) should be annexed to the Protocol and any discrepancies explained in the Protocol itself.

Observation.—As the drawing up of the Protocol and the examination of the master and other persons of the crew may take a considerable time, the cruiser is authorized to compel the merchant vessel to take a particular course, while the cruiser, following her, proceeds with the matter on the way.

Decision of Commander.

§ 36. When the Protocol has been drawn up and signed by the members of the Commission, it is to be submitted to the commander, who should append his decision to the Protocol. In deciding whether the vessel or cargo should be detained he should be guided by the following considerations.

§ 37. The following vessels are liable to detention:—

1. All enemy's ships of war and merchant vessels (see Articles 9 and 10 of the Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes).

Observation.—If, in accordance with special international Agreements concluded by the Imperial Government, certain of the enemy's ships are to be considered not liable to capture, such ships are, nevertheless, liable to detention if their proceedings are such as are described under head 2 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), of this paragraph (see the second portion of Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes").

2. Neutral merchant vessels:—

(a.) If they are conveying to the enemy any quantity whatever of articles required for shooting with fire-arms, objects or substances used for causing explosions, or military forces of the enemy (see head 1 of Article 11 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes");

(b.) If they are conveying to the enemy other objects of contraband of war to an amount exceeding in bulk or weight half of the entire cargo (see head 1, (b), of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

Observation.—If the amount of such contraband of war is less than half of the entire cargo, the vessel is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over ; the delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander, either on the spot where the vessel has been detained or after she has been brought into port (see Article 14 of the aforesaid Regulations.)

(c.) If they are found breaking an effective blockade of which notice has been given (see Article 2 and head 2 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(d.) If they have offered armed resistance to stoppage or examination (see head 3 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(e.) If they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy (see head 4 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

3. All suspicious vessels, even if they are flying a neutral flag. (See Article 16 of the aforesaid Regulations). The following and other similar proceedings are grounds for considering a merchant vessel suspicious :—

(a.) If the vessel does not stop her engine or heave to on the summons of the cruiser, and the latter is consequently obliged to pursue her and use force to stop her (see § 3 of these Instructions) ;

(b.) If the vessel has no papers, or has false or suspicious papers (see § 18 of these Instructions, heads (b), (c), (d) ;

(c.) If there is reason to believe that the vessel has been fictitiously sold to the subject of a neutral power after the declaration of war (see § 18 of these Instructions) ;

(d.) If the vessel after being stopped resisted examination, or if the master refused to open a hold on the demand of the examining officer (see §§ 10 and 25 of these Instructions).

Cargoes.

§ 38. The following cargoes may be detained :—

1. Enemy's cargoes conveyed in enemy's vessels (see Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes") ;

2. Enemy's and neutral cargoes in neutral vessels which have infringed neutrality, i.e. (see Article 12 of aforesaid Regulations) :

(a.) In neutral vessels which have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy ;

(b.) Which have offered armed resistance to stoppage, examinatian, or detention ; and

(c.) Which have been found breaking a blockade.

3. All cargoes which constitute contraband of war, with the exception of arms and provisions forming part of the equipment of a neutral vessel herself (see Article 12, head 1, and Article 13 of the aforesaid Regulations).

When vessels or cargoes are detained, the rule is observed that articles intended for the personal use of the crew or passengers are not to be detained (see Article 10, head 1, of the aforesaid Regulations).

With the exception of the above-mentioned cases, the following rules are to be observed :—

(1.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's cargo, with the exception of contraband of war (see Article 2, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

(2.) Neutral goods, except contraband of war, are not subject to detention under an enemy's flag (see Article 2, head 3, and Article 10, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

CONVEYANCE.—Procedure of Conveyance.

§ 39. Captured vessels and cargoes may be conveyed, at the discretion of the commander of the Imperial cruiser, either to a port or to the operating fleet. They may either be taken by the cruiser herself, or may be sent to port independently in charge of a Russian officer and crew ; the commanding officers are to be guided by the rules laid down in Articles 351–353 of the Naval Code, edition of 1899. If a captured vessel is sent alone, the original ship's papers and documents relating to her capture should remain in the hands of the commander of the cruiser, and copies should be supplied to the officer placed in charge.

Destruction of Captured Vessels.

§ 40. In the following and other similar exceptional cases, the commander of the Imperial cruiser has the right to burn or sink the captured vessel, after taking off the persons on board, and, if possible, the whole or part of the cargo, and also all papers and articles which may be necessary for the elucidation of the case in the Prize Court :—

(1.) When it is impossible to preserve the captured vessel on account of her bad condition.

(2.) When there is danger of the vessel being recaptured by the enemy.

(3.) When the captured vessel is of very little value, and her conveyance would take too much time and entail too great a consumption of coal.

(4.) When conveyance appears difficult in consequence of the distance or blockade of the ports to which the vessel should be brought.

(5.) When the conveyance may prevent the success of operations of war in which the Imperial cruiser is engaged, or expose her to danger.

The commander should draw up a report, to be signed by himself and all his officers, explaining the circumstances which have induced him to destroy the captured vessel. He should transmit the report to his superior officer by the first opportunity.

Observation.—Although Article 21 of the Regulations of 1895, in regard to Naval Prizes, allows the burning or sinking of a captured vessel by the commander, "on his own responsibility," the latter incurs no responsibility whatever if the captured vessel is really liable to confiscation as a prize, and the exceptional circumstances in which the Imperial ship is placed imperatively demand the destruction of the captured vessel.

Replacing Own Ship by Ship Captured.

§ 41. If it appears that a ship which has been captured, and which ought to be destroyed under the preceding Article, is in construction and sea-going qualities better than the Imperial ship, the commander has the right to replace his own ship by the prize, and to burn or sink his own ship.

Entry of Neutral Ports.

§ 42. An Imperial ship, while conveying captured vessels, may enter the port of a neutral Power which has not forbiden in its declaration of neutrality (or in some other official declaration) the visit of its ports by ships of war of the belligerents with their prizes.

Furthermore, an Imperial cruiser may take refuge in the port of a neutral Power with captured vessels under stress of weather or other urgent necessity (e. g., the breaking down of the engines, insufficiency of provisions, pursuit by a stronger force of the enemy) ; in that case the commander is bound, as regards the duration and other conditions of his stay in the neutral port, to comply with the regulations made by the Government of the locality.

DELIVERY

At Russian Ports or to the Operating Fleet.

§ 43. As soon as a captured vessel or cargo has been brought into a Russian port it is to be handed over to the local naval authority (or in the absence of such to the port, customs, or police authority), with all the papers and with all persons on board who have been detained for the elucidation of the case.

If the captured vessels and cargoes are brought to the operating fleet, they are to be handed over to the officer in command of the squadron.

The proper naval or other authority should open the sealed papers and make arrangements to receive the property handed over, to have an inventory made of it, and to preserve it, and also take steps for the sale by public auction of such articles as from their nature or condition cannot be kept.

The following persons are entitled to be present during these proceedings : firstly, the commander, or one of the officers of the Imperial ship which has effected the capture ; and, secondly, the master of the captured vessel, and also the owners of the vessel and cargo, or their agents, if the owners or agents are on the spot.

All the persons present have the right to make suggestions and observations in regard to the proceedings of the local authority which takes over the vessel or cargo.

At Foreign Ports.

§ 44. If the captured vessel or cargo is brought to the port of an allied Power, delivery is to be made to the local Russian naval agency, or to the Russian Consulate, or to some other authority to which, under agreement between the Russian Government and the foreign Power concerned, the duty of receiving prizes is assigned.

Notification to Authorities.

§ 45. The commander of an Imperial ship is bound to inform the Director of the Ministry of Marine without delay at the first opportunity, by telegraph, of the capture of vessels and cargoes and also of their conveyance to a port and their delivery.

APPENDIX II TO § 14 OF THE INSTRUCTIONS APPROVED BY THE ADMIRALTY COUNCIL, SEPTEMBER 20, 1900 (MINUTES NO. 4487, ARTICLE 38076).

In accordance with Article 13 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," notice is given in a special declaration, for general information, of the articles considered to be contraband of war. The following have been stated in declarations to be such articles :—

(a.) All kinds of arms, small-arms, and guns, both put together and in parts ;

(b.) Articles and stores required for shooting with firearms, such as projectiles for guns, fuses for projectiles, bullets, caps, cartridges, cartridge cases, powder, nitre, sulphur ;

(c.) Objects or substances used for causing explosions, such as torpedoes and mines, dynamite, pyroxyline, and other explosive compounds ;

(d.) Articles belonging to artillery, engineer, and army train, such as gun-carriages, mountings, cartridge and ammunition chests or packs, field smithies, field kitchens, instrument carts, pontoons, bridge trestles, train harness, &c. ;

(e.) Articles of army equipment and clothing, such as wallets, cartridge boxes, haversacks, bandoliers, cuirasses, intrenching tools, drums, cooking-kettles, saddles, horses' harness, finished articles of uniform, tents, &c. ;

(f.) Sea-going vessels bound for an enemy's port, even under a neutral merchant flag, if from the construction of their hulls, their internal arrangements, and other evidences, it is clear they are constructed for warlike purposes, and are going to the enemy's port for sale or delivery to the enemy;

(g.) In general, all other articles directly intended for war on land or sea, if they are being conveyed on behalf of, or are destined for, the enemy.

By the expression "destined for the enemy" is understood conveying to his fleet, to one of his ports, or even to a neutral port, if the latter is shown by clear and indisputable evidence to be simply an intermediate station on the way to the enemy, the latter being really the ultimate destination.

The following acts are considered to be on the same footing as contraband of war, with the same consequences for a neutral vessel or cargo:

1. The transport of enemy's troops, military detachments, and individual soldiers; and
2. The conveyance of enemy's despatches, i.e., business correspondence between enemy's chiefs and their agents who are on a ship or on territory belonging to or occupied by the enemy.

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

On a Memorandum dated 25th March, 1904, from the Minister of the Interior submitting that subclause 5 of clause 101 of The Dominion Lands Act provides that the Minister of the Interior may cause examinations of candidates for commissions as Dominion Land Surveyors or as articled pupils to be held at such times and places as he directs, by one of the members of the board of examiners, or by a special examiner, who shall be a Dominion Land Surveyor, or Dominion Topographical Surveyor, and shall be appointed by Order in Council.

The Minister recommends that Mr. J. L. Doupe, Dominion Land Surveyor, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, be appointed a special examiner under the sub-clause quoted above, applications for examinations having been received from several candidates in Manitoba.

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

Whereas under the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands, the property of the Dominion Government in Manitoba, the North-west Territories and British Columbia, established by Order in Council, dated 19th May, 1902, provision is made for the sale of lands containing anthracite coal at an upset price of $20.00 an acre, and for coal other than anthracite at an upset price of $19.00 an acre, subject to the payment of royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on the output of the mine;

And whereas it is represented that settlers in the vicinity of coal mines have in the past been able to secure their supply of coal for fuel purposes at the rate of from $1.00 to $1.50 per ton, delivered at the pit's mouth; but that recently, where only a limited number of mines are being operated in any locality, there has been a tendency on the part of the mine owner to object to this class of trade, as loading the coal directly into cars is probably more convenient for him then disposing of it to the settler;

And whereas there appears to be no reason why the settlers should be required to pay an additional price for having the coal carried by rail to the nearest station if they can have the hauling done themselves,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order and doth hereby order that the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands above referred to be amended by providing that all sales of such lands shall in the future be made subject to the provision that actual settlers shall be entitled to buy, at the pit's mouth, whatever coal they may require for their own use, but not for barter or sale, at a price not to exceed $1.75 per ton, and that the patent which may be issued for coal lands shall be made subject to such provision.

JOHN J. McGEE,

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS by sub-clause (a) of section 43 of the Regulations for the disposal of quartz mining claims on Dominion Lands, established by the Order in Council of the 21st of March, 1898, it is provided that in no case shall the cost of the survey of a mineral claim be considered as improvements or work done on the claim unless the survey is made within one year from the date of recording the claim, in which case the cost of the survey, not exceeding $100.00, shall be accounted as work done on the claim; and by an Order in Council dated the 21st of January, 1901, section 31 of the said Regulations was amended so as to provide that if the survey of the claim has been made within one year from the date upon which the claim was recorded, the cost of such survey, not exceeding $100.00, may be accounted as work done on the claim for that year.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to order that the said sections of the above cited Regulations shall be and the same are hereby amended as follows:—

The cost of the survey of a mineral claim, not exceeding $100 however, shall be accepted in lieu of representation work on the claim for the year in which the survey is made, whether it is the first year or not, provided that notice of such survey is immediately inserted, for a period of not less than sixty days, in a newspaper published in or circulating in the District in which the claim is situated, such paper to be approved by the Mining Recorder; and provided further that the owner of the claim prior to the first appearance of this advertisement shall cause to be posted in a conspicuous spot on the claim, and in the office of the Mining Recorder for the District, a notice of his intention to advertise the survey of the claim, and also a copy of the plan of the survey prepared and certified correct, under oath by a Dominion Land Surveyor. The survey shall be accepted as defining absolutely the boundaries of the claim surveyed, provided it remains unprotested during the period of publication. If, however, within the time specified the survey is protested, the protest shall be heard and decided upon in accordance with the provisions of sub-clause 2 of section 43*a* of the Mining Regulations. The publication of the notice of survey as above provided shall be accepted in lieu of the notice and publication required by sub-clauses (d) and (e) of section 43 of the said Quartz Mining Regulations. If notice of survey, however, is not given until the expenditure required by sub-clause (a) of section 43 of the Regulations has been incurred, then the notice required by that section of the Regulations must be given.

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL

THE Governor General in Council is pleased to order that sections 1 and 2 of the Regulations governing the disposal of Dominion Lands containing petroleum, established by the Order in Council of the 31st of May, 1901, and amended by Order in Council of the 22nd of December, 1902, shall be and the same are hereby rescinded and the following substituted therefor:—

1. All unappropriated Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the North West Territories and within the Yukon Territory shall be open to prospecting for petroleum by an individual or company desiring to do so. In case there should arise any dispute as to whether lands are or are not unappropriated, the question shall be decided by the Minister of the Interior whose decision shall be final; Provided, however, that the Minister may reserve for an individual or company who has machinery on the land to be prospected, an area of 1920 acres for such period as he may decide.

This tract of land may be selected by the said individual or company so soon as the machinery has been placed on the ground, but the length of such tract shall not exceed three times its breadth.

2. Should oil in paying quantities be discovered by a prospector on any vacant lands of the Crown, and should such discovery be established to the satisfaction of the Minister of the Interior, an area not exceeding 640 acres of land, including the oil well, will be sold to the person or company making such discovery at the rate of $1.00 per acre, and the remainder of the area reserved, namely, 1280 acres, will be sold at the rate of $3.00 per acre. The patent for the land will convey the surface and the petroleum, but will exclude all other minerals.

JOHN J. McGEE,
41-4 Clerk of the Privy Council.

[Ref. 460,205]

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Wednesday, the 23rd day of March, 1904.

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS section 33 of the Quartz Mining Regulations, established by Order in Council of 21st March, 1898, provides that the holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to the surface rights, including the use of all timber thereon for mining and building purposes in connection with the working of such claim for the purpose of developing the minerals contained therein;

And whereas it is represented that quartz mining locations are sometimes staked out for the sake of the timber thereon,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order that section 33 of the said Quartz Mining Regulations shall be and the same is hereby rescinded and the following substituted in lieu thereof:—

"The holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to all surface rights, including the right to cut free of dues such of the timber on the location as may be necessary for the working of the same, but not for sale or traffic, except where such timber has been granted or disposed of prior to the date of entry. The Timber Agent, however may permit any free miner to cut and remove from the claim timber for his own use for mining purposes, when such timber cannot otherwise be had within a reasonable distance, but no such permit shall convey the right to cut or remove timber required by the holder of the claim for his mining operations."

"In the Yukon Territory the timber on a mineral claim shall, subject to the rights existing at the time of the application therefor, be reserved until the Mining Recorder certifies that the same is required for use in connection with mining operations actually in progress on such mineral claim, when the right to use such timber, or any portion thereof, free of dues, may be given the holder of such mineral claim by the Crown Timber and Land Agent with the approval of the Commissioner of the Territory. The Commissioner, however, may authorize the Timber Agent to issue a permit to any free miner to cut and remove from such mineral claim timber required by him for his own use in mining operations when such timber cannot otherwise be obtained by such free miner within a reasonable distance of the place of his mining operations."

(44) GUT OF CANSO—INFORMATION RESPECTING TIDES.

The following information respecting the tides in the Gut of Canso has been compiled by Dr. W. B. Dawson, F.R.S.C., Engineer in charge of the Tidal and Current Survey. It is based upon the tidal information which has been obtained by this Survey, in the waters into which the Gut opens at the two ends. It should be inserted in the St. Lawrence Pilot, vol. ii, sixth edition, 1895, in place of the first paragraph on the tides of the Gut of Canso on page 235 of that publication.

Tides.—It is high water, full and change, at the north and south entrances of the Gut of Canso, at 9h. 15m. and 8h. respectively. Ordinary springs rise 4 feet, neaps 2 feet; but at times the tides may rise 6 or 7 feet, or only 2 feet. There is the same apparent irregularity also in the tidal streams; the flood stream sets to the northward and the ebb to the southward; but the duration of these streams varies from one to four hours after it is high or low water by the shore.

These apparent irregularities are due to the difference in the character of the tide itself, at the two ends of the Gut of Canso. The investigations of the Tidal and Current Survey of Canada have shown that the tide in the region of Northumberland strait, which shows a marked diurnal inequality, is chiefly governed by the declination of the moon. The declination-month overruns the period of the moon's phases, so that the large diurnal inequality characterizes sometimes the spring tides and sometimes the neaps. While these changes recur periodically at the northern end of the Gut, the tide at the Atlantic end maintains the usual variation in height from springs to neaps with great regularity. As the current through the Gut depends on the difference in the height of the tide at the two ends, it necessarily shows great complexity under these conditions.

Before this explanation was found by the investigation of the tides themselves, mariners supposed that the currents were chiefly governed by the wind. The winds no doubt have a disturbing effect, more especially as the range of the tide is not great; but it is more than probable that the behaviour of the tidal streams in this Gut could be brought into relation to astronomical changes, if the moon's declination were kept in view as the leading factor, with greater influence on the result than the change from springs to neaps. PROCLAMATION.

Sous-ministre de la Justice,

CONSIDÉRANT que vu l'état de délabrement des travaux appelés écluses du canal de la Culbute, et considérant que pour les mettre en état permanent d'utilité il aurait fallu encourir de grands frais, tandis que d'un autre côté le trafic était insignifiant, les communications par chemins de fer ayant grandement amoindri l'utilité anticipée des travaux, il a été décidé en l'année 1889 d'abandonner l'idée de maintenir les eaux de la rivière à une hauteur artificielle, et un arrêté en conseil a été passé le vingt-quatrième jour d'octobre de la dite année à l'effet de laisser la rivière reprendre son niveau naturel.

Et considérant qu'il a été jugé à propos qu'un avis soit donné au public de l'abandon des dits travaux et barrages, savoir, les écluses et barrages de la Culbute, étant deux écluses combinées construites et situées sur le chenal nord de la rivière à L'Islet, sur le côté nord de l'île aux Allumettes, avec le barrage submergé entre L'Islet et la rive nord de l'île aux Allumettes, les dits travaux étant situés dans le township de Chichester, rang II ;

Le pont de Chapeau consistant en un pont de grand chemin construit sur le chenal de la Culbute aux rapides de Chapeau, entre le village Chapeau, île des Allumettes, et le dit township de Chichester ;

Et autres travaux s'y rattachant.

Sachez donc que par et avec l'avis de notre Conseil privé pour le Canada, par Notre présente proclamation, Nous proclamons et déclarons que le dit canal de la Culbute et les écluses, barrages et autres travaux s'y rattachant, ont été et ils sont par le présent abandonnés comme travaux publics du Canada.

De ce qui précède Nos féaux sujets et tous ceux que les présentes peuvent concerner, sont par les présentes requis d'en prendre avis et d'agir en conséquence.

EN FOI DE QUOI, Nous avons fait émettre nos présentes Lettres Patentes, et à icelles fait apposer le Grand Sceau du Canada. TÉMOIN, Notre Très fidèle et Bien-aimé Cousin et Conseiller le Très honorable Sir GILBERT JOHN ELLIOT, Comte de Minto et Vicomte Melgund de Melgund, comté de Forfar, dans la pairie du Royaume-Uni, Baron Minto de Minto, comté de Roxburgh, dans la pairie de la Grande-Bretagne, Baronnet de la Nouvelle-Ecosse, Chevalier Grand-croix de Notre Ordre Très distingué de Saint-Michel et Saint-George, etc., etc., Gouverneur Général du Canada.

A Notre Hôtel du Gouvernement, en Notre cité d'OTTAWA, ce DOUZIÈME jour de MARS, dans l'année de Notre-Seigneur mil neuf cent quatre, et de Notre Règne la quatrième.

Par ordre,

JOSEPH POPE,
Sous-Secrétaire d'Etat.

Le Secrétaire d'Etat pour les Affaires étrangères a reçu de l'ambassadeur de Sa Majesté près St-Pétersbourg une brochure relative aux prises maritimes, etc., publiée par le Ministre de la Marine à la dite capitale en 1901 pour la gouverne des officiers de marine, dont suit une traduction. La liste des articles de contrebande contenue dans l'annexe II de l'article 14, qui a été préparée en 1877, a été augmentée de ceux de ces articles qui sont contenus dans les règlements publiés par ordre de Sa Majesté l'empereur de Russie le 28 ultimo, dont une traduction a paru dans la London Gazette du 11 courant.

RÈGLEMENTS RUSSES CONCERNANT LES PRISES MARITIMES, ETC.

ORDRE AUX AUTORITÉS NAVALES.

St-Pétersbourg, 14 juillet 1895, No. 112.

Il a plu à Sa Majesté l'Empereur de confirmer, le 27 de mars de l'année courante, les "Règlements concernant les prises maritimes."

(Signé) Général-amiral ALEXI,
Au bureau du ministère de la Marine.

Décret de Sa Majesté Impériale l'Autocrate de toutes les Russies, du Sénat dirigeant au Directeur du ministère de la Marine.

Par ordre de Sa Majesté Impériale, nous, le Sénat dirigeant, avons entendu le rapport du Directeur du ministère de la Marine, daté le 2 de mai 1895, No. 292, auquel il joint copie des règlements concernant les prises maritimes confirmés par Sa Majesté Impériale le 27 de mars 1895. Nous ordonnons que la copie sus-mentionnée soit imprimée de la manière ordinaire. Avis à cet effet doit être donné au bureau du Département des Impressions du Sénat, et le Directeur du ministère de la Marine doit être informé du décret. 18 mai 1895.

RÈGLEMENTS CONCERNANT LES PRISES MARITIMES.

Règlements généraux.

1. Les dispositions des présents règlements sont applicables dans tous cas pour lesquels, en matières relatives aux prises maritimes, des règles spéciales sont posées par des conventions entre la Russie et d'autres nations.

Observation.—Des règles spéciales sont en force au sujet de la saisie de la propriété d'un ennemi à terre ou à flot.

(1.) Les lettres de marque ne seront pas délivrées à des particuliers ;

(2.) Le pavillon neutre couvre la marchandise de l'ennemi, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre.

3. Pour la capture d'une prise on doit se servir de la force ouverte ou de ruses de guerre permissibles, mais on ne doit jamais avoir recours aux violations de la bonne foi.

ARTICLE I.—ARRÊT, VISITE ET SAISIE DE VAISSEAUX ET DE CARGAISONS, ET LEUR CONFISCATION COMME PRISES.

(1.) Si le commandant refuse de donner l'assurance indiquée plus haut ;

(2.) S'il déclare que quelques-uns des vaisseaux ne naviguent pas sous son escorte ; et

(3.) S'il est évident qu'un vaisseau escorté se prépare à faire quelque chose qui constitue une violation de neutralité.

8. La neutralité est censée être violée dans les circonstances décrites dans les articles 11 et 12.

9. Les vaisseaux et cargaisons qui, conformément aux dispositions des présents règlements, paraissent être passibles de la confiscation comme prises, doivent être saisis.

10. Les navires de guerre et les vaisseaux marchands de l'ennemi sont passibles de la confiscation comme prises, ainsi que tous les articles à bord, sauf—

(1.) Les articles destinés à l'usage particulier de l'équipage ou des passagers ; et

(1.) Lorsque ces vaisseaux sont trouvés en voie de transporter à l'ennemi ou à un port de l'ennemi—

(3.) Lorsque ces vaisseaux résistent par la force des armes, l'arrêt, la visite, ou la saisie ; et

(4.) Lorsqu'ils ont pris part aux opérations hostiles de l'ennemi.

12. La cargaison de vaisseaux marchands d'une nationalité neutre est passible de confiscation comme prise,—

(1) Lorsque cette cargaison est contrebande de guerre en voie de transport à l'ennemi ou à un port de l'ennemi, et qu'il n'est pas prouvé que le capitaine du vaisseau ignorait la déclaration de guerre ;

(1.) Lorsqu'ils sont attaqués par des vaisseaux hostiles ou suspects ; et

(2.) Lorsqu'ils viennent au secours de navires russes ou alliés exposés à l'attaque.

Les vaisseaux et cargaisons saisis pour ces raisons par des vaisseaux marchands doivent être remis par eux à la garde de l'autorité spécifiée aux articles 23 et 24, et ils auront le droit de réclamer, advenant la confiscation des vaisseaux et cargaisons comme prises, la récompense fixée pour leur saisie.

Observation.—Les limitations fixées dans le présent article pour les vaisseaux marchands ne doivent pas s'étendre aux cas pour lesquels des règles spéciales peuvent être posées en vertu de l'article 4 des présents règlements.

20. A la saisie d'un navire de guerre, le commandant du navire faisant la capture procèdera conformément à l'article 351 des Règlements de marine (édition de 1899).

21. Dans les cas exceptionnels, lorsque la préservation d'un vaisseau capturé paraît impossible à cause de son mauvais état ou complète inutilité, le danger de sa reprise par l'ennemi, ou la grande distance ou le blocus des ports, ou encore à cause du danger menaçant le navire qui a fait la capture ou le succès de ses opérations, il est permissible pour le commandant, sur sa propre responsabilité, de brûler ou couler le vaisseau capturé, après avoir enlevé toutes les personnes à bord, et autant que possible de la cargaison, et vu à la sûreté des papiers du vaisseau et de tous autres objets qui peuvent être nécessaires pour jeter de la lumière sur le cas à l'enquête qui doit être instituée conformément à la procédure suivie dans les questions de prises. Le commandant rédigera un rapport, en conformité de l'article 353 des Règlements de marine (édition de 1899), sur les circonstances qui l'ont forcé de détruire le vaisseau capturé.

connaissance des papiers qui ont été scellés, prendra des mesures pour la prise de possession, l'inventaire et la préservation de la propriété qui lui a été remise, et aussi, au cas d'absolue nécessité, pour la vente à l'enchère publique de tous articles parmi ceux qui lui auront été remis que leur nature ou leur condition ne permet pas de conserver. Le commandant du navire qui a fait la capture ou son représentant, ainsi que les personnes spécifiées à l'article 19, ont droit d'être présents à ces procédures, et de faire leurs observations et leurs suggestions en ce qui les concerne.

27. La confiscation de vaisseaux capturés et de leurs cargaisons devra être accomplie en conformité des ordres de l'autorité navale compétente. La confiscation d'autres vaisseaux et de leurs cargaisons qui ont été saisis ne peut s'exécuter qu'en conformité de la décision du tribunal des prises.

28. La propriété capturée n'est sujette à confiscation que si elle appartient à cette catégorie d'articles qui peuvent être confisqués comme prises (articles 10 et 12), et si sa saisie remplit les conditions prescrites (articles 2, 3, et 15-17). Au cas contraire la propriété doit être libérée et rendue à son propriétaire primitif.

29. Si la propriété qui devrait être rendue au propriétaire original a été rendue ou libérée sur paiement d'un dépôt, la somme totale produite par la vente ou payée en dépôt doit être remise au propriétaire. S'il appert que la propriété qui devrait être remise a été détruite par ordre du commandant de marine, ou a péri par la faute ou la négligence des fonctionnaires dont le devoir était de la préserver, l'équivalent de la valeur de la propriété qui a été détruite ou qui a péri doit être payé au propriétaire, l'estimation devant être basée sur tels renseignements qui sont donnés.

30. Outre la restitution de la propriété qui devrait être renvoyée, ou le paiement de l'équivalent de sa valeur (articles 28 et 29), il pourra être accordé une indemnité spéciale au propriétaire primitif pour des pertes causées par la saisie de la propriété, quand il est reconnu que la propriété a été saisie sans raison suffisante, ou que la saisie était une transgression des conventions (articles 16 et 17). Si la propriété est renvoyée dans une condition endommagée, une indemnité peut être accordée au propriétaire pour ses pertes, s'il est prouvé que le dommage a été causé par la faute ou la négligence des fonctionnaires dont le devoir était de préserver la propriété.

Observation.—L'estimation et la vente des prises sont exécutées en conformité de règles établies par le directeur du ministère de la Marine de concert avec le ministre des Finances.

SECTION II —PARTS DE PRISES.

39. Des parts de prises seront payées aux personnes spécifiées aux articles 35-37 selon le rang, la désignation ou les devoirs assignés à chacune lors de la capture ou de la reprise d'une prise.

43. Pour la capture de vaisseaux de l'ennemi et de leurs cargaisons, il est payé des parts de prises égales à la pleine valeur de la prise.

Observation.—Lors de la restitution à ses propriétaires primitifs de la propriété reprise de l'ennemi, ou de l'argent déposé pour obtenir la libération de telle propriété, les propriétaires (excepté dans le cas du gouvernement) devront rembourser les dépenses spécifiées au paragraphe 2 de cet article.

ARTICLE III—CONSTITUTION DES TRIBUNAUX DE PRISES ET PROCÉDURE DANS LES CAUSES DE PRISES.

CHAPITRE I.—Constitution des tribunaux des prises.

50. L'enquête dans les causes de prises est confiée (1) à des tribunaux des prises de port ou de l'Amirauté, et (2) au Conseil de l'Amirauté comme au tribunal suprême des prises.

52. Un tribunal des prises de port est composé d'un président et de cinq membres. Le président d'un tribunal de port est choisi, par un ordre impérial, parmi les fonctionnaires du département judiciaire de marine d'un grade non inférieur à celui de colonel. Le tribunal des prises se compose aussi de deux membres choisis par le Directeur du ministère de la Marine parmi les officiers d'état-major du département de la Marine, de deux membres choisis par le ministre de la Justice parmi les fonctionnaires du département judiciaire qui ont une connaissance pratique de la loi marchande et de la procédure judiciaire, et d'un membre choisi par le ministre des Affaires étrangères parmi les fonctionnaires de son département. En l'absence du président du tribunal des prises, ses devoirs sont remplis par le membre le plus ancien du tribunal. Sont adjoints à un tribunal des prises de port un procureur, un secrétaire (officier payeur), et un interprète, ainsi que des commis et employés en tel nombre qui sera nécessaire. Le procureur d'un tribunal des prises est choisi par le Directeur du ministère de la Marine parmi des personnes qui ont complété un cours d'études légales, ou qui, dans leur service, ont fait montre d'une bonne connaissance de la loi, et qui ont pratiqué la loi. La nomination du secrétaire du tribunal appartient au Directeur du ministère de la Marine, et le choix de l'interprète, des commis et employés appartient au président du tribunal des prises. L'interprète, s'il n'est pas déjà au service du gouvernement, devra prêter serment avant de commencer ses services au tribunal.

une rémunération suffisante pour compléter le montant indiqué, et, dans le dernier cas, une rémunération égale à celle des membres de tribunaux de marine remplissant les mêmes fonctions.

(2.) Pour la décision de toutes les autres questions du ressort des tribunaux des prises, pas moins de deux membres, dont un du ministère de la Justice.

58. Il est du ressort des tribunaux des prises de décider, en vertu des règles de procédure établies aux articles 50-63, les cas suivants :

(1.) La confiscation ou la libération des vaisseaux marchands capturés et de leurs cargaisons, ou des sommes réalisées par la vente de ces vaisseaux et cargaisons, ou payées comme sécurité pour des vaisseaux et cargaisons libérés ;

(2.) La compensation pour les pertes subies par la saisie, la destruction, la perte, le dommage des vaisseaux marchands et de leurs cargaisons ;

(4.) L'établissement du montant des parts de prises devant être payées pour la capture des vaisseaux d'un ennemi et de leurs cargaisons, et la division de ce montant.

Observation.—Les règles de procédure dans des tribunaux de prises établis à des ports d'une puissance alliée devront être déterminées par analogie aux règles prescrites par ces règlements, après convention entre le Directeur du ministère de la Marine et le ministre des Affaires étrangères d'une part et les autorités étrangères compétentes d'autre part.

61. Il est permis aux parties :—

(3.) De faire, oralement ou par écrit des demandes ou des déclarations concernant la cause ; et

(4.) D'examiner le compte rendu original des procédures, et d'obtenir des copies de ce compte rendu et des extraits de papiers et de documents.

63. Les déclarations de personnes qui seront examinées devant un tribunal des prises, et qui ne savent pas le russe, pourront être prises par écrit. Ces déclarations, ainsi que tous documents dans une langue étrangère, seront traduites en russe.

64. Dès qu'avis est reçu de l'arrivée de propriété capturée, le tribunal des prises se réunira aussitôt que possible et procèdera à l'examen de toutes personnes appartenant au navire qui a fait la capture, et aux vaisseaux capturés, ainsi que toute personne qui se présente volontairement (article 60), et dont le tribunal considère le témoignage nécessaire. Dans les cas où la propriété capturée a été conduite à un port autre que l'endroit où siège le tribunal, celui-ci se rendra à cet endroit pour l'audition des témoignages, ou enverra l'un de ces membres dans ce but, et si ceci ne peut se faire avant le jour fixé pour le départ des vaisseaux, le tribunal priera les autorités navales locales ou autres autorités d'entendre les témoignages.

68. Si la propriété capturée est amenée à un port d'une puissance alliée où il n'y a pas de tribunal des prises d'établi, les procédures spécifiées aux articles 64 et 65, après convention entre le Directeur du ministère de la Marine et le ministre des Affaires étrangères d'une part et les autorités étrangères compétentes d'autre part, seront conduites par l'agent de marine ou le conseil russe local, ou par une personne spécialement nommée, en présence d'au moins deux témoins—des sujets russes si possible—résidant à l'endroit en question. Après la conclusion de ces procédures, la cause relative à la propriété capturée sera renvoyée au plus proche tribunal des prises, avec tous les papiers qui s'y rapportent. En même temps, il est loisible au susdit agent de marine, consul, ou personne spécialement nommée de prendre les mesures prévues à l'article 66 et dans la première partie de l'article 67 concernant la propriété capturée, s'il semble inopportun d'attendre que le tribunal des prises prenne les mesures en question.

75. Les décisions d'un tribunal des prises sont rendues à la majorité des voix. S'il y a égalité de votes le président a le vote prépondérant.

78. En recevant l'appel, le tribunal des prises en communique des copies au procureur et aux autres personnes concernées dans la cause dont les intérêts sont lésés par l'appel, si ces personnes ont donné avis de leurs adresses dans la localité où le tribunal est établi ; si elles ne l'ont pas fait, les copies de l'appel qui leur sont destinées resteront dans le tribunal. Les appels originaux sont transmis avec les dossiers des procédures dans la cause au tribunal suprême des prises, auquel sont aussi transmis les appels spéciaux, mentionnés à l'article 77 contre le refus du tribunal des prises de proroger le délai pour interjeter appel. Toutes déclarations de personnes concernées dans la cause au sujet des appels qui leur sont communiqués doivent être envoyées par ces personnes directement au tribunal suprême des prises avant la date fixée pour l'audition de la cause par ce dernier tribunal.

79. Si un appel n'est pas interjeté sous le délai fixé, toute décision à l'effet que la propriété capturée doit être confisquée sera exécutée aussitôt que le délai expire. Si un appel est interjeté, l'exécution de cette décision sera retardée jusqu'à ce que l'appel soit décidé.

manière décrite dans l'article 66. Le tribunal peut, à sa discrétion, permettre la libération de la susdite propriété avant la décision de l'appel, soit sur le dépôt comme garantie d'une somme de deniers égale à la valeur de la propriété telle qu'estimée par évaluation, ou sans ce dépôt. S'il s'élève quelque différend au sujet du droit de propriété des objets libérés, la remise de la propriété au propriétaire primitif doit être retardée jusqu'à ce que ce différend soit réglé de la manière voulue par la loi, ou jusqu'à ce que les parties réclamant la propriété ait payé un dépôt en deniers égal à la valeur de la propriété.

84. Le tribunal suprême des prises ne s'occupe que des parties des décisions d'un tribunal des prises dont il est interjeté appel par des personnes concernées dans la cause. L'annulation de décisions à l'effet que la propriété capturée doit être libérée et remise à son propriétaire primitif sans aucune demande d'un dépôt, malgré la circonstance qu'un appel a été interjeté (article 80), entraîne l'adjudication en la manière prescrite dans les articles 44 et 49, d'une part de prise correspondante à la valeur de telle portion des parts de prises libérées que le tribunal suprême des prises jugera passible de confiscation comme prise.

85. Il n'y a pas d'appel des décisions du tribunal suprême des prises ; une fois rendues, des copies doivent être communiquées aux autorités navales compétentes pour exécution.

PARTIE II.—Procédure dans les causes relatives à la compensation pour pertes dues à la détention. destruction, pertes ou avaries des vaisseaux marchands et marchandises,—au retour à leurs propriétaires primitifs des vaisseaux marchands et cargaisons repris de l'ennemi, et au règlement des parts de prises et frais payables par ces propriétaires, et aussi à l'établissement du montant des parts de prises pour la capture des navires et cargaisons de l'ennemi par des vaisseaux marchands et la distribution de ces parts.

87. Les causes concernant,—

(1.) La compensation pour pertes dues à la capture, destruction, perte ou avaries des vaisseaux marchands et leurs cargaisons ;

(2.) La remise à leurs propriétaires primitifs des vaisseaux marchands et cargaisons repris de l'ennemi, et le règlement des parts de prises et des frais payables par ces propriétaires ; et

92. La remise de la propriété capturée à ses propriétaires primitifs est permissible (1) avant que la décision ait été rendue et soit devenue légalement obligatoire—seulement à la condition que les propriéteires déposent en garantie une somme égale à tout montant qu'ils peuvent être appelés à payer pour ports de prises et frais (articles 45, 46. observation, et 66) ; et (2) après que la décision sera devenue légalement obligatoire—à la condition que les propriétaires paient la part de prise et les frais pour lesquels ils sont trouvés passibles. A part des causes visées par l'article 67 (première partie) et 82, la vente de propriété reprise est aussi permissible si le propriétaire primitif fait une demande pour sa vente. Lorsque la propriété qui aurait dû être remise tombe au gouvernement (article 82) ce dernier paie toutes les dépenses et aussi la part de prise.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Sur la procédure dans l'arrêt, la visite et la saisie, et aussi dans l'enlèvement et la livraison des vaisseaux et cargaisons capturés.

Observation.—Inter alia, il sera nécessaire de définir le territoire neutre en mer et les autres eaux où les opérations de guerre sont exclues par conventions internationales spéciales, et où en vertu de l'article 16 des "Règlements concernant les prises maritimes" il n'est pas permissible d'arrêter, visiter et saisir des navires et cargaisons.

ARRÊTER.—Procédure.

§ 2. Un navire désirant en arrêter un autre doit se diriger sur lui, hisser son pavillon, et tirer un coup de canon à blanc dans sa direction. En même temps un signal peut être donné selon le Code international.

Afin d'arrêter un vaisseau la nuit, il est nécessaire en tirant le coup à blanc, d'exposer les feux de têtes de mâts et les feux distinctifs.

Refus d'arrêter.

§ 3. Si, malgré le coup de canon tiré le vaisseau n'arrête pas, un boulet doit être lancé au delà de l'avant du vaisseau fuyant. S'il persiste à marcher, il est permissible de tirer sur lui et de le poursuivre afin de le forcer à arrêter.

En commençant à tirer sur le vaisseau, il est bon de tirer le premier coup au-dessus de sa coque entre les mâts. Mais cette modération n'est pas obligatoire, surtout si c'est un vapeur qui ayant l'avantage de la vitesse peut espérer échapper à celui qui le poursuit.

Tout vaisseau qui a fait une tentative évidente pour échapper à un croiseur, ce qui a obligé ce dernier à le poursuivre et d'employer la force pour l'arrêter, est passible d'être saisi; toutefois le commandant du croiseur, s'il le juge à propos après avoir arrêté un vaisseau, peut le soumettre à une visite comme préliminaire, et agir ensuite selon le résultat de la visite.

§ 4. Pour la visite un officier d'expérience et plusieurs hommes de l'équipage doivent être choisis ; un aide garde-magasin, etc., peut avantageusement être inclu. Deux officiers ayant quelque connaissance des langues étrangères doivent être inclus, s'il y en a à bord.

§ 5. Il est bon que quelques relais d'officiers et d'hommes soient choisis d'avance pour la visite. Les officiers et hommes envoyés pour faire la visite doivent être armés de revolvers. Il est utile de convenir d'avance de quelques simples signaux (avec une rame, un mouchoir, un petit pavillon, etc.)

Lorsque la chasse commence, les officiers choisis pour la visite doivent préparer leurs hommes, et prendre la latitude et la longitude du navire impérial.

Observation—Il est nécessaire de se rappeler les graves conséquences d'une collision. Le vaisseau peut appartenir à l'ennemi, on peut s'attendre à des actes hostiles, et un désir d'avarier le croiseur par une collision.

§ 7. Après que la chaloupe avec les officiers et les homme a poussé au large, le croiseur impérial devra rester en une telle position durant la visite que ceux qui sont à bord pourront garder la chaloupe en vue tout le temps, et voir ce qui se passe sur le vaisseau qui est visité. Les canons doivent être chargés, et les canonniers à leurs pièces.

Les officiers à bord.

§ 8. Lorsque le détachement atteint le vaisseau arrêté, il faut prendre note dans la chaloupe de son nom et de son port. Un officier accompagné de deux hommes montera alors sur le pont. Si deux officiers sont envoyés pour la visite, les officiers et un homme monteront à bord.

Observation.—Les hommes qui restent ne doivent monter sur le pont que lorsque l'examen des papiers est fini, et que la visite de tout le vaisseau commence. Le nombre d'hommes à envoyer à bord dépend de la dimension du vaisseau et de l'opinion des officiers (e. g., il peut y en avoir quatre, six, ou plus.)

Si le vaisseau qui a été arrêté offre de la résistance à la visite il est passible de la saisie.

Examen des papiers.

§ 11. L'examen commence par une demande au capitaine—

(a) de déclarer le nom et la nationalité de son vaisseau.

(b) de nommer son port de destination, et celui de partance.

(c) produire son journal du bord et tous les papiers concernant le vaisseau et la cargaison.

Ci-jointe est une liste des principaux papiers du bord que portent les vaisseaux marchands de certaines nationalité (Annexe I.)

Conséquences de l'examen des papiers.

(a.) S'il est prouvé que le vaisseau appartient à l'ennemi ;

(c.) Si parmi les papiers il s'en trouve qui porte l'officier à soupçonner que le vaisseau appartient à l'ennemi ;

(d.) Si l'officier arrive à la conclusion que les papiers ne sont pas véridiques.

(e.) S'il appert par les papiers que le vaisseau a été acheté de sujets de l'ennemi par le sujet d'un Etat neutre, et qu'il y a raison de supposer qu'une vente simulée a eu lieu dans le but de protéger la propriété de l'ennemi.

§ 19. Si l'officier est convaincu que les papiers sont en parfait ordre, que le vaisseau est réellement neutre, que parmi les marchandises à bord il ne peut y avoir de contrebande de guerre destinée à l'ennemi, et généralement qu'il n'existe aucune raison pour détenir le vaisseau, il doit le quitter sans délai, conformément aux règles posées aux §§ 28, 29 et 30. (Fin de la visite.)

§ 20. Si l'officier a des doutes sur l'exactitude des renseignements obtenus de l'examen des papiers, surtout si le vaisseau est en destination d'un port de l'ennemi, ou s'il a raison de supposer, d'après les indices généraux des mouvements, direction et position du vaisseau arrêté, que la destination éventuelle du vaisseau ou de sa cargaison est un port de l'ennemi, il doit procéder à l'examen et visite de tout le vaisseau, afin de s'assurer s'il y a quelque contrebande de guerre parmi sa cargaison.

§ 22. Le nombre des matelots venant à bord peut-être de quatre, six, huit ou plus selon la dimension du vaisseau à visiter et l'opinion de l'officier. S'il appert que le nombre d'hommes dans la chaloupe n'est pas suffisant, il peut par un signal au navire en appeler d'autres. Les hommes choisis pour la visite doivent être intelligents, actifs et d'expérience.

§ 23. La visite de la cale est très difficile, vu qu'elle peut créer des plaintes de la part des neutres qui en souffrent sans le mériter. En conséquence l'officier doit d'abord décider quelle partie de la cargaison paraît la plus suspecte d'après le manque de précision des papiers, et doit diriger son attention à cette partie-là. La conduite de l'officier et des hommes doit être polie, mais ils ne doivent pas hésiter à faire leur devoir en tout et partout.

§ 24. Tant que dure la visite des cales, l'officier doit insister à ce que le capitaine soit présent tout le temps; il n'est pas de rigueur que le second du capitaine soit présent, à moins de nécessité absolue.

§ 26. Tant que dure la visite l'officier peut afin de faciliter la besogne, poser des questions à l'équipage et aux passagers, afin d'obtenir les explications nécessaires concernant le vaisseau et la cargaison. Il est bon aussi de faire attention à certains signes extérieurs, par exemple, aux marques qui sont sur les cheminées des vapeurs de certaines compagnies et qui pourraient être recouvertes par la peinture.

Fin de la visite.

§ 28. Une fois la visite terminée, l'officier inscrira dans le journal du bord, en langue russe, le temps et l'endroit de la visite (latitude et longitude), le nom du navire, le nom de son commandant, et le résultat de la visite. L'entrée doit être faite en conformité de la formule ci-jointe (Annexe 3).

§ 29. Avant de quitter le vaisseau, l'officier demandera au capitaine de lui donner par écrit un certificat (dans sa propre langue, si c'est possible) à l'effet qu'il n'a aucun sujet de plainte, ou, s'il a à se plaindre, de le mettre en écrit.

§ 30. En quittant le vaisseau, l'officier doit informer le capitaine qu'il ne doit pas continuer sa route tant que lui-même n'aura pas rejoint le navire impérial et fait rapport au commandant. L'officier dressera un rapport par écrit de sa visite.

DÉTENTION.

Commission.

Rédaction du protocol.

§ 34. Le protocol doit être écrit en langue russe. Il doit décrire en détail la nationalité, la classe, et le nom du vaisseau ; les noms du capitaine et des armateurs ; le nombre de l'équipage et leur nationalité ; toutes les circonstances se rattachant à l'arrêt du vaisseau ; tous les papiers produits par le capitaine, et le contenu de ces papiers ; toutes les circonstances se rattachant à l'examen des papiers et la visite du vaisseau ; toute information concernant la cargaison, et tout ce qui a été trouvé dans le vaisseau ; toutes les déclarations du capitaine subrécargue, chef d'équipage, et autres personnes interrogées.

§ 35. Le contenu du protocol doit être traduit oralement au capitaine, et il doit être requis de signer le protocol. Toutefois, il n'est pas obligé de le signer. Une note doit être faite sur le protocol à l'effet qu'il a été lu et traduit au capitaine.

Tout protêt du capitaine (en écrit) doit être annexé au protocol, et tout inexactitude doit être expliqués sur le protocol même.

Observation.—Vu que la rédaction du protocol et l'examen du capitaine et autres personnes de l'équipage peut occuper un temps considérable, le croiseur est autorisé à contraindre le vaisseau marchand de prendre une certaine route, pendant que le croiseur continue sa visite en le suivant.

Décision du commandant.

§ 36. Aussitôt que le protocol a été rédigé et signé par les membres de la commission, il doit être soumis au commandant, qui affixera sa décision au protocol. En décidant si le vaisseau ou cargaison doit être détenu il doit se guider sur les considérations suivantes :—

1. Tous les navires de guerre et les vaisseaux marchands de l'ennemi (voir articles 9 et 10 des Règlements concernant les prises maritimes).

Observation.—En conformité de conventions internales spéciales conclues par le gouvernement impérial, certains navires de l'ennemi sont considérés non passibles de capture, mais ces navires sont toutefois passibles de détention si leur manière d'agir est telle que décrite sous le titre 2 (a), (b), (c), (d), du présent paragraphe (voir la deuxième partie de l'article 10 des Règlements concernant les prises maritimes").

2. Les vaisseaux marchands neutres :

(a) S'ils sont en voie de transporter à l'ennemi une quantité quelconque d'articles requis pour tirer avec des armes à feu, d'objets ou substances employés pour causer des explosions, ou de troupes de l'ennemi (voir titre 1 de l'article 11 des Règlements concernant les prises maritimes") ;

(b) S'ils sont en voie de transporter à l'ennemi d'autre contrebande de guerre jusqu'à un montant excédant en volume et en poids une moitié de la cargaison entière (voir titre 1, (b) de l'article 11 des susdits règlements).

Observation.—Si le total de cette contrebande de guerre est moindre que la moitié de la cargaison, le vaisseau ne devra être détenu que jusqu'à ce que la contrebande ait été livrée ; la livraison pourra se faire, à la discrétion du commandant, soit à l'endroit où le bateau été a détenu ou après qu'il a été amené au port (voir l'article 14 des règlements susdits).

(e). S'ils ont participé à des opérations hostiles de l'ennemi (voir titre 4 de l'article 11 des règlements susdits).

3. Tous les vaisseaux suspects, même s'ils sont sous un pavillon neutre, (voir article 16 des règlements susdits). Les faits suivants et autres semblables sont des raisons de considérer comme suspect un vaisseau marchand :

Cargaisons.

§ 38. Les cargaisons suivantes peuvent être détenues:

1. Des cargaisons de l'ennemi transportées dans des vaisseaux de l'ennemi (voir article 10 des " Règlements concernant les prises maritimes ") ;

2. Des cargaisons de l'ennemi ou des cargaisons neutres dans des vaisseaux neutres qui ont enfreint la neutralité comme suit (voir article 12 des règlements susdits) :

(a) Dans des vaisseaux neutres qui ont participé à des opérations hostiles de l'ennemi ;

(b). Qui ont offert résistance armée à l'arrêt, à la visite, ou à la détention ; et

(c). Qui ont été découverts en rupture de blocus.

3. Toutes les cargaisons réputées contrebande de guerre à l'exception des armes et des approvisionnements qui font partie de l'équipement d'un vaisseau neutre lui-même (voir article 12, titre 1, et article 13 des règlements susdits).

Lorsque des vaisseaux ou des cargaisons sont détenus, l'on observe la règle que les articles à l'usage personnel de l'équipage ou des passagers ne doivent pas être détenus (voir article 10, titre 1, des règlements susdits).

A l'exception des cas ci-dessus, les règles suivantes doivent être observées :

(1). Un pavillon neutre couvre la marchandise de l'ennemi, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre (voir article 2, titre 2, des règlements susdits).

TRANSPORT—Mode de Transport.

§ 39. Les vaisseaux et les cargaisons capturés pourront être conduits, à la discrétion du commandant du croiseur impérial, soit à un port ou soit à la flotte d'opération. Ils peuvent être escortés par le croiseur lui-même, ou être envoyés au port indépendamment en charge d'un officier et d'un équipage russe ; les officiers commandants seront gouvernés par les règles établies aux articles 351-353 du Code Naval, édition de 1899. Si un vaisseau capturé est envoyé seul, les papiers de bord originaux et les documents relatifs à sa capture devront rester en les mains du commandant du croiseur, et des copies devront en être données à l'officier mis en charge.

Destruction des vaisseaux capturés.

(5.) Quand le transport peut empêcher le succès des opérations de guerre dans lesquelles le croiseur impérial est engagé, ou l'exposer au danger.

Le commandant devra faire un rapport, signé par lui et par tous ses officiers, expliquant les circonstances qui l'ont forcé de détruire le vaisseau capturé. Il devra transmettre le rapport à son officier supérieur à la première occasion.

De plus, un croiseur impérial peut se réfugier dans le port d'une puissance neutre avec des vaisseaux capturés au cas de tempête ou autre nécessité urgente (comme bris des machines, insuffisance de provisions, poursuite par un ennemi plus fort) ; dans ce cas le commandant est obligé, en ce qui regarde la durée et les autres conditions de son séjour dans le port neutre, de se conformer aux règlements établis par le gouvernement de la localité.

LIVRAISON

A des ports russes ou à la flotte d'opération.

Si les vaisseaux capturés et les cargaisons sont amenés à la flotte d'opération, ils devront être livrés à l'officier qui commande l'escadre.

L'autorité navale compétente ou autre autorité devra ouvrir les papiers scellés et prendre des mesures pour recevoir la propriété livrée, pour en faire l'inventaire et pour la conserver, ainsi que faire les démarches nécessaires pour la vente a l'enchère publique de tels articles qui, vu leur nature ou leur condition ne peuvent être gardés.

Les personnes suivantes ont droit d'être présentes à ces procédures : premièrement, le commandant ou un des officiers du navire impérial qui a fait la capture ; et, deuxièmement, le capitaine du vaisseau capturé, ainsi que les propriétaires du vaisseau et de la cargaison, ou leurs agents, si les propriétaires ou leurs agents sont à cet endroit.

A des ports étrangers.

Avis aux autorités.

ANNEXE II À LA § 14 DES INSTRUCTIONS APPROUVÉES PAR LE CONSEIL D'AMIRAUTÉ, 20 SEPTEMBRE 1900, (MINUTES No. 4487, ARTICLE 38076.)

(a.) Toutes sortes d'armes, armes portatives, et canons, montés et démontés ;

(e.) Les articles d'équipement et d'habillement militaires, boites à cartouches, havresacs, bandoulières, cuirasses, outils de tranchées, tambours, marmites, selles, harnais, articles finis pour uniformes, tentes, etc. ;

Par l'expression "en destination de l'ennemi" s'entend transporter à sa flotte, à un de ses ports, ou même à un port neutre, s'il est de toute évidence que ce dernier est simplement une station intermédiaire à l'ennemi, ce dernier étant virtuellement la dernière destination.

1. Le transport des troupes de l'ennemi, de détachements militaires, et de simples soldats ; et

Le vapeur arrêta immédiatement ses machines (ou le vaisseau à voiles mis en panne). D'après la visite l'on constata que le vapeur était nommé le : les papiers du navire (des nommant) furent trouvés en règle, et il n'y avait pas de contrebande de guerre à bord. HOTEL DU GOUVERNEMENT À OTTAWA.

Mercredi, le 23e jour de mars 1904.

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

Considérant que l'article 33 des règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses, établis par arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que le détenteur d'une concession minière sur des terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface, y compris l'usage de tout le bois qui s'y trouve pour des fins minières ou de construction relativement à l'exploitation de la dite concession dans le but de développer les minéraux qu'elle contient ;

Et considérant qu'il est représenté que des emplacements de mines quartzeuses sont quelques fois jalonnés que pour le bois qui s'y trouve,—

A ces causes, il plaît au Gouverneur général en conseil d'ordonner que l'article 33 des dits règlements de mines quartzeuses soit et il est par le présent rescindé, et remplacé par le suivant :—

"Le détenteur d'une concession minière sur les terres fédérales vacantes aura titre à tous les droits de surface y compris la faculté d'abattre sans payer de droits tout le bois sur l'emplacement qui sera nécessaire pour l'exploiter, mais non pour la vente ou le trafic, sauf là où le bois a été concédé ou vendu préalablement à la date de l'inscription. L'agent des bois peut, toutefois, permettre à tout mineur libre d'abattre et d'enlever de l'emplacement du bois pour son propre usage dans son exploitation minière, s'il ne peut s'en procurer autrement dans une distance raisonnable, mais nul tel permis ne concédera le droit d'abattre ou d'enlever du bois dont le détenteur de l'emplacement a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières.

"Dans le territoire du Yukon, le bois sur un emplacement minier sera, sujet aux droits existants lors de la demande de la concession, réservé jusqu'à ce que le régistrateur des mines certifie que ce bois est requis pour servir dans des opérations minières sur cet emplacement minier, et alors le droit de se servir de ce bois, ou d'une partie de ce bois, sans payer de droits, peut être donné au détenteur de cet emplacement minier par l'agent des bois et des terres de la Couronne avec l'approbation du commissaire du territoire. Le commissaire peut, toutefois, autoriser l'agent des bois à émettre un permis à tout mineur libre pour abattre et enlever de cet emplacement minier le bois dont il a besoin pour ses propres opérations minières lorsque ce bois ne peut s'obtenir autrement dans une distance raisonnable de l'endroit de ses opérations minières.

HOTEL DU GOUVERNEMENT À OTTAWA.

Mercredi, le 23e jour de mars 1904.

PRÉSENT :

SON EXCELLENCE LE GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL EN CONSEIL.

CONSIDÉRANT que le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements concernant la concession de mines quartzeuses sur les terres fédérales, établis par l'arrêté en conseil du 21 de mars 1898, déclare que dans aucun cas les frais d'arpentage ne seront considérés comme améliorations ou travail fait sur une concession, à moins que l'arpentage soit fait sous un an de la date de l'enregistrement de la concession, auquel cas les frais d'arpentage n'excédant pas $100 seront comptés comme travail fait sur l'emplacement ; et par un arrêté en conseil daté le 21 de janvier 1901, l'article 31 des dits règlements a été modifié de façon que si l'arpentage d'un emplacement minier a été fait sous un an à compter de la date à laquelle l'emplacement a été enregistré, le coût de cet arpentage, n'excédant pas $100, sera compté comme travail fait sur l'emplacement pour cette année-là.

Il plaît au Gouverneur en conseil d'ordonner que les dits articles des susdits règlements soient et ils sont par le présent modifiés comme suit :—

Les frais de l'arpentage d'une concession minière, n'excédant pas $100, toutefois, seront acceptés au lieu de travail représentatif sur la concession pour l'année dans laquelle l'arpentage est fait, que ce soit la première année ou non, pourvu qu'avis de cet arpentage soit immédiatement inséré pendant au moins soixante jours dans un journal publié ou circulant dans le district dans lequel l'emplacement est situé, ce journal devant être approuvé par le registrateur des mines, et pourvu aussi que le propriétaire de l'emplacement, avant la première publication de cet avis, fasse afficher dans un endroit bien en vue sur l'emplacement, et dans le bureau du registrateur des mines pour le district, un avis de son intention d'annoncer l'arpentage de l'emplacement, et aussi une copie du plan de l'arpentage préparé et attesté sous serment par un arpenteur fédéral. L'arpentage sera accepté comme définissant absolument les bornes de l'emplacement arpenté, pourvu qu'il reste non protesté dans le cours de la publication. Toutefois, si dans le délai spécifié l'arpentage est protesté, le protêt sera entendu et il en sera décidé conformément aux dispositions du paragraphe 2 de l'article 43*a* des règlements miniers. La publication de l'avis d'arpentage comme susdit, sera accepté au lieu de l'avis et la publication exigés par les paragraphes (d) et (e) de l'article 43 des dits règlements concernant les mines quartzeuses. Mais si l'avis d'arpentage n'est donné qu'après que la dépense exigée par le paragraphe (a) de l'article 43 des règlements aura été encourue, alors l'avis exigé par le dit article des règlements doit être donné.

JOHN J. McGEE,
Greffier du Conseil privé.

Les allégations de la pétition seront appuyées de la déclaration du pétitionnaire faite en vertu de "l'Acte de la preuve en Canada, 1893."

Huit jours avant l'ouverture du Parlement, le pétitionnaire déposera au bureau du greffier du Sénat, une copie en langue anglaise ou française du bill de divorce qui doit être présenté, et en même temps une somme suffisante pour payer la traduction et l'impression et tirage à 600 exemplaires anglais et 200 exemplaires français de ce bill.

EDWARD THE SEVENTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

To all to whom these presents shall come, or whom the same may in anywise concern,—Greeting:

A PROCLAMATION.

E. L. NEWCOMBE,
Deputy of the Minister of
Justice, Canada.

Whereas in view of the facts that the Culbute Canal locks on the Ottawa River were much decayed and that in order to make them permanently effective considerable cost would have been entailed, while, on the other hand, the traffic was of inconsiderable extent, the railway facilities having greatly lessened the anticipated usefulness of the works, it was decided in the year 1889 to abandon the idea of maintaining the waters of the river at an artificial height, and an Order in Council was passed on the twenty-fourth day of October in that year to the effect that the river should be allowed to resume its natural level;

And whereas it is deemed expedient that public notice should be given of the abandonment of the said works and the dams, that is to say; The Culbute Locks and Dams, being two combined locks constructed and situated on the North Channel of the River at L'Islet, on the north side of the Allumette Island with the submerged dam between L'Islet and the north shore of Allumette Island said works being located in the Township of Chichester, Range II;

The Chapeau Bridge consisting of a highway bridge built across the Culbute Channel at the Chapeau, Rapids between Chapeau Village, Allumette Island and the said Township of Chichester;

The works between Calumet Falls and the Culbute Canal consisting of two submerged dams, one at the Grand Calumet Channel and the other at the Flat Rapid on the Rocher Fendu channel, between the south shore of Calumet Island and a small Island in the south channel of the Ottawa River;

And other works associated therewith.

Now Know Ye that We, by and with the advice of our Privy Council for Canada, do, by this Our proclamation, proclaim and declare that the said Culbute Canal and the locks, dams and other works associated therewith have been and the same are hereby abandoned as public works of Canada.

Of all which Our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern, are hereby required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

In Testimony whereof, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Our Right Trusty and Right Well-beloved Cousin and Councillor the Right Honourable Sir Gilbert John Elliot, Earl of Minto and Viscount Melgund of Melgund, County of Forfar, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Baron Minto of Minto, County of Roxburgh, in the Peerage of Great Britain, Baronet of Nova Scotia, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, etc., etc., Governor General of Canada.

At Our Government House, in Our City of OTTAWA, this TWELTH day of MARCH, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four, and in the fourth year of Our Reign.

By Command,

JOSEPH POPE,
44-3 Under-Secretary of State.

(On the original of the following Regulations the words "Proceed accordingly" appear in His Imperial Majesty's hand. Tsarskoye Selo, March 27, 1895.)

REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO NAVAL PRIZES

General Regulations.

1. The provisions of these Regulations are applicable in all cases for which, in matters relating to naval prizes, special rules are not laid down by Conventions between Russia and other nations.

Observation.—Special rules are in force in regard to the seizure of the property of an enemy on shore or from the shore.

2. In exact accordance with the Declaration of Paris of the 4th (16th) April, 1856,* the following rules are to be observed in applying these Regulations:—

(1.) Letters of marque are not to be issued to private persons;

(2.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war;

(3.) Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not subject to confiscation under an enemy's flag; and

(4.) A blockade, in order to be considered binding, must be effective, i.e., must be carried out by armed forces sufficient to prevent effectively access to the enemy's coast.

3. For the capture of a prize use must be made either of open force or of permissible "ruses de guerre," but recourse must never be had to breaches of faith.

4. The Imperial Government makes the application of those provisions of the present Regulations which limit the right of stopping, examining, seizing, and confiscating the vessels of a hostile or neutral Power or of its subjects, conditional on the principle of reciprocity, and reserves to itself the right to allow departures from the above-mentioned rules in dealing with a hostile or neutral Power from which the observation of those rules is not to be expected, and to bring its arrangements in regard to this matter into accord with the special circumstances of each particular case.

5. The following, viz.: (1) vessels and cargoes of the enemy or of a neutral nationality which have been seized; and (2) Russian or neutral vessels or cargoes, and vessels or cargoes of an allied nation, which have been retaken from the enemy after capture by him ("reprises"), are considered to be prizes, if their seizure or recapture has been effected in the circumstances specified in these Regulations.

SECTION I.—STOPPAGE, EXAMINATION AND SEIZURE OF VESSELS AND CARGOES, AND THEIR CONFISCATION AS PRIZES.

Chapter I.—What Vessels and Cargoes are subject to Stoppage, Examination, Seizure, and Confiscation.

6. In time of war at sea, merchant vessels (all vessels not forming part of a war fleet being considered such) may be subjected to stoppage and examination with the object of ascertaining what is their nationality, and whether they are observing neutrality. Merchant vessels convoyed by ships of war of an allied or neutral Power are not to be subjected to examination, if the commander of the convoy gives an assurance as to the number of the vessels convoyed, their nationality and the destination of their cargoes, and also that there is no contraband of war on board. The stoppage and examination of such vessels is permissible only in the following circumstances:—

(1.) If the commander of the convoy declines to give the assurance indicated above;

(2.) If he states that any of the vessels are not sailing under his convoy; and

(3.) If it is evident that a vessel under convoy is preparing to do something which constitutes a breach of neutrality.

7. The nationality of a vessel is to be decided in accordance with the laws of the country under the flag of which she is sailing, or to the fleet of which she claims to belong. Merchant vessels purchased from a hostile Power or its subjects by persons of a neutral nationality are to be considered enemy's vessels, unless it is proved that their purchase must be regarded, under the laws of the nation to which the purchasers belong, as having been definitely concluded before the purchasers received information of the declaration of war, or that the vessels were purchased in the manner indicated after the purchasers received that information, but that the purchase was made in perfect good faith, and not with the object of protecting enemy's property.

8. Neutrality is to be considered infringed in the circumstances described in Articles 11 and 12.

9. Vessels and cargoes which, in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, appear to be subject to confiscation as prizes are to be seized.

10. Ships of war and merchant vessels of the enemy are subject to confiscation as prizes, as well as all articles on board, except—

(1.) Such as are intended for the private use of the crew or passengers; and

(2.) Such as belong to the Government of a neutral Power or to its subjects, and do not constitute contraband of war. Nevertheless, the Imperial Government reserves the right to permit, on the basis of reciprocity, the exemption from confiscation of all, or of a particular class of hostile vessels and cargoes, excepting, however, cases where such vessels or cargoes are liable to confiscation on the grounds indicated in Articles 11 and 12 for neutral vessels.

Observation.—All property found in an enemy's ship is to be considered as enemy's property unless the contrary is proved.

11. Merchant vessels of a neutral nationality are liable to confiscation as prizes in the following cases:—

(1.) When such vessels are found conveying to the enemy or to any enemy's port—

(a.) Articles and stores required for shooting with firearms, or objects or substances used for causing explosions, whatever the amount of such things may be;

(b.) Other articles of contraband of war amounting, in bulk or weight, to more than half of the entire cargo;

(c.) Military forces of the enemy;—provided that in all these cases it is not proved that the masters of the vessels concerned were unaware of the declaration of war;

(2.) When such vessels are found breaking a blockade, and it is not proved that the masters were unaware of the establishment of the blockade;

(3.) When such vessels resists by force of arms stoppage, examination, or seizure; and,

(4.) When they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy.

12. The cargo of merchant vessels of a neutral nationality is liable to be confiscated as a prize:—

(1.) When such cargo is contraband of war in course of transportation to the enemy or to an enemy's port, and it is not proved that the master of the vessel was unaware of the declaration of war;

(2.) When the cargo is on board a vessel which is liable to confiscation under heads 2-4 of Article 11, and it is not proved that such cargo belongs to Russians, or to neutrals who have taken no part in the infractions entailing confiscation.

13. The articles considered to be contraband of war are enumerated in a separate Declaration for the information of the public. Those of such articles which really constitute the armament and provisions of a

"1. La course est et demeure abolie;

"2. Le pavillon neutre couvre la marchandise, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre:

"3. La marchandise neutre, à l'exception de la contrebande de guerre, n'est pas saisissable sous pavillon ennemi; vessel of a neutral nationality are exempted from confiscation.

14. In cases where the contraband of war is alone liable to confiscation, and not the vessel carrying it (Article 11, head 1; Article 12, head 1), the vessel herself is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over. The delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander making the seizure, either on the spot where the seizure takes place, or after the captured ship has been brought into port.

Chapter 2.—Conditions and Consequences of the Stoppage, Examination, and Seizure of Vessels and Cargoes.

15. The right to stop, examine, and seize hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes belongs to the ships of the Imperial Navy. Vessels of the mercantile navy have a right to do so only—

(1.) When they are attacked by hostile or suspected vessels; and

(2.) When they come to the assistance of Russian or allied ships exposed to attack.

Vessels and cargoes seized on these grounds by merchant vessels must be handed over by them to the custody of the authority specified in Articles 23 and 24, and they will have the right to claim, in the event of the confiscation of the vessels and cargoes as prizes, the reward fixed for their seizure.

Observation.—The limitations fixed in this Article for merchant vessels are not to extend to cases for which special rules may be laid down under Article 4 of these Regulations.

16. The stopping, examining, and seizing of hostile or suspected vessels and cargoes is permitted in all parts of the sea and other waters, with the exception of waters which are under the domination of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special international Agreements.

17. On the declaration of war, warlike operations at sea will begin at the time indicated by the Imperial Government. In the event of a truce, those operations will be limited in accordance with the terms of the truce, and on the conclusion of peace they will cease, at the moment when the ships of the fleet receive the proper intimation of the conclusion of a truce or of peace.

18. When a Commander seizes a merchant vessel or her cargo, it is his duty to draw up a Report on the grounds and circumstances of the seizure, and also to take the necessary steps for the preservation of the captured vessel or cargo. Furthermore, when the vessel herself is seized—

(1.) The Commander will detain temporarily, together with the vessel, independently of the question whether they are to be considered prisoners of war or not, the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew whose statements may, in the opinion of the Commander making the seizure, be necessary for throwing light upon the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases; and

(2.) A list will be made of the papers found in the vessel, and they will be sealed up.

19. The master of a merchant-vessel which has been seized, and also the owners of the vessel or her cargo, and the agents of the owners, if they are on the spot, have a right to be present at the proceedings specified in the first part of Article 18 and under head 2 of the same Article, to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them, and to place their seals on any objects and holds on which seals are placed.

20. On the seizure of a ship of war, the Commander of the ship making the capture will proceed in accordance with Article 351 of the Naval Regulations (edition of 1899.)

21. In exceptional cases, when the preservation of a captured vessel appears impossible on account of her bad condition or entire worthlessness, the danger of her recapture by the enemy, or the great distance or blockade of ports, or else on account of danger threatening the ship which has made the capture or the success of her operations, it is permissible for the Commander, on his own responsibility, to burn or sink the captured vessel, after he has taken off all persons on board, and as much of the cargo as possible, and arranged for the safety of the vessel's papers and any other objects which may be necessary for throwing light on the case at the inquiry to be instituted in accordance with the procedure in prize cases. The Commander will draw up a Report, in accordance with Article 353 of the Naval Regulatious (edition of 1899), on the circumstances which have made it necessary for him to destroy the captured vessel.

22. Captured vessels and cargoes are to be taken by the ship making the capture to Russian ports, or, if there are none near, to ports of an allied Power or to the operating Russian fleet. In case of stress of weather, or other extreme necessity, the ship which has made the capture may, with the captured vessel, take refuge in the port of a neutral Power. In regard to the length and conditions of his stay in such a port, the Commander of the ship which has made the capture is bound to obey the regulations made on the subject by the Government of the place.

23. When the captured vessel or cargo has been brought to a Russian port or to the operating fleet, it is to be handed over to the naval authority together with the proper papers (Articles 18 and 21). The naval authority, after opening the papers which have been sealed up, will make arrangements for taking over, making an inventory of, and preserving, the property delivered to it, and also, in case of absolute necessity, for the sale by public auction of any articles among those handed over, which from their nature or condition will not keep. The Commander of the ship which made the capture or his representative, and the persons specified in Article 19, have a right to be present at these proceedings, and to make their observations and suggestions in regard to them.

24. The rights and duties of the naval authority, specified in Article 23, will, in the absence of such authority, be taken over (1) in Russian ports, by the local port, customs, or police authority; and (2) in ports of an allied nation, after agreement of the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs with the proper foreign authorities, by the local Russian naval agency, or Russian Consulate, or other authority.

25. The proper authority (Articles 23 and 24) will at once inform the nearest Prize Court of the arrival of the captured vessel or cargo in port, and, after taking the steps specified in Article 23, will place at the disposal of the Court the master, supercargo, and other members of the crew of the captured vessel who have been detained to throw light on the case, and also all papers relating to it.

26. Detailed Rules of Procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing, and also for taking away and handing over captured vessels and cargoes are laid down by instructions approved by the Admiralty Council.

Chapter 3.—Conditions and Consequences of the Confiscation of Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

27. The confiscation of captured ships of war and their cargoes is to be carried out in accordance with the orders of the competent naval authority. The confiscation of other vessels and cargoes which have been seized can only be carried out in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court.

28. Captured property is subject to confiscation only if it belongs to the class of articles which may be confiscated as prizes (Articles 10-12), and if its seizure fulfils the conditions laid down (Articles 2, 3, and 15-17). In the contrary case, the property is to be released and returned to its original owner.

29. If the property which ought to be returned to the original owner has been sold or released on payment of a deposit, the full sum obtained by the sale or paid as a deposit is to be handed over to the owner. If it appears that the property which ought to be returned has been destroyed by order of the naval Commander, or has perished by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve it, the equivalent of the value of the property which has been destroyed or which has perished is to be paid to the owner, the valuation to be based on such information as is supplied.

30. Apart from the restoration of property which ought to be returned, or the payment of the equivalent of its value (Articles 28 and 29), a special indemnity may be awarded to the original owner for losses caused by the seizure of the property, when it is recognized that the property was seized without sufficient reason, or that the seizure was an infringement of Agreements concluded (Articles 16 and 17). If the property is returned in a damaged condition, an indemnity may be awarded to the owner for his losses, if it is proved that the damage was caused by the fault or neglect of officials whose duty it was to preserve the property.

31. Property seized in waters which are under the dominion of a neutral Power, or from which warlike operations are excluded by special international Agreements, is not to be returned to its original owner, and he is not to be indemnified for losses caused by the property being detained or damaged, unless application is made by the neutral Power concerned, or by a Power which is a signatory of the Agreements referred to, and unless such application is made within one year from the day on which the property was seized. If no application is made within the time specified, the captured property is to be confiscated for the benefit of the State, and no prize money is to be paid to the captor.

32. The amounts to be paid under Articles 29-31 as equivalents of the value of property destroyed or of losses incurred through the seizure of property or damage to it, are to be drawn from Government funds, and repayment of such expenditure is to be claimed, in the manner established by law, in cases where such claim can properly be made, from the persons through whose fault the liability was incurred.

33. Objects confiscated as prizes become the property of the nation. Such objects are to be valued, and such of them as the naval authorities do not consider it desirable to retain are to be sold by public auction. In both cases prize money is to be paid for the capture of the property in question.

Observation.—The valuation and sale of prizes is carried out in accordance with rules issued by the Director of the Ministry of Marine in consultation with the Minister of Finance.

34. In regard to Russian and foreign vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy, and the removal and delivery of such vessels and cargoes, the general rules concerning the seizure, removal, and delivery of hostile and suspected vessels are to be observed, as well as the following special Regulations :—

(1.) Property recaptured from the enemy, although it may have been already confiscated by the enemy as a prize, is to be restored, upon a decision of the Prize Court, to the original owner, with the obligation of paying the prize-money for the recapture and the expenses incurred in connection with the recapture ; and if any property of the enemy be found on board a recaptured vessel, such property is to be considered a prize, and is to be confiscated under the general rules ;

(2.) Russian Government ships and cargoes recaptured from the enemy are to be restored to the Government without the intervention of a Court, upon the order of the competent naval authority ; and

(3.) Property of a foreigner which is recaptured from the enemy is to be restored to the foreigner, and no claim for prize-money or for the expenses of recapture is to be made against him, if it be proved that the property could not lawfully be considered a prize by the enemy, but ought to have been released ; in such a case no prize money is to be paid for the recapture.

SECTION II.—PRIZE-MONEY.

35. Prize-money is paid to those portions of the fleet (squadron, division, or ships) by which the capture or recapture of a prize has been effected, or which, at the time of the capture or recapture, were taking part in warlike operations jointly with such portions, or contributed to their success by their presence.

36. Commanders of squadrons and divisions receive a share of all prize-money awarded to portions of the fleet which are under their command. All other persons serving in the navy, including volunteers, have a right to a share of any prize-money that may be awarded to portions of the fleet, only if such persons, at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize, were present with the portion of the fleet concerned, or if, although belonging to that portion of the fleet, they were not present in consequence of wounds or mutilations suffered during the war in question, or because they were sent elsewhere for reasons connected with the operations in progress.

37. Land forces on board of ships of war are entitled to a share of prize-money only when they have taken a direct part in the capture or recapture of the prize, or have acted jointly with the naval forces in the operations at the time of such capture or recapture.

38. Apart from the persons specified in Articles 35-37, a share of the prize-money is due to persons who have exposed the prize by giving notice and information about it to the naval authorities, although such persons may not have taken part in the capture or recapture of the prize.

39. Shares of the prize-money are to be paid to the persons specified in Articles 35-37 according to the rank, designation, or duties assigned to each at the time of the capture or recapture of the prize.

40. A person giving information about a prize (Article 38) is to receive 4 per cent of the sum fixed, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46), as the amount of the prize-money.

41. The shares due to persons who have died after the conclusion of the operations for which prize-money has been awarded, and the shares due to persons killed before the conclusion of the operations in the engagement in which those operations took place, are to be divided between their widows and direct descendants, in accordance with the general law of inheritance ; if the deceased have left no direct descendants, but only widows, the full shares are to be paid to the latter ; if there are neither direct descendants nor widows, the shares are to be handed over to the Invalid Fund ; and in cases coming under the provisions of Article 19 of the Regulations regarding the Naval Pensions Fund they are to be paid into that Fund.

Chapter 2.—Amount of Prize-Money and its Distribution.

42. For the capture, by ships of the Imperial navy, of property afterwards confiscated as prize, prize-money is paid as follows, after the regular deductions have been made (Article 46) : (1) for war-ships of an enemy, their equipments and cargoes, if they were captured in an engagement, three-fourths of the value of the prize : if they were captured without fighting, half the value of the prize ; (2) for merchant vessels and cargoes, if they were captured with fighting, the full value of the prize ; if without fighting, three-fourths of the value ; and (3) for enemy's property found in Russian or foreign vessels recaptured from the enemy, the full value of the prize.

43. For the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, prize-money to the full value of the prize is paid.

44. For the capture of property (1) destroyed by order of a naval commander and adjudged, after the proper proceedings, to have been liable to confiscation ; (2) released in accordance with the decision of a Prize Court, afterwards reversed ; or (3) restored by the competent authority in accordance with the terms of a truce or peace, the prize-money is to be determined in each particular case according to the circumstances by the Admiralty Council, but is not to exceed the limits specified in Articles 42 and 43.

45. For the recapture of Russian or foreign vessels and cargoes seized by the enemy, a sum equivalent to one-eighth of the value of the recaptured property is payable as prize-money ; but if the recapture was effected in exceptionally difficult and dangerous circumstances, an amount not exceeding one-fourth of the value may be paid.

46. The value of captured or recaptured property is the amount obtained by its sale, or, if it is not sold, the estimated value, after deduction from those amounts of (1) the customs dues payable on merchant vessels and cargoes in accordance with the Customs Regulations ; and (2) the expenditure on bringing in, unloading, packing, valuing, and preserving the property, and also the expenses of sale, if a sale has taken place. Out of the total obtained in this manner, 10 per cent is to be paid to the Invalid Fund.

Observation.—On the restoration to its original owners of property recaptured from the enemy, or of money deposited to obtain the release of such property, the owners (except in the case of the Government) are bound to refund the expenses specified under head 2 in this Article.

47. The prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of the Imperial navy is divided amongst the persons having a right to share in it, in accordance with special Tables. In those Tables the persons who may have a right to prize-money are divided into classes, according to the degree of their responsibility and their several ranks, designations, and duties in the service, and also according to the measure of their participation in the capture of the prize, and to each person belonging to a particular class a certain number of shares are assigned. These Tables, after revision by the Admiralty Council, are laid before His Imperial Majesty for approval.

48. In the case of the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, the owners of the capturing vessels receive from one-fourth to one half of the total prize-money, according to the damage suffered by their vessels in capturing the prize. Each owner receives a share corresponding to his share in the ownership of the vessels. The remainder of the prize-money is divided among the crews of the capturing vessels, according to the rules in force for the division of prize-money for the capture of prizes by ships of war, with such modifications as may be necessary in consequence of the different conditions of service in the merchant navy.

49. The fixing of the amount of the prize-money for the capture of a prize by merchant vessels, and the actual division of the prize-money for the recapture from the enemy of Russian vessels and cargoes not the property of the Imperial Government, as well as of foreign vessels and cargoes, are part of the duties of Prize Courts. In all other cases the fixing of the amount of the prize-money and its division are intrusted to special Commissions and the Admiralty Council, acting under rules laid down by the Director of the Ministry of Marine, in consultation with the Ministers of Finance and War.

SECTION III.—CONSTITUTION OF PRIZE COURTS AND PROCEDURE IN PRIZE CASES.

Chapter 1.—Constitution of Prize Courts.

50. The investigation of prize cases is intrusted (1) to Port and Admiral's Prize Courts, and (2) to the Admiralty Council as Supreme Prize Court.

51. Port Prize Courts are established by the Director of the Ministry of Marine at Russian ports, and, if necessary, and with the sanction of the foreign Government concerned, at ports of an allied Power. Admiral's Prize Courts are established under Admirals having separate commands.

52. A Port Prize Court consists of a President and five members. The President of a Port Prize Court is selected by Imperial command among the officials of the Naval Judicial Department not lower in rank than Colonels. The Prize Court further consists of two members selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among staff officers of the Marine Department, two members selected by the Minister of Justice among the officials of the Judicial Department who have practical acquaintance with mercantile law and judicial procedure, and one member selected by the Minister for Foreign Affairs among the officials of his Department. In the absence of the President of the Prize Court, his duties are performed by the senior naval member of the Court. Attached to a Port Prize Court are a Procureur, a Secretary (a pay officer), and an interpreter, as well as clerks and attendants in such numbers as may be necessary. The Procureur of a Prize Court is selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine among persons who have completed a course of legal studies, or who have in their service shown that they have a good knowledge of law, and have been in legal practice. The appointment of the Secretary of the Court is in the hands of the Director of the Ministry of Marine, and the selection of the interpreter, clerks, and attendants in the hands of the President of the Prize Court. The interpreter, if he is not in the Government service, is to be sworn before entering upon his duties at the Court.

53. The President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Port Prize Court, if they receive as pay for their other posts an amount not less than that assigned to officials of naval Courts who hold similar posts, are not to receive any special remuneration for the discharge of their duties in the Prize Court; the President, members, Procureur, and Secretary of a Prize Court, if they receive pay on a lower scale than that indicated above, or if they receive no pay at all, will be permitted to draw, in the former case, pay sufficient to make up the amount indicated, and, in the latter case, pay equal to that drawn by members of naval Courts holding corresponding offices.

54. A Port Prize Court is considered to be properly constituted if the following are present, in addition to the President or his locum tenens, the Procureur, and the Secretary:—

(1) For the decision of the main issue in the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Article 58, not less than three members—one from the Ministry of Marine, one from the Ministry of Justice, and one from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs;

(2) For the decision of all other matters within the competence of Prize Courts, not less than two members, of whom one must be from the Ministry of Justice.

55. Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be constituted on principles analogous to those laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

56. An Admiral's Prize Court is formed by an Admiral, under the presidency of one of the senior commanders of ships of a squadron or division, of four naval Staff Officers, the duties of Procureur being assigned to an official of the judicial branch, and those of Secretary and Interpreter to other officers of the squadron or division. An Admiral's Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present the President and not less than three members, as well as the persons performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary.

57. The Supreme Prize Court is formed by the addition, by Imperial command, to the members of the Admiralty Council, of two Senators of the Fourth or Civil Cassation Department of the Directing Senate, and of an official of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The duties of Procureur in the Supreme Prize Court are discharged by a legal official of the Ministry of Marine, and the duties of Secretary by an administrative official of that Department. The Supreme Prize Court is held to be properly constituted if there are present, in addition to the officials performing the duties of Procureur and Secretary, not less than three members of the Admiralty Council and one Senator; and when any of the cases specified under heads 1-3 of Articles 58 are being decided, there must be present, in addition, the member sent from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Chapter 2.—Procedure in Prize Cases.

58. Prize Courts are competent to decide, under the rules of procedure laid down in Articles 50-63, cases concerning:—

(1.) The confiscation or release of captured merchant vessels and cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels and cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels and cargoes;

(2.) Compensation for losses entailed by the seizure, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes;

(3.) The restoration of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the determination of the amounts to be paid by those owners for prize-money and expenses; and

(4.) The determination of the amount of prize-money to be paid for the capture of an enemy's vessels and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the division of such amount.

Observation.—The rules of procedure in Prize Courts established at ports of an allied Power are to be settled on the analogy of the rules laid down in these Regulations, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other.

59. In cases in which any difficulty is found in regard to the procedure in prize cases, the rules laid down in these Regulations are to be considered in conjunction with the provisions of the Codes of Civil and Criminal Procedure.

PART I.—Procedure in Cases of Confiscation or Release of Captured Vessels or Cargoes, or of sums realized by the Sale of such Vessels or Cargoes, or paid in as security for Liberated Vessels or Cargoes.

60. In cases concerning the confiscation or release of captured vessels or cargoes, or of sums realized by the sale of such vessels or cargoes, or paid in as security for released vessels or cargoes, the following are recognized as parties: The Procureur, as representing the interests of the public treasury, and the original owners of the captured property or their agents, and, in the absence of the owners or their agents, the master of the captured vessel. In all questions affecting the recognition of the right to prize-money or the amount of the prize-money, the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, is entitled to the rights of a party.

61. The parties are allowed :—

(1.) To be present at all proceedings of the Prize Court, and to give explanations on any matters dealt with during these procedings ;

(2.) To produce evidence in support of their statements, and, with the permission of the President of the Court, to put questions to persons who are being examined ;

(3.) To present, orally or in writing, applications and declarations relating to the case ; and

(4.) To examine the original record of the proceedings, and to obtain copies of it and extracts of papers and documents.

62. The time and place of the sittings of the Prize Court are fixed by the President of the Court with due regard to what is laid down in Articles 64 and 73. Notice of the time and place of the sittings is to be given to the Procureur of the Court, and to any persons concerned in the case who have informed the Court of their addresses at the place where the Court meets.

63. The statements of persons who are to be examined in a Prize Court, and who do not know Russian, may be taken in writing. Such statements, as well as all documents in a foreign language, are to be translated into Russian.

64. On receiving notice that captured property has been brought in, the Prize Court will assemble on the earliest possible day, and will proceed to examine any persons belonging to the ship which has made the capture, and to the captured vessels, as well as any persons coming forward voluntarily (Article 60), whose evidence the Court considers it necessary to obtain. In cases where the captured property has been brought to a port outside the place where the Court sits, the Court will itself proceed to the spot to take the evidence, or will send one of its member for the purpose ; and if this cannot be done before the day fixed for the departure of the vessels, the Court will request the local naval or other authorities to take the evidence.

65. Apart from the taking of evidence (Article 64), the Court will, if necessary, on its own initiative or on the application of persons concerned in the case, itself proceed or else send one or more of its members to view the captured property, or will have it examined by experts.

66. It is open to the Prize Court to liberate captured property before the conclusion of the case, on receiving security in money equal to the value of the property. The value of the property is to be ascertained by a valuation carried out, under the supervision of a member of the Court, by sworn valuers, or, in the absence of such, by not less than two experts.

67. Captured property may be sold by public auction before the conclusion of the case, on the application of the parties and with the consent of the Court, if such property, owing to its nature or its bad condition, will not admit of being kept, and also if the value of the property does not, in the opinion of experts, justify the expense of keeping it. Furthermore, it is open to the Court to have captured property sold before the conclusion of the case, if it does not appear necessary for the decision of the case that such property should be kept any longer, and if the parties have signified their consent to the sale.

68. If captured property be brought to the port of an allied Power at which no Prize Court is established, the proceedings specified in Articles 64 and 65 are, after agreement between the Director of the Ministry of Marine and the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the one hand, and the competent foreign authorities on the other, to be conducted by the local Russian naval Agent or Consul, or by a specially appointed person, in the presence of not less than two witnesses—if possible, Russian subjects—resident at the place in question. After the conclusion of these proceedings, the case relating to the captured property is to be sent to the nearest Prize Court, with all papers connected with it. At the same time it is open to the aforesaid naval Agent, Consul, or specially appointed person to take the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67 with regard to the captured property, if it appear inconvenient to wait until the steps in question can be taken by the Prize Court.

69. Upon the conclusion of the proceedings referred to in Articles 64 and 65, the Prize Court will proceed to the trial of the case, and first of all will decide without delay as to the liberation of any portions of the captured property the further detention of which may in the circumstances appear to be unnecessary.

70. If it should appear to be necessary for the elucidation of the case, the Court will arrange for the collection of further evidence in the case, and will direct the exchange of papers between the parties, and call upon them to supply complementary evidence, fixing a term for such exchange and supply of evidence. The examination of witnesses produced by the parties in consequence of such direction of the Court may be conducted either by the Court itself or, at its request, by naval authorities which have not taken part in the capture of the property forming the subject of the inquiry, or else by one of the persons specified in Article 68.

71. In cases relating to merchant vessels of a neutral nationality, or merchant vessels the nationality of which is doubtful, or to cargoes of such vessels, if, in addition to contraband of war, the cargoes in question contain other objects, the Port Prize Court will, in the absence of the original owners of the captured property, address a public summons to such owners. An Admiral's Prize Court will send such cases without delay to the nearest Port Prize Court for further action, reserving the right to take, in regard to any captured property which has not been released by the Admiral's Court under Article 69, the steps contemplated in Article 66 and the first part of Article 67, if it appear inconvenient to wait till these steps can be taken by the Port Prize Court.

72. By the published notices, referred to in Article 71, the original owners of captured property or their agents are called upon to appear before the Port Prize Court, and present any evidence they may possess relating to the case within a period specified in the summons. The period is fixed by the Court, which takes into consideration the locality where it is established, and other circumstances ; but the period must not be less than one month, or more than four months, from the date of the last publication. The notices are printed three times, in three consecutive numbers of the "Government Messenger," and of two newspapers published in Russia in foreign languages, such newspapers to be selected by the Director of the Ministry of Marine. If necessary, the text of the notice may be communicated to the editors of the newspapers by telegraph. The expenses of the notices are paid out of the sum realized by the sale of the prize, or, if the prize be not sold, out of Government funds ; in the latter case, the expenditure incurred is either deducted from the value of the prize (Article 46), or refunded by the original owner (Article 46, Observation), or else borne by the public treasury (Article 82).

73. The sitting at which a decision is to be arrived at on the main issue, in a case in connection with which a summons to the original owners of captured property has been published, must not be fixed for a date previous to the appearance of the owners or their agents before the Court, or the expiration of the period fixed in the notice for their appearance.

74. The trial in a Prize Court begins with a report by one of the members of the Court explaining the circumstances of the case. After the reporting member has explained the principal points, the Court hears the statements of the Procureur and of such of the persons concerned in the case as are in Court. Having determined, according to inward conviction, the significance and relative force of the evidence in the case, the Court gives its decision on the main issue, or separate decisions on different questions arising from the case. A decision as to whether captured property is to be released or confiscated is given by the Court, even if the property in question has been destroyed by order of a naval commander. If the property has been captured in the waters of a neutral Power, or in waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, the Court makes any decision at which it may arrive for the confiscation of the property, conditional on no application for its restoration being made within a year from the day of capture (Article 31).

75. Decisions of a Prize Court are arrived at by a majority of votes. If the votes are equal, the President has a casting vote.

76. The decision of the Court upon a case is announced by the President at the sitting at which it is formed. When announcing a decision the President fixes a day on which the parties may appear for the reading of the written decision of the Court, and he also explains to the parties the steps which are necessary for making an appeal against the decision, and the time allowed for the purpose. The decision and judgment of the Court must be drawn up within a fortnight from the day on which the finding is announced, and must contain a statement of the considerations on which it is based. Decision and judgments of a Court are considered to be published on the day fixed for their reading.

77. The parties, including the commander of the ship which has made the capture, or his agent, have the right to lodge an appeal. The appeal, accompanied by as many copies as there are parties in the case, has to be lodged with the Court which has given the decision, within a month from the publication of the decision (Article 76). If the term allowed for appealing has been permitted to expire for reasons of special weight, it rests with the Court which is to decide the appeal to determine whether the term of the appeal may be prolonged. Petitions for the prolongation of the right of appeal are to be lodged within a fortnight from the date of the publication of the decision of the Court declaring that the term for appeal has expired. Special appeals against the decision of the Court refusing to prolong the term for appeal may be sent in within a fortnight from the date of the publication of such decision.

78. On receiving the appeal, the Prize Court communicates copies of it to the Procureur and to the other persons concerned in the case whose interests are affected by the appeal, if those persons have given notice of their addresses in the locality where the Court is established; if they have not done so, the copies of the appeal intended for them remain in the Court. The original appeals are forwarded with the records of the proceedings in the case, to the Supreme Prize Court, to which are also forwarded the special appeals, referred to in Article 77, against the refusal of the Prize Court to prolong the term for appeal. Any declarations of persons concerned in the case in regard to appeals communicated to them are to be sent by those persons direct to the Supreme Prize Court before the date fixed for the hearing of the case by it.

79. If an appeal be not lodged within the term allowed, any decision to the effect that captured property is to be confiscated is to be carried out as soon as the aforesaid term has expired. In the event of an appeal being lodged, the execution of such decision is to be deferred until the appeal has been decided.

80. A decision to the effect that captured property is to be released is to be carried out immediately upon the publication of such decision, if it is in accordance with the conclusions of the Procureur, and has the concurrence of the commander of the ship which made the capture or of his agent. If these conditions are not fulfilled, such decision is not to be acted upon until the term allowed for lodging an appeal has expired. If such appeal is lodged, the captured property is to be valued in the manner described in Article 66. The Court can, at its discretion, allow the release of the aforesaid property before the decision of the appeal, either on the deposit, as security, of a sum of money equal to the value of the property as estimated by a valuation, or without such deposit. If disputes should arise in regard to the ownership of property released, the restoration of the property to its original owner is to be deferred until such disputes have been settled in the manner laid down by law, or until one of the parties claiming the property has paid a deposit in money equal to the value of the same.

81. Any expenses of keeping captured property after the moment when the person or department in whose custody it is has received notice of a decision that such property is to be released without payment of a deposit, must be borne by its original owners.

82. Captured property which it has been decided to release, and which is not claimed within six months from the date on which the decision to release it became legally binding, may be sold by public auction. If within ten years from the date on which the decision became law no one comes forward with proofs of his right to property the release of which has been decided upon, such property, or the sum realized by its sale, falls to the public treasury, which will bear all expenses of keeping such property or money.

83. The Rules laid down for Prize Courts in Articles 62 and 73–76 are applicable to the procedure in the investigation of appeals against the decisions of Prize Courts by the Supreme Prize Court, and also to the mode of publication of decisions of that Court.

84. The Supreme Prize Court investigates only those parts of decisions of a Prize Court against which appeals are made by persons concerned in the case. The annulment of decisions to the effect that captured property is to be released and restored to its original owner without any demand for a deposit, in spite of the circumstance that an appeal has been lodged (Article 80), entails the award in the manner laid down in Articles 44 and 49, of prize-money corresponding to the value of such portion of the property released as is found, by the decision of the Supreme Prize Court, to be liable to confiscation as prize.

85. There is no appeal from decisions of the Supreme Prize Court; after they have been given, copies are to be communicated to the competent naval authorities for execution.

86. Petitions, declarations, appeals, and other documents in cases in Prize Courts and in the Supreme Prize Court, as well as the records of those Courts, are exempt from payment of stamp or other dues. Persons, other than the Procureur, obtaining copies of papers are charged 40 kopecks per sheet. No remuneration is fixed for the conduct of cases in Prize Courts or in the Supreme Prize Court.

PART II.—Procedure in Cases relating to Compensation for Losses in consequence of the Detention, Destruction, Loss, or Injury of Merchant Vessels and Goods, to the return of Merchant Vessels and Cargoes recaptured from the Enemy to their original owners, and, to the fixing of the Prize-money and Costs payable by those owners, and also to the determination of the amount of Prize-money for the Capture of Enemy's Ships and Cargoes by Merchant Vessels and the distribution of such money.

87. Cases concerning—

(2.) The return of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the fixing of the prize-money and expenses payable by such owners; and

(3.) The determination of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with in accordance with the rules laid down in Articles 60–86, with the exceptions and additions specified below (Articles 88–93).

88. Cases concerning compensation for losses arising from the capture, destruction, loss, or damage of merchant vessels and cargoes are dealt with by Port Prize Courts, and can only be initiated on the petition of the persons who have suffered losses, or their agents. The persons who have suffered losses, or their agents, and the Procureur as the representative of the interests of the Government, have the rights of parties in such cases.

89. The cases referred to in Article 88 are dealt with simultaneously with cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, and the decisions arrived at are based on the evidence presented or indicated by the parties. The decisions on the cases concerning losses are given simultaneously with those on the cases concerning the confiscation or liberation of captured property, or else separately. Decisions in cases concerning losses may be appealed against within one month, and such appeal is a bar to the execution of the decision appealed against.

90. Cases concerning the return of merchant vessels and cargoes recaptured from the enemy to their original owners, and the fixing of the amount of prize-money and expenses payable by those owners, are dealt with by Port Prize Courts. These cases are dealt with by Admiral's Prize Courts, only if the orignal owners of the recaptured property, or their agents, are present; if they are not present, the Admiral's Courts hand over the cases to Port Prize Courts to be dealt with.

91. In the cases referred to in Article 90, the rights of parties are enjoyed by the original owners of the recaptured property or their agents, and the commander of the ship which has made the recapture or his agent, and by the Procureur. In dealing with these cases, the Port Prize Courts, if necessary, address a summons to the absent owners by the publication of a Notice, and on the appearance of the owners or their agents, or on the expiration of the term allowed for their appearance, the Courts pronounce their decision on the main issue. Appeal may be lodged within a month against the decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

92. The return of recaptured property to its original owners is permissible—(1) before the decision has been given and has become legally binding—only on condition that the owners deposit as security a sum equal to any amount that they may be called upon to pay for prize-money and expenses (Articles 45, 46, Observation, and 66); and (2) after the decision has become legally binding—on condition that the owners pay the prize-money and expenses for which they have been found liable. Apart from the cases contemplated in Articles 67 (first part) and 82. the sale of recaptured property is also permissible if the original owner presents an application for its sale. When property which ought to be returned falls to the Government (Article 82) the latter pays all expenses and also the prize-money.

93. Cases concerning the fixing of the amount of prize-money for the capture of enemy's ships and cargoes by merchant vessels, and the distribution of the money, are dealt with by Port Prize Courts. These cases are initiated on the petition of the members of the crew of the vessel which made the capture, and those persons and the Procureur have the rights of parties. Appeal may be lodged within a month against decisions of Prize Courts in these cases.

(Signed) MICHAEL,
President of the Imperial Council.

INSTRUCTIONS.—On Procedure in Stopping, Examining, and Seizing, and also in Removing and Delivering Captured Vessels and Cargoes.

§ 1. Ships of the Imperial navy, acting under the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," are to be guided, as regards the actual procedure in stopping, examining, and seizing merchant vessels, and also in removing and delivering captured vessels and cargoes, by the following rules, in addition to any declarations and other orders issued by the Government on the occasion of war.

Observation.—Inter alia, it will be necessary to define the neutral territorial sea, and the other waters from which operations of war are excluded by special international Agreements, and where, under Article 16 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," it is not permissible to stop, examine, and seize ships and cargoes.

STOPPING.—Procedure in Stopping.

§ 2. A ship desiring to stop another should make for her, hoist her flag, and fire a blank gun-shot in her direction. At the same time a signal may be made according to the International Code.

In order to stop a vessel at night, it is necessary, when firing the blank shot, to have the lights on the masts and distinguishing lights exposed.

Resistance to Stopping.

§ 3. If, in spite of a shot being fired, the vessel does not stop, a ball must be sent past the bows of the retreating vessel. If she still resists stoppage, it is permissible to fire at her and pursue her in order to force her to stop.

When commencing to fire at the vessel, it is desirable to fire the first shot over her hull between the masts. But such leniency is not obligatory, especially if a steamer which is being stopped has an advantage in speed by which she may hope to escape from her pursuer.

Any vessel which has made a clear attempt to escape from a cruiser, in consequence of which the latter has been obliged to pursue her and to use force to stop her, is liable to be seized; it is, however, open to the Commander of the cruiser, if he consider it desirable, after stopping the vessel, to subject her to an examination as a preliminary, and make his further action depend on the result of the examination.

EXAMINATION.—Preliminary Proceedings.

§ 4. For the examination a sufficiently experienced officer and several men of the crew are to be selected; an assistant storekeeper, &c., may usefully be included. Two officers having some acquaintance with foreign languages should be included if there are any such on board.

§ 5. It is desirable that some reliefs of officers and men should be selected before-hand for the examination. Officers and men sent to make the examination should be armed with revolvers. It is useful to agree beforehand upon some simple signals (with an oar, a handkerchief, a little flag, &c.).

When the pursuit begins, the officers selected for the examination should get their men ready, and take the latitude and longitude of the Imperial ship.

§ 6. The Imperial cruiser should get as close as possible to the vessel she is stopping, taking all proper precautions in doing so.

Observation.—It is necessary to bear in mind the unfortunate consequence of a collision. The vessel may prove to belong to the enemy. One must expect hostile acts, and a desire to injure the cruiser by a collision.

§ 7. After the boat with the officers and men has put off, the Imperial cruiser should remain in such a position during the examination that those on board can keep the boat in sight all the time, and witness the proceedings on the vessel which is being examined. The guns should be loaded, and the master-gunners at their posts.

The Officers on Board.

§ 8. When the party reach the stopped vessel, note should be taken in the boat of her name and port. An officer accompanied by two men should then go on deck. If two officers are sent for the examination, the officers and one man should go on deck.

Observation.—The rest of the men should only go on deck when the examination of the papers is concluded and the examination of the whole vessel commences. The number of men to be sent on board depends on the size of the vessel and the officers' view (e. g., there may be four, six, or more men).

§ 9. The junior officer must remain on the upper deck all the time, and must not go below. It is his duty to watch all that happens on the deck of the vessel which is being examined, and also to keep his eye on the boat and the signals of his own ship. The seamen who has also gone on board should assist him. The examination of the papers and vessel should be carried out by the senior officer. If only one officer is sent to make the examination, the duties of the junior officer should be undertaken by the senior of the two seaman who have gone on deck with the officer.

§ 10. The behaviour of the officers and men towards the master, crew, and passengers should be polite and in every way consistent with the dignity of the naval profession.

If the vessel which has been stopped offers resistance to the examination she is liable to be seized.

Examination of Papers.

§ 11. The examination begins with a request of the master—

(a.) To state the name and nationality of his vessel.

(b.) To state what port she is bound for, and where she comes from.

(c.) To produce his log-book and all papers concerning the vessel and cargo.

Annexed is a list of the principal ships' papers found in merchant vessels of certain nationalities (Appendix I).

§ 12. When proceeding to examine the papers, the officer should pay special attention to the log-book, and should endeavour to make himself acquainted with all the circumstances of the voyage, the place on the map where the master considers himself to be, and the last entries in the log-book.

§ 13. In examining the papers relating to the nationality of the vessel, the officer should note the port of registry, the number of the register, the names and nationality of the owners, the place where, and the time when, the vessel was built, and also whether it was bought from subjects of the enemy after the declaration of war, with the object of protecting enemy's property.

14. When examining the papers relating to the cargo, the officer should determine the nature and amount of goods, the place from which they have been brought and their destination, and the names and nationality of the consigners and consignees. At the same time, it is important to ascertain whether there are among the goods any articles of contraband of war,* and who are the owners of the cargo, subjects of the enemy or of a neutral Power.

§ 15. In examining the papers concerning the composition of the crew and the passengers, the officer should ascertain the nationality and calling of these persons, and should endeavour to determine whether there are among the passengers any persons belonging to the enemy's forces, and which of the crew could be detained under Article 18 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes."

§ 16. After concluding the examination of the vessel's papers, the officer should request the master to produce any mails that may be on board, and should search them for correspondence of the enemy and for any packages addressed to the enemy's ports.

§ 17. The officer should take notes concerning all papers shown to him, and should write down all that he considers most necessary. When examining the papers, he may at his discretion address questions to the master, mate, and other members of the crew.

Consequences of the Examination of Papers.

(a.) If the vessel proves to belong to the enemy.

(b.) If there are no ship's papers, particularly such as make it possible to determine the nationality of the vessel and to verify the circumstances of her voyage ; or if the ship's papers are thrown overboard, or destroyed in any other way.

(c.) If there are among the papers any which make the officer suspect that the vessel belongs to the enemy.

(d.) If the officer comes to the conclusion that the papers are not genuine.

(e.) If it appears from the papers that the vessel has been bought by the subject of a neutral State from subjects of the enemy, and there is reason to suppose that a fictitious sale has taken place with the object of protecting enemy's property.

§ 19. If the officer is convinced that the papers are in perfect order, that the vessel is really a neutral one, that there cannot be amongst the goods on board any articles of contraband of war intended for the enemy, and generally that there is no ground whatever for detaining the vessel, he should leave her without delay, observing the rules laid down below in §§ 28, 29, and 30 (Conclusion of the Examination).

§ 20. If the officer has doubts about the truth of the information obtained from the examination of the papers, especially if the vessel is bound for an enemy's port, or if he has reason to suppose, from the general indications of the movements, direction, and position of the vessel stopped, that the eventual destination of the vessel or of her cargo is an enemy's port, he should proceed to the examination or search of the whole vessel, in order to ascertain whether there are any objects of contraband of war in her cargo.

Examination of Vessel (Search).

§ 21. The examination of the whole vessel (or search) should be carried out by the officer with the assistance of several of his men, who will leave the boat when summoned by him.

§ 22. The number of sailors coming on board may be four, six, eight, or more, according to the size of the vessel to be searched and the views of the officer. If it appears that there are not enough men in the boat, more may be summoned from the ship by signal. The men selected for a search should be intelligent, active, and experienced.

§ 23. The examination of the holds presents considerable difficulties, and may give rise to complaints on the part of neutrals who suffer undeservedly. The officer should, therefore, first consider which portion of the cargo appears most suspicious from the want of precision of the papers, and should first turn his attention to that portion. The behaviour of the officer and men should be polite, but they must not hesitate to do their duty in every particular.

§ 24. During the examination of the holds the officer is bound to insist on the presence of the master at all his proceedings : the officer next in rank to the master need only be present if absolutely necessary.

§ 25. The master while present at the search is bound, on the demand of the officer who conducts the search, himself to unlock all locks and holds which the officer may wish to examine, to point out any objects which require special care in handling, and to show the proper way of opening any particular packages (chests, barrels) which may be selected for a more detailed examination. If the master should refuse to open a hold when requested to do so by the examining officer the vessel is liable to be detained.

§ 26. During the examination or search, the officer may, in order to make the work easier, put questions to the crew and passengers, in order to obtain necessary explanations in regard to the vessel and cargo. It is also advisable to pay attention to certain external signs—for instance, to the marks which are found on the funnels of the steamers of various companies, and which may be painted over.

§ 27. The officer should desist from further examination of the vessel as soon as he has convinced himself that there is no contraband of war in the cargo, and that there is nothing suspicious in the vessel. Every article which has been moved should be put back in its place as quickly and carefully as possible, in accordance with the directions of the master.

Conclusion of Examination.

§ 28. Having concluded the examination, the officer will enter in the log-book, in the Russian language, the time and place of the examination (latitude and longitude), the name of his ship, the name of her commander, and the result of the examination. The entry may be made in accordance with the annexed form (Appendix 3).

§ 29. Before leaving the vessel, the officer will request the master to give a written certificate (if possible, in his native language) to the effect that he has no complaint to make, or, if he has any complaint, to put it in writing.

* In regard to articles of contraband of war, see Appendix II.

§ 30. When leaving the vessel, the officer should inform the master that she must not continue her voyage until he has returned to the Imperial ship and reported to the commander. The officer will draw up a detailed report in writing on his proceedings.

§ 31. If the vessel is liable to seizure, the officer should give a signal to that effect, and return to his ship, taking with him the papers and the master and other persons whose statements may be required.

DETENTION.

Commission.

§ 33. A Commission is to be formed on the Imperial ship of three officers (one of them the officer who conducted the examination), which is to draw up a detailed Protocol on all the proceedings and discoveries at the examination and present it to the commander for confirmation.

Drawing up of Protocol.

§ 34. The Protocol is to be written in Russian. In it should be described in detail the nationality, class, and name of the vessel ; the names of the master and owners ; the number of the crew and their nationality ; all the circumstances connected with the stoppage of the vessel ; all papers produced by the master, and the contents of such papers ; all circumstances connected with the examination of the papers and the vessel ; all information in regard to the cargo, and everything found in the vessel ; all statements of the master, supercargo, boatswain, and other persons questioned.

Protest of Master.

§ 35. The contents of the Protocol are to be translated to the master orally, and he is to be requested to sign the Protocol. He is not, however, obliged to sign it. A note should be made on the Protocol that it has been read and translated to the master.

Any protest of the master (in writing) should be annexed to the Protocol and any discrepancies explained in the Protocol itself.

Observation.—As the drawing up of the Protocol and the examination of the master and other persons of the crew may take a considerable time, the cruiser is authorized to compel the merchant vessel to take a particular course, while the cruiser, following her, proceeds with the matter on the way.

Decision of Commander.

§ 36. When the Protocol has been drawn up and signed by the members of the Commission, it is to be submitted to the commander, who should append his decision to the Protocol. In deciding whether the vessel or cargo should be detained he should be guided by the following considerations.

§ 37. The following vessels are liable to detention :—

1. All enemy's ships of war and merchant vessels (see Articles 9 and 10 of the Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes).

Observation.—If, in accordance with special international Agreements concluded by the Imperial Government, certain of the enemy's ships are to be considered not liable to capture, such ships are, nevertheless, liable to detention if their proceedings are such as are described under head 2 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), of this paragraph (see the second portion of Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes").

2. Neutral merchant vessels :—

(a.) If they are conveying to the enemy any quantity whatever of articles required for shooting with fire-arms, objects or substances used for causing explosions, or military forces of the enemy (see head 1 of Article 11 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes") ;

(b.) If they are conveying to the enemy other objects of contraband of war to an amount exceeding in bulk or weight half of the entire cargo (see head 1, (b), of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

Observation.—If the amount of such contraband of war is less than half of the entire cargo, the vessel is to be detained only until the contraband has been handed over ; the delivery may take place, at the discretion of the commander, either on the spot where the vessel has been detained or after she has been brought into port (see Article 14 of the aforesaid Regulations.)

(c.) If they are found breaking an effective blockade of which notice has been given (see Article 2 and head 2 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(d.) If they have offered armed resistance to stoppage or examination (see head 3 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations) ;

(e.) If they have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy (see head 4 of Article 11 of the aforesaid Regulations).

3. All suspicious vessels, even if they are flying a neutral flag. (See Article 16 of the aforesaid Regulations). The following and other similar proceedings are grounds for considering a merchant vessel suspicious :—

(a.) If the vessel does not stop her engine or heave to on the summons of the cruiser, and the latter is consequently obliged to pursue her and use force to stop her (see § 3 of these Instructions) ;

(b.) If the vessel has no papers, or has false or suspicious papers (see § 18 of these Instructions, heads (b), (c), (d) ;

(c.) If there is reason to believe that the vessel has been fictitiously sold to the subject of a neutral power after the declaration of war (see § 18 of these Instructions) ;

(d.) If the vessel after being stopped resisted examination, or if the master refused to open a hold on the demand of the examining officer (see §§ 10 and 25 of these Instructions).

Cargoes.

§ 38. The following cargoes may be detained :—

1. Enemy's cargoes conveyed in enemy's vessels (see Article 10 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes") ;

2. Enemy's and neutral cargoes in neutral vessels which have infringed neutrality, i.e. (see Article 12 of aforesaid Regulations) :

(a.) In neutral vessels which have taken part in hostile operations of the enemy ;

(b.) Which have offered armed resistance to stoppage, examinatian, or detention ; and

(c.) Which have been found breaking a blockade.

3. All cargoes which constitute contraband of war, with the exception of arms and provisions forming part of the equipment of a neutral vessel herself (see Article 12, head 1, and Article 13 of the aforesaid Regulations).

When vessels or cargoes are detained, the rule is observed that articles intended for the personal use of the crew or passengers are not to be detained (see Article 10, head 1, of the aforesaid Regulations).

With the exception of the above-mentioned cases, the following rules are to be observed :—

(1.) A neutral flag covers an enemy's cargo, with the exception of contraband of war (see Article 2, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

(2.) Neutral goods, except contraband of war, are not subject to detention under an enemy's flag (see Article 2, head 3, and Article 10, head 2, of the aforesaid Regulations).

CONVEYANCE.—Procedure of Conveyance.

§ 39. Captured vessels and cargoes may be conveyed, at the discretion of the commander of the Imperial cruiser, either to a port or to the operating fleet. They may either be taken by the cruiser herself, or may be sent to port independently in charge of a Russian officer and crew ; the commanding officers are to be guided by the rules laid down in Articles 351–353 of the Naval Code, edition of 1899. If a captured vessel is sent alone, the original ship's papers and documents relating to her capture should remain in the hands of the commander of the cruiser, and copies should be supplied to the officer placed in charge.

Destruction of Captured Vessels.

§ 40. In the following and other similar exceptional cases, the commander of the Imperial cruiser has the right to burn or sink the captured vessel, after taking off the persons on board, and, if possible, the whole or part of the cargo, and also all papers and articles which may be necessary for the elucidation of the case in the Prize Court:—

(1.) When it is impossible to preserve the captured vessel on account of her bad condition.

(2.) When there is danger of the vessel being recaptured by the enemy.

(3.) When the captured vessel is of very little value, and her conveyance would take too much time and entail too great a consumption of coal.

(4.) When conveyance appears difficult in consequence of the distance or blockade of the ports to which the vessel should be brought.

(5.) When the conveyance may prevent the success of operations of war in which the Imperial cruiser is engaged, or expose her to danger.

The commander should draw up a report, to be signed by himself and all his officers, explaining the circumstances which have induced him to destroy the captured vessel. He should transmit the report to his superior officer by the first opportunity.

Observation.—Although Article 21 of the Regulations of 1895, in regard to Naval Prizes, allows the burning or sinking of a captured vessel by the commander, "on his own responsibility," the latter incurs no responsibility whatever if the captured vessel is really liable to confiscation as a prize, and the exceptional circumstances in which the Imperial ship is placed imperatively demand the destruction of the captured vessel.

Replacing Own Ship by Ship Captured.

§ 41. If it appears that a ship which has been captured, and which ought to be destroyed under the preceding Article, is in construction and sea-going qualities better than the Imperial ship, the commander has the right to replace his own ship by the prize, and to burn or sink his own ship.

Entry of Neutral Ports.

§ 42. An Imperial ship, while conveying captured vessels, may enter the port of a neutral Power which has not forbiden in its declaration of neutrality (or in some other official declaration) the visit of its ports by ships of war of the belligerents with their prizes.

Furthermore, an Imperial cruiser may take refuge in the port of a neutral Power with captured vessels under stress of weather or other urgent necessity (e. g., the breaking down of the engines, insufficiency of provisions, pursuit by a stronger force of the enemy); in that case the commander is bound, as regards the duration and other conditions of his stay in the neutral port, to comply with the regulations made by the Government of the locality.

DELIVERY

At Russian Ports or to the Operating Fleet.

§ 43. As soon as a captured vessel or cargo has been brought into a Russian port it is to be handed over to the local naval authority (or in the absence of such to the port, customs, or police authority), with all the papers and with all persons on board who have been detained for the elucidation of the case.

If the captured vessels and cargoes are brought to the operating fleet, they are to be handed over to the officer in command of the squadron.

The proper naval or other authority should open the sealed papers and make arrangements to receive the property handed over, to have an inventory made of it, and to preserve it, and also take steps for the sale by public auction of such articles as from their nature or condition cannot be kept.

The following persons are entitled to be present during these proceedings: firstly, the commander, or one of the officers of the Imperial ship which has effected the capture; and, secondly, the master of the captured vessel, and also the owners of the vessel and cargo, or their agents, if the owners or agents are on the spot.

All the persons present have the right to make suggestions and observations in regard to the proceedings of the local authority which takes over the vessel or cargo.

At Foreign Ports.

§ 44. If the captured vessel or cargo is brought to the port of an allied Power, delivery is to be made to the local Russian naval agency, or to the Russian Consulate, or to some other authority to which, under agreement between the Russian Government and the foreign Power concerned, the duty of receiving prizes is assigned.

Notification to Authorities.

§ 45. The commander of an Imperial ship is bound to inform the Director of the Ministry of Marine without delay at the first opportunity, by telegraph, of the capture of vessels and cargoes and also of their conveyance to a port and their delivery.

APPENDIX II TO § 14 OF THE INSTRUCTIONS APPROVED BY THE ADMIRALTY COUNCIL, SEPTEMBER 20, 1900 (MINUTES NO. 4487, ARTICLE 38076).

In accordance with Article 13 of the "Regulations in regard to Naval Prizes," notice is given in a special declaration, for general information, of the articles considered to be contraband of war. The following have been stated in declarations to be such articles :—

(a.) All kinds of arms, small-arms, and guns, both put together and in parts ;

(b.) Articles and stores required for shooting with fire-arms, such as projectiles for guns, fuses for projectiles, bullets, caps, cartridges, cartridge cases, powder, nitre, sulphur ;

(c.) Chemicals or substances used for causing explosions, such as torpedoes and mines, dynamite, pyroxyline, and other explosive compounds ;

(d.) Articles belonging to artillery, engineer, and army train, such as gun-carriages, mountings, cartridge and ammunition chests or packs, field smithies, field kitchens, instrument carts, pontoons, bridge trestles, train harness, &c. ;

(e.) Articles of army equipment and clothing, such as wallets, cartridge boxes, haversacks, bandoliers, cuirasses, intrenching tools, drums, cooking-kettles, saddles, horses' harness, finished articles of uniform, tents, &c. ;

(f.) Sea-going vessels bound for an enemy's port, even under a neutral merchant flag, if from the construction of their hulls, their internal arrangements, and other evidences, it is clear they are constructed for warlike purposes, and are going to the enemy's port for sale or delivery to the enemy ;

(g.) In general, all other articles directly intended for war on land or sea, if they are being conveyed on behalf of, or are destined for, the enemy.

By the expression "destined for the enemy" is understood conveying to his fleet, to one of his ports, or even to a neutral port, if the latter is shown by clear and indisputable evidence to be simply an intermediate station on the way to the enemy, the latter being really the ultimate destination.

The following acts are considered to be on the same footing as contraband of war, with the same consequences for a neutral vessel or cargo :

1. The transport of enemy's troops, military detachments, and individual soldiers ; and
2. The conveyance of enemy's despatches, i.e., business correspondence between enemy's chiefs and their agents who are on a ship or on territory belonging to or occupied by the enemy.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS under the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands, the property of the Dominion Government in Manitoba, the North-west Territories and British Columbia, established by Order in Council, dated 19th May, 1902, provision is made for the sale of lands containing anthracite coal at an upset price of $20.00 an acre, and for coal other than anthracite at an upset price of $19.00 an acre, subject to the payment of royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on the output of the mine;

And whereas it is represented that settlers in the vicinity of coal mines have in the past been able to secure their supply of coal for fuel purposes at the rate of from $1.00 to $1.50 per ton, delivered at the pit's mouth; but that recently, where only a limited number of mines are being operated in any locality, there has been a tendency on the part of the mine owner to object to this class of trade, as loading the coal directly into cars is probably more convenient for him then disposing of it to the settler;

And whereas there appears to be no reason why the settlers should be required to pay an additional price for having the coal carried by rail to the nearest station if they can have the hauling done themselves,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order and doth hereby order that the Regulations for the disposal of coal lands above referred to be amended by providing that all sales of such lands shall in the future be made subject to the provision that actual settlers shall be entitled to buy, at the pit's mouth, whatever coal they may require for their own use, but not for barter or sale, at a price not to exceed $1.75 per ton, and that the patent which may be issued for coal lands shall be made subject to such provision.

JOHN J. McGEE,
43-4 Clerk of the Privy Council.

[Ref. 460,205]

AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

Wednesday, the 23rd day of March, 1904.

PRESENT:

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS section 33 of the Quartz Mining Regulations, established by Order in Council of 21st March, 1898, provides that the holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to the surface rights, including the use of all timber thereon for mining and building purposes in connection with the working of such claim for the purpose of developing the minerals contained therein;

And whereas it is represented that quartz mining locations are sometimes staked out for the sake of the timber thereon,—

Therefore, the Governor General in Council is pleased to order that section 33 of the said Quartz Mining Regulations shall be and the same is hereby rescinded and the following substituted in lieu thereof :—

"The holder of a mineral claim on vacant Dominion Lands shall be entitled to all surface rights, including the right to cut free of dues such of the timber on the location as may be necessary for the working of the same, but not for sale or traffic, except where such timber has been granted or disposed of prior to the date of entry. The Timber Agent, however may permit any free miner to cut and remove from the claim timber for his own use for mining purposes, when such timber cannot otherwise be had within a reasonable distance, but no such permit shall convey the right to cut or remove timber required by the holder of the claim for his mining operations."

"In the Yukon Territory the timber on a mineral claim shall, subject to the rights existing at the time of the application therefor, be reserved until the Mining Recorder certifies that the same is required for use in connection with mining operations actually in progress on such mineral claim, when the right to use such timber, or any portion thereof, free of dues, may be given the holder of such mineral claim by the Crown Timber and Land Agent with the approval of the Commissioner of the Territory. The Commissioner, however, may authorize the Timber Agent to issue a permit to any free miner to cut and remove from such mineral claim timber required by him for his own use in mining operations when such timber cannot otherwise be obtained by such free miner within a reasonable distance of the place of his mining operations."

JOHN J. McGEE,
42–4 Clerk of the Privy Council.

(44) Gut of Canso—Information respecting tides.

The following information respecting the tides in the Gut of Canso has been compiled by Dr. W. B. Dawson, F.R.S.C., Engineer in charge of the Tidal and Current Survey. It is based upon the tidal information which has been obtained by this Survey, in the waters into which the Gut opens at the two ends. It should be inserted in the St. Lawrence Pilot, vol. ii, sixth edition, 1895, in place of the first paragraph on the tides of the Gut of Canso on page 235 of that publication.

Tides.—It is high water, full and change, at the north and south entrances of the Gut of Canso, at 9h. 15m. and 8h. respectively. Ordinary springs rise 4 feet, neaps 2 feet ; but at times the tides may rise 6 or 7 feet, or only 2 feet. There is the same apparent irregularity also in the tidal streams ; the flood stream sets to the northward and the ebb to the southward ; but the duration of these streams varies from one to four hours after it is high or low water by the shore.

These apparent irregularities are due to the difference in the character of the tide itself, at the two ends of the Gut of Canso. The investigations of the Tidal and Current Survey of Canada have shown that the tide in the region of Northumberland strait, which shows a marked diurnal inequality, is chiefly governed by the declination of the moon. The declination-month overruns the period of the moon's phases, so that the large diurnal inequality characterizes sometimes the spring tides and sometimes the neaps. While these changes recur periodically at the northern end of the Gut, the tide at the Atlantic end maintains the usual variation in height from springs to neaps with great regularity. As the current through the Gut depends on the difference in the height of the tide at the two ends, it necessarily shows great complexity under these conditions.

Before this explanation was found by the investigation of the tides themselves, mariners supposed that the currents were chiefly governed by the wind. The winds no doubt have a disturbing effect, more especially as the range of the tide is not great ; but it is more than probable that the behaviour of the tidal streams in this Gut could be brought into relation to astronomical changes, if the moon's declination were kept in view as the leading factor, with greater influence on the result than the change from springs to neaps.
